SOME HOPE FELT FOR CEASE-FIRE COVERING ENTIRE AREA OF FIGHTING

But Many Fear Move Is Red Propaganda — U.S. Officials Said to Be Involved in Discussions.

VIENTIANE, May 2 (AP)—A truce meeting between a Laotian government officer and a Pathet Lao rebel major has brought a provisional end to fighting on the front 45 miles north of here, Gen. Phoumi Nosavan said today.

The pro-Western government's military chief reported that the two officers met yesterday afternoon and that fighting had halted "provisionally and theoretically" by 5 p.m.

Foreign Minister Tiao Sopsaisana said the cabinet was encouraged to hope that the contact could lead to an over-all cease-fire, first step to ending civil war between the Communist-backed rebels and the government forces.

U.S. Officials Take Hand.

The government's truce emissary went out yesterday to a point just north of Vang Khy, a town on the front. It was his second attempt to make contact with the rebels.

Top Laotian government and American military officials joined the meeting last night, one informed source said.

Phoumi said the government's truce representative was Lt. Col. Siho Lamholinthakhoun, chief of the department of national co-ordination, a security police group.

Sopsaisana said Siho was sent north again today with instructions to seek an immediate nation-wide cease-fire, covering the fighting that has edged to within 25 miles of Vientiane and yesterday was threatening to spill over into the northwest.

Siho was instructed to make arrangements for a political meeting later.

It was stressed that the meeting yesterday was not a talk to arrange a cease-fire but was only an initial contact.

Cabinet Discussion.

Prince Boun Oum's cabinet was meeting in Vientiane today to discuss the situation.

It was the first time enemy factions have got together to discuss an armistice since a para-troop coup last August overthrew a pro-Western regime and fanned the civil war into an international crisis.

There was still grave doubt in many quarters in Vientiane that a cease-fire would result. Some observers suggested that the rebels have agreed to the battlefield meeting for propaganda purposes.

There was a feeling that the Pathet Lao might lay down conditions for a cease-fire that the Western - backed government would find unacceptable. One likely demand was for the immediate withdrawal of American

U.S. DECLARES CUBA A MEMBER OF RED BLOC

Castro Rule More Communistic Than Iron Curtain Nations,' State Department Says.

WASHINGTON, May 2 (AP)—The United States declared today Cuba has become a member of the Communist bloc and accused Fidel Castro of a rule even more Communist than other Iron Curtain countries.

Under Castro's proclamation that Cuba is a Socialist state, a United States statement said, Castro is using the same term that the Russians and others use to describe themselves. Furthermore Castro is going the Communists one better, the statement said, by:

1. Putting an official end to elections in Cuba. The other Red countries normally at least go through the form of holding elections even though the voters do not have a choice of candidates.

"The Cuban has but one choice, namely to say 'Si,' at mass meetings called by Castro the way Hitler and Mussolini used mass rallies for their version of showing the so-called will of the people," the United States statement said.

"The average Cuban is in trouble if he so much as shrugs his shoulders. And the tragic part of this is he is in real trouble, to be thrown in jail or even put to death, if he says no."

2. By using the term Socialist to describe Cuba under his rule, Castro is going further than all the other Red countries because only the Soviet Union and Czechoslovakia term themselves "socialist republics" in this stage of their avowed drive toward a Communist society.

Since even Communist China does not consider itself to have reached the socialist stage yet, the United States statement said, "it would therefore appear that Castro considers Cuba further along the Communist road than some other countries in the bloc."

The United States statement was issued through the State Department by press officer Lincoln White who said under questioning:

ALDERMEN ASK DR. SMITH FOR PLAN TO CLOSE ONE HOSPITAL

Consolidating City and Phillips Institutions Would Mean Substantial Savings, Health Director Says.

Dr. J. Earl Smith, director of health and hospitals, was asked by the aldermanic Ways and Means Committee today to submit a plan for closing one of the city's two general hospitals—City and Homer G. Phillips. The number of patients in the hospitals has declined in recent years.

The committee, which is studying the 1961-62 administration budget submitted last week, was told by Dr. Smith that substantial economies could be achieved by consolidation of the two hospitals into one institution.

These economies, he said, would include reduction of personnel costs, elimination of duplication in services, including nursing schools, and more efficient administration.

For Higher-Level Decision.

Asked by Alderman Joseph W. Martino (Dem.), Eighth ward, why consolidation had not already been suggested in view of the possible economies, Dr. Smith replied:

"The matter has been discussed, but a decision would rest in a higher echelon than mine."

Questioning of the health and hospital director by Martino developed that present bed capacity of City Hospital is 907, but that this could be increased to 1057 with reopening of three divisions now closed.

Bed capacity of Homer Phillips now is about 600, having recently been reduced from about 700 by diverting of bed space to storage and other purposes, Dr. Smith said.

Patient load at each of the hospitals is about 450, or a total of 900, he said.

About 1100 persons are employed at City Hospital, and its proposed budget for 1961-62 is $5,183,910. The Homer Phillips payroll is about 1000 and its proposed budget $4,722,000.

Some Consolidations.

Dr. Smith pointed out that some consolidations already have been achieved in the hospital division, including consolidation of all psychiatric treatment at Malcolm Bliss Mental Health Center. Homer Phillips, Koch and Chronic Hospitals formerly had psychiatric divisions.

Substantial economies have also been accomplished by consolidation of laundry services and of collection of hospital bills from patients at all the city hospitals, Dr. Smith said.

One of the reasons for the drop in patient load at the hospitals, Dr. Smith explained, is that many persons now have hospital insurance and as a result choose hospitals other than the city institutions. Another reason is recent steps by the city in collecting costs from patients able to pay for hospitalization.

Dr. Nelson's First Task.

Dr. Smith said yesterday that the first job to be taken on by the city's new hospital commissioner, Dr. Kenneth R. Nelson, would be elimination of duplication in hospital facilities. Dr. Smith made the statement as Dr. Nelson reported for duty.

One possible move which has been discussed by city officials has been to concentrate all general hospital cases at City Hospital and convert Homer Phillips into a hospital for chronic patients. Clinic facilities recently completed there would continue in operation.

In other action the Ways and Means Committee asked Acting Street Commissioner Frank Kriz to see if it would be possible to cut $100,000 from the proposed $6,384,750 budget of the Department of Streets.

A bill to appropriate $100,000 for a survey and plans and specifications for a new Chronic Hospital was introduced in the board today. It was one of 10 bills appropriating 1955 bond issue funds for various public improvements.

The other bills would appro-

—Associated Press Wirephoto.

ALAN B. SHEPARD NAMED AS PILOT WITH GLENN AS HIS ALTERNATE

Outlook for Thursday Is Good — Time for Firing 140 Minutes Away When Countdown Is Halted.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla., May 2—(UPI) — The United States postponed its first man-in-space shot attempt today because of bad weather.

The shot will be delayed for at least 48 hours.

It was also confirmed that Alan B. Shepard, 37-year-old Navy commander, had been selected to be the first American in space. His home is in East Derry, N.H.

The decision to delay the shot, originally scheduled for 7 a.m. (St. Louis time) came at 7:35 a.m. after Shepard had received his final physical examination and had put on his space suit.

The shot was to put him 115 miles into space.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration for safety reasons had laid down minimum weather rules for the cape and the recovery area 290 miles down range in the Atlantic.

When it became evident that an overcast was not going to clear up by noon, the deadline for a shot today, officials canceled the launching until at least Thursday. Weather men said the outlook for Thursday was good.

Shepard went back to crew quarters in NASA's big Mercury hangar to wait out the next two days.

Squally Weather.

Squally weather which set in yesterday drenched the Cape from time to time in today's early hours, frequently interrupting the final 390-minute countdown.

Shepard's alternate, ready to go if anything should happen to disqualify him, is Marine Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr., 39-year-old combat and speed flier from New Concord, O.

Unofficial sources had indicated first that Glenn was the alternate, but then had said that 35-year-old Virgil I. Grissom, Air Force pilot from Mitchell, Ind., had been chosen.

After today's postponement, NASA confirmed that Shepard was No. 1 but said Glenn would be in the No. 2 spot Thursday.

The postponement was a disappointment to thousands of men in the Mercury program but was not unexpected.

The NASA announcement this morning said:

"An attempt to launch a manned Mercury spacecraft here today has been postponed due to bad weather here and in the recovery area down-range.

"The pilot selected for the first manned flight attempt was Alan B. Shepard Jr. He was prepared for the flight but held in the pilot's preparation area. No new launch date has been set but the minimum recycle time is 48 hours. The pilot will remain in crew quarters in the NASA Mercury hangar here."

Built by McDonnell.

The capsule for the space shot was built by the McDonnell Aircraft Corp. of St. Louis.

The 33-ton Redstone rocket with the Mercury capsule sitting on its nose had been fueled to blast off from pad No. 5

Now the rocket must be drained of its liquid oxygen, dried, and made ready for another fueling. This is the reason for the delay of at least 48 hours.

Should the shot be delayed past Friday; however, it must be put off until next Tuesday to give the seven-ship recovery fleet time to come in, take on fuel, and get back on station.

The pre-launching countdown had started yesterday and was resumed early today with scientists, technicians, and crewmen checking every piece of wire, every electronic device, every part of every system in the rocket and capsule.

Count Interrupted.

Repeatedly in the early hours officials interrupted the count to hear from meteorologists how the weather was.

When the count got to T-140 minutes, with the shot theoretically two hours and 20 minutes away, the weather men said no for today.

Shepard and Glenn ate a

32-DEGREE COLD TIES RECORD LOW FOR THIS DATE

A chilly 32 degrees was recorded at Lambert-St. Louis Field at 6:30 a.m. today, tying the record low temperature for this date set 32 years ago.

The minimum was 19 degrees below the normal low. More cold weather is in prospect for tomorrow morning, with a low of 38 to 45 predicted.

Cold weather was brought here by an Arctic air mass which moved in the night from the northern border states into Oklahoma and northern and central Texas.

U.S. BIRTH RATE CONTINUED TO RISE IN FEBRUARY

WASHINGTON, May 2 (AP)—An increase in the number of births continued through February, the Public Health Service reported yesterday. The February total of 333,000 estimated registered live births compares with 329,000 in February 1960.

That is an increase of about 1.2 per cent but when adjustment is made for the extra February day in 1960 the increase is 4.7 per cent. An increase from last year has been shown for six months of the seven-month period ended with February.

The service reported also that the national death rate in February was 9.8 for each 1000 population, a decrease of 12.5 per cent under the 11.2 rate in February 1960. The mortality rate in February 1960 was unusually high, however, due to an influenza outbreak.

30-DAY OUTLOOK: TEMPERATURES TO BE BELOW NORMAL

WASHINGTON, May 2 (UPI)—The Weather Bureau predicted yesterday that temperatures this month would average below seasonal normals over the northern half of the nation and in the South Atlantic states.

Above normal temperatures were forecast for the Southwest and West Gulf states. Near normal temperatures were indicated in other areas.

Precipitation was expected to exceed normal over the eastern third of the country and the Pacific Northwest. Subnormal amounts were predicted for the Southwest, with near normal in unspecified areas.

U.S. MAY REQUEST U.N. OBSERVERS BE SENT TO LAOS

Cease-Fire Call Would Precede Step, Veto by Soviet Would Be Bypassed.

By E. W. KENWORTHY
© New York Times News Service

WASHINGTON, May 2—The Kennedy Administration is seriously considering asking the United Nations to send observers to Laos after a call for a cease-fire, informed diplomatic sources said yesterday.

These sources said the Administration had not made a decision on taking the Laos problem to the U.N., but they expected a decision would come soon.

Several Discussions on It.

According to authoritative sources, the question of bringing the Laotian problem to the U.N. was discussed at the White House meeting that President Kennedy called late Sunday afternoon after he cut short his weekend in the country and returned to Washington.

It was understood that the question was discussed again yesterday afternoon in the expanded National Security Council meeting. Among outside experts on hand were United Nations Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson, Treasury Secretary C. Douglas Dillon, Under Secretary of State Chester A. Bowles and armed forces secretaries.

After the meeting, Pierre Salinger, White House press secretary, would say only that the discussions had dealt with the developments in Southeast Asia. Another expanded session of the National Security Council will be held late today.

Pressures for U.N. Action.

These are the factors that, sources here say, have been impelling the Administration toward submission of the Laotian problem to the U.N.:

The Communist-led Pathet Lao forces have been delaying negotiations with the royal Lao government on strictly military arrangements for a cease-fire. Meanwhile, the Communist-led insurgents have continued to move forward until

UDALL ASKED HIM TO SELL TICKETS, OIL MAN ASSERTS

Secretary 'Appalled' to Learn That Letters for Kennedy Dinner Were Sent to 56.

By RICHARD DUDMAN
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 2—Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall acknowledged today that he had asked a friend in the oil business to bring some guests to a $100-a-plate dinner honoring President Kennedy.

But Udall said he was "appalled" when he learned that his friend, J. K. Evans of the Asiatic Petroleum Co., had mailed out a wholesale solicitation to 56 oil and gas industry representatives, lobbyists and public relations men.

The Secretary attempted to explain his role in the fund solicitation at a press conference called hastily after the Washington Daily News appeared on the street with a fasimile of the letter and the headline: "It's Udall again."

"I said I hoped, just as he had helped me fill the Arizona table at fund-raising dinners before, he would bring some friends to this dinner," Udall said. "I had in mind maybe four or six persons, as before."

Udall recalled telling Evans that he "had a lot of tickets to sell" but denied there was any set quota.

No Solicitation Asked.

"I say categorically I did not ask him to solicit the gas and oil industry," the Secretary said.

The letter, dated April 5 and written on Evans's personal stationery from his home in Washington, began:

"Secretary Udall, who happens to be a friend of long-standing, has asked me as a personal favor to him to solicit the oil and gas industry in Washington in an effort to help the Secretary dispose of his 'very sizable quota of tickets for the Jefferson-Jackson day dinner.'

"The dinner will be held on President Kennedy's birthday on May 27. Tickets are $100 per plate or $1000 for a table of 10. It is being held at the National

JAPAN SURPRISED BY EISENHOWER CALLING OFF TRIP

TOKYO, May 2 (AP)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's decision to call off his trip to Japan surprised Japanese officials today.

Foreign Minister Zentaro Kosaka told a press conference he had not expected Eisenhower to call off his trip but he conceded that student demonstrations always are possible and "even the slightest incident would reduce the pleasantness of his visit."

Kosaka said it was unthinkable that anything like last year's bloody leftist riots against the United States-Japan security treaty would recur if Eisenhower came here.

"But you cannot tell what the students will do," he said. "There exists a problem because the government has a very weak legal basis for suppressing troubles when they occur."

Kosaka said both he and Prime Minister Ikeda wanted to invite Eisenhower again.

Eisenhower had planned to come here in October. He announced at his Gettysburg home that he had canceled his trip at the request of the State Department.

GOLD BRICKS SCATTERED ON ROAD IN ACCIDENT

WARSAW, Ky., May 2 (AP)—A traffic accident strewed gold bricks worth millions of dollars along United States 42, eight miles east of here, yesterday.

A four-truck convoy carrying the gold from Fort Knox, Ky., to New York was delayed nearly an hour when the lead vehicle, a Brinks armored car, overturned.

Armed guards stacked the bricks in three piles about three feet from the roadside and waited for Brinks trucks to arrive from Cincinnati.

Military Analyst of the Post-Dispatch.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla., May 2—Officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration expressed fear today that the publicity build-up for America's first man-in-space shot may do harm to America's prestige.

Their views were made known as the first astronaut-launching was postponed because of poor weather conditions.

More than 1000 newspaper men, domestic and foreign, radio and television representatives and magazine reporters are here to cover the launching.

Here is the reasoning behind the fears of the NASA people:

Even if the shot is successful, the United States will remain some years behind the Soviet Union in its capacity to explore outer space.

The officials fear the shot would be built up beyond its real importance. It is, they stressed, scheduled only as a training flight for one astronaut as well as a further checkout of the Mercury capsule and its systems to maintain human life in space. The capsule was built by the McDonnell Aircraft Corp. of St. Louis.

Vanguard Failure Cited.

On the other hand, officials said, if the flight should fail after the excessive build-up, the reaction would be still more harmful to United States prestige.

The failure of the over-publicized Vanguard program was cited. It was supposed to put the first satellite into orbit.

The United States is behind the Soviet Union in exploration of space primarily for one rea-

Red Carpet a Yard Too Short, Queen's Landing in Italy Held Up

NAPLES, Italy, May 2 (AP)—Queen Elizabeth's arrival on the Italian mainland was delayed today by a yard of red carpet.

The red carpet had been stretched across the pier to where officials had calculated the gangway of the royal yacht Britannia would come down.

The gangway fell one yard short, and the carpet could not be moved because it had been nailed down.

The welcoming party milled about on the pier as aids raced away to city hall and raced back with a one-yard piece of carpet to fill the gap.

Welcomed by Mayor Achille Lauro, the royal guests were taken on a two-hour tour of the city.

Later, the Queen and her husband, Prince Philip, traveled in President Gronchi's special train to Rome. As a security measure, helicopters flew ahead of the train. Soldiers were stationed along the track 500 yards apart.

The Queen will have an audience with Pope Pius XXIII on Friday.

U.S. Sells 3 Horses in Tax Case; Amish Group May Go to Canada

NEW CASTLE, Pa., May 2 (UPI)—Three workhorses were sold at auction yesterday by the Federal Government and brought $152 more than was owed in social security taxes by the Amish farmer from whom they were seized. The high bidder at $460 was a horse dealer from Youngstown, O.

The Internal Revenue Service seized the three horses in lieu of what it said was $308 in social security taxes owed by the farmer, Valentine Y. Byler. He is a self-employed farmer, as are many other members of the Amish sect in this area.

The seizure of the horses was a severe blow to Byler. Members of the amish sect are prohibited by their religion from using mechanical devices such as automobiles and tractors for transportation or in their work. Several Amish have indicated they may sell their farms here and move to Canada.

SHOWDOWN VOTE IN HOUSE LIKELY TOMORROW ON MINIMUM WAGE

Compromise Bill Agreed On by Conference Committee Comes Close to Original Kennedy Proposal.

By EDWARD F. WOODS
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 2—The Democratic bill for a $1.25 an hour minimum wage and broadened coverage of the law, approved by conferees of the House and Senate, moves to another showdown vote in Congress tomorrow.

The wage bill compromise worked out yesterday by the conference committee comes close to what President Kennedy originally requested. Therefore the proposal faces a stiff fight in the House where, in March, Republicans aided by many Southern Democrats, defeated the Administration version of a new pay law by one vote and substituted a G.O.P. plan.

The House-passed bill would have increased the minimum wage from the present $1 an hour to $1.15. It would have restricted extended coverage of the act to employes of chain stores operating in five or more states. This would have restricted the broadened base to about 1,000,000 new workers.

The Senate later passed its own bill increasing the minimum to $1.15 for the first two years after enactment and to $1.25 thereafter. It also provided extended coverage for 3,620,000 new workers, mostly in the retail and service trades.

Conference Compromise.

In conference yesterday, House spokesmen abandoned the measure passed in their chamber in favor of the major features of the Senate bill. For their part, the Senate conferees agreed to whittle about 400,000 from the extended coverage provisions.

Coverage concessions by the Senate conferees were intended clearly to make the conference committee report less contentious when it comes up in the House for approval or rejection. The Senate is expected to approve the compromise, probably tomorrow prior to the scheduled House action.

Biggest concessions by the Senate were the dropping in conference of 140,000 laundry workers, 305,000 employes of automobile dealers and about 17,000 transit workers. Action on the laundry workers was taken by the Senators reluctantly and only after Representative Adam Clayton Powell (Dem.), New York, chairman of the House Conference Committee, predicted defeat for the entire measure in the lower chamber if they were not eliminated.

This aroused the wrath of Senator Barry Goldwater (Rep.), Arizona, who accused the group of eliminating the laundry workers for "political reasons" to win votes in the House. Other members of Congress joined in Goldwater's criticism.

Rise in Gradual Steps.

In addition to going along with the House on the laundry workers, the Senate conferees agreed to provisions which would bring full minimum wage and 40-hour-week benefits to the newly-covered workers in gradual steps over a five-year period. The Senate bill would have provided for reaching these goals in four years.

The Democratic leadership hoped for a victory in the House to offset the defeat the Administration suffered in the first test on the proposed legislation. But none of the Democrats would go as far as Powell, who said he expected the compromise plan to be accepted by a margin of 13 votes.

Should the compromise measure be adopted, it would mark the first time since President Franklin D. Roosevelt got the original act passed in 1938 that there has been any extension of the workers covered.

The Department of Labor estimates that the pending measure would mean pay rises immediately to $1 an hour for 663,000 of the newly-covered workers and to $1.15 an hour for 1,900,000 of the 23,900,000 workers at present under the law.

SALINGER FLIES TO PARIS TO PLAN KENNEDY'S VISIT

© New York Times News Service

WASHINGTON, May 2—Pierre Salinger, White House press secretary who has never been issued a passport or traveled abroad, made his first trip to Paris in style last night.

Carrying a diplomatic passport, Salinger rode in an Air Force jet transport as one of the party of White House officials making preparations for President Kennedy's visit to France on May 31.

Others in the group included Kenneth O'Donnell, White House appointments secretary; Col. Godfrey McHugh, presidential Air Force aide and numerous secret service, Army signal corps and State Department employes.

Armed Passenger Forces Pilot Of Airliner to Fly to Havana

MIAMI, Fla., May 2 (AP)—A man, armed with a steak knife and pistol and using the name of an old-time buccaneer took command of an American airliner over Florida yesterday and forced it to fly to Cuba.

As the seven frightened passengers stayed in their seats, the self-proclaimed "El Pirata Cofres:" told the pilot that Rafael Trujillo, Dominican Republic strongman, had offered him $100,000 to assassinate Fidel Castro.

He said he had no intention of carrying out the mission because he considered Castro a "good guy" and wanted to "spill the beans" to him.

When the two-engine National Airlines plane landed at an airport near Havana, Castro militiamen hustled the man away, then the plane was permitted to return to Florida.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation and other Government agencies pressed an investigation today to determine the real name of Cofresi and his purpose.

"El Pirata Cofresi" means "the pirate Cofresi," a freebooter who sailed the Caribbean and West Indies area in the early Nineteenth Century. In buying his ticket here for the scheduled Miami-to-Key West run, the man had given his name as "Mr. Cofresi, Elpir." Then he told the ticket clerk that the letters "ata" should be added to the "Elpir."

The plane had just taken off from an intermediate stop at Marathon, a Florida key, when the man went into action.

A slim, unshaven man wearing dark sun glasses and a straw hat which he never removed, he slipped into the cockpit and placed a knife at the throat of Capt. Francis X. Riley of Miami Shores. Then he pulled out a small, silver-plated pistol and ordered co-pilot J. T. Richardson of Jacksonville to leave the cockpit.

Taking the co-pilot's seat and turning off the radio, he said: "Let's go to Havana."

Riley said, "He kept pointing the gun at me the rest of the trip. He spoke perfect English and said he was an American citizen who fought in the Korean War — but he looked Cuban.

"I talked to him to see if his mind could be changed, but he was intent on getting to Cuba. He said Trujillo had offered him $100,000 to kill Castro.

"But he said he was going to spill the beans to Castro. Then he said, 'If I don't see Havana in 30 minutes, we'll all die.'"

As the plane passed over Key West, about 90 miles from Havana, the pilot zig-zagged as a signal of distress but nobody got the message.

The captured plane approached Cuba as Castro, climaxing a May day celebration of the recent defeat of invading rebels, was building up to a speech proclaiming Cuba a socialist (Communist - style) country which would have no need for such bourgeois things as elections.

Riley radioed for permission to come down at Jose Marti field, where commercial planes usually land in Cuba.

Marti field radioed back:

"Get out or you'll be shot down."

"I explained to them," Riley said, "that it was an emergency, that I was out of fuel and everything else I could think of. Finally they told me to go to San Antonio field, a Cuban Air Force base 25 miles southwest of Havana."

Soldiers swarmed around the plane when it landed. Riley said that before Cofresi was hustled off to downtown Havana, to be interviewed by the authorities, he turned to Riley and said softly: "I'm sorry to have to do this to you — sorry to have inconvenienced you."

The Cubans treated the plane crew and passengers correctly. After taking down their story, they offered them refreshments, which were refused and gave them 100 gallons of gasoline to return to Florida.

"They seemed eager to get rid of us," said Arthur H. Goldberg of New York, an ensign with the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey, who, with his wife, was a passenger on the plane.

The plane flew back to Key West and then to Miami.

CONFERENCE SET BY HEADS OF 20 AFRICAN NATIONS

MONROVIA, Liberia, May 2 (AP) — Seventeen presidents of African republics and three African heads of governments will meet in Monrovia May 8 for a conference on African problems.

The countries whose Presidents will attend are Cameroons, Central African Republic, Chad, The Congo Republic (Brazzaville), Dahomey, Gabon, Guinea, Ivory Coast, Liberia, Mali, Malagasy, Mauretania, Niger, Senegal, Sudan, Togo and Upper Volta.

Prime Ministers who will attend as heads of governments are those of Libya, Nigeria and Sierra Leone. Ethiopia, Tunisia and Somalia may send representatives rather than chiefs of state.

Only Ghana, Morocco and the United Arab Republic have failed to answer invitations. The newspaper Liberian Age said yesterday those three nations, all participants in the January Casablanca conference, "seek to divide Africa into blocks and differing camps." The Monrovia conference, it said, "will seek unity by negotiations rather than by subversion and propaganda."

LOUISVILLE SCHOOL BOARD ELECTS NEGRO AS HEAD

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 2 (AP) — The first Negro ever elected to the Louisville Board of Education, Woodford R. Porter, was elected its chairman yesterday.

Porter, elected to the board in 1958, succeeds Scott Detrick, who vacated the office and his board seat when he filed for the Democratic nomination for sheriff April 5. Porter has been vice chairman since January.

DAY TO SEEK RISE IN FOURTH CLASS MAIL RATE SOON

WASHINGTON, May 2 (AP)—Postmaster General J. Edward Day notified the Interstate Commerce Commission yesterday he will submit proposals soon for increasing the rates on fourth class mail, including parcel post and catalogs.

The ICC, which has jurisdiction over these rates, granted the last fourth class increase, averaging 17 per cent, in late 1959, with the charges being advanced in February 1960.

The notice to the commission followed announcements of advances in foreign mail rates to be made effective July 1, and a request by the Postmaster General that Congress increase rates for all other classes of mail. The program is designe' to wipe out the continuing postal deficit now running more than $800,000,000 a year.

Day said the specific proposals for parcel post have not been completed, but noted this service is losing about $86,000,000 a year.

Late Vice President Told Him to Meet With Competitors, W. S. Ginn Testifies.

WASHINGTON, May 2 (AP)—A former General Electric Co. vice president—fined, jailed and out of his $135,000-a-year job as a result of price-fixing scandals—named today the late Henry Van Erben, once G.E. executive vice president, as the man who told him to meet with competitors.

The ousted G.E. officer, William S. Ginn, swore to Senate investigators that:

Ralph J. Cordiner, chairman of the board of G.E., told him twice, once in 1954 and again in 1957, to comply with anti-trust laws.

Robert Paxton, who recently retired from the G.E. presidency, "never ordered or condoned any meetings with competitors." Ginn said that so far as he knew Paxton did not know about the meetings.

Ginn received the heaviest individual penalties when a United States district judge in Philadelphia passed sentences earlier this year on 29 companies and 45 individuals pleading guilty or no contest to charges of price-fixing and bid rigging on millions of dollars worth of electrical equipment. He was fined $1,500 and given 30 days in jail. In addition, Ginn was ousted from his high-salaried job.

Testifying today before Senator Estes Kefauver's anti-trust and monopoly subcommittee, Ginn said Van Erben told him about 1950 to meet with competitors and, in doing so, to "short circuit" Paxton, who at that time was head of G.E.'s transformer division in Pittsfield, Mass., and Ginn's immediate superior. Ginn was then the division's sales manager.

Ginn said Cordiner's instructions that he comply with anti-trust laws came in general talks, after he had received promotions, and that there was no indication Cordiner knew he had in fact been meeting with competitors.

By United Press International.

Earlier, Ginn said he had met secretly with competitors each month to divide government contracts. He said that in 1946 he met with competitors he identified as E. J. Markley of Westinghouse and Joe McMullin of Allis-Charlmers.

Ginn said they discussed prices generally, prices to be quoted on jobs and allocation of government contracts.

Ginn said the companies divided the choice government jobs on the basis of how well the firms did in private business.

For example, he said G.E. handled about 30 per cent of the contracts in private competition. Therefore, it was agreed that G.E. would get about 30 per cent of the government contracts.

Ginn and his successor at Pittsfield, Raymond W. Smith, were reported to have been called to give secret testimony to a new federal grand jury in Philadelphia. The Department of Justice recently empaneled the jury to dig deeper into the price fixing plot.

Yesterday Kefauver called seven high officers of the Westinghouse Electric Corp. to tell what they know about price riggings by electric equipment makers.

Kefauver said the Westinghouse executives would testify Thursday and Friday. Six of the seven were convicted of violating the anti-trust laws in the price fixing case.

Dulles Telling Senate Group Of CIA Role in Cuban Fiasco

Appears Before Closed Session of Foreign Relations Committee—Declines to Talk With Reporters.

WASHINGTON, May 2 (AP)—Allen W. Dulles, director of the Central Intelligence Agency, went before a closed session of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee today for questioning of the role of the CIA in the ill-fated Cuban rebel invasion.

As he entered the committee room, Dulles declined to talk with reporters about the Cuban situation or about operations of his secret agency around the globe.

The full committee stepped into the inquiry at the suggestion of Senator Wayne Morse (Dem.), Oregon. He is chairman of the Latin American affairs subcommittee which questioned Secretary of State Dean Rusk for three hours yesterday.

Morse said he urged Senator J. William Fulbright (Dem.), Arkansas, Foreign Relations Committee chairman, to take over today so the questioning of Dulles can go "into the whole extent of CIA activities around the world."

Morse said it was clear from Rusk's testimony that American officials knew of the plans for the Cuban invasion and provided training, arms, financial and other assistance.

"I'm satisfied it (the State Department) was a joint participant with the Defense Department, the CIA and the White House," Morse said of United States support of the exiles.

Morse said Rusk made it clear that if Prime Minister Castro commits aggression, such as an attack on the United States naval base at Guantanamo bay, the United States "will defend itself."

Morse said he thought the United States violated international treaties when it supported the invasion without hemisphere consultation.

Ask if Rusk agreed, he replied, "The Secretary is going to file a brief."

CANADA TO SELL RED CHINA $362,000,000 IN GRAIN

OTTAWA, May 2 (UPI)—Agriculture Minister Alvin Hamilton announced today that Canada will sell $362,000,000 worth of wheat and barley to Red China over the next three years.

The deal, the largest grain transaction in Canadian history, involves 186,700,000 bushels of wheat and 46,700,000 bushels of barley, Hamilton told the House of Commons. Terms of payment are 25 per cent cash and the balance in 170 days.

The deal follows within three months the cash sale of 28,000,000 bushels of wheat and 12,000,000 bushels of barley, to Red China.

MISSOURI TOWN APPROVES SCHOOL BONDS ON 15TH TRY

CONWAY, Mo., May 2 (AP)—School District R-1 finally has approved a $198,000 bond issue—on its fifteenth try.

A count of absentee ballots yesterday showed that the bonds carried, 923 to 457, a margin of nine votes over the required two-thirds majority.

4 EX-NAZIS MAY GIVE EVIDENCE IN EICHMANN TRIAL

All Want to Testify in Germany—Could Be Arrested if They Go to Israel.

JERUSALEM, May 2 (AP)—Four former Nazis were named today by Adolf Eichmann's lawyer to testify on his behalf. Dr. Robert Servatius said they would show Eichmann was just a cog in the Nazi machine and could have made no decisions himself about wiping out Germany's Jews.

Two of the witnesses Servatius named were convicted of war crimes after World War II. Another is in jail pending an investigation into his wartime activities. The fourth is a former German Foreign Office official.

Israeli Attorney General Gideon Hausner immediately said all four are regarded as offenders under the Israeli war crimes law and would be arrested if they came to Israel.

Servatius indicated all the witnesses want to testify in Germany.

Servatius named these men:

Former SS Maj. Gen. Franz A. Six, one-time department head in the Reich security office. He was sentenced to 20 years in prison at the Nuernberg war crimes trials for his role in the einsatzgruppen (extermination commandos) but the sentence was later commuted. He is free in West Germany.

Dr. Max Merten, former German military governor in Salonika, Greece, who was convicted by a Greek court and sentenced to 20 years in prison. The sentence was commuted shortly after his conviction. He now is a lawyer in West Berlin.

Former SS Maj. Hermann Krumey, a deputy of Eichmann in Nazi-occupied Hungary. Krumey now is under arrest in Frankfurt pending an investigation into Auschwitz concentration camp atrocities.

Eberhard von Thadden, Jewish affairs adviser to the German Foreign Office. An investigation into Von Thadden's case was ordered suspended by a Cologne court for insufficient evidence.

SHARP CRITICISM OF LAND-USE PLAN EXPRESSED AT MEHLVILLE

Open Space Provisions Bitterly Opposed Among 275 Attending Hearing on Areas 17 and 19.

The proposed St. Louis county land-use plan was strongly opposed last night at a public hearing at Mehlville High School, 3200 Lemay Ferry road.

The most critical remarks were directed at parts of the plan that would set aside large areas for open space or rural use. Several persons contended this would result in great financial sacrifice for owners of this property.

As in previous hearings, objections were also voiced by persons owning homes adjoining proposed industrial sections, developers who want more land for small lots and holders of property now zoned commercial that would become residential if the recommendations of the plan are carried through.

275 At Hearing.

About 275 persons attended the hearing on the plan for the southernmost part of the county. All of the area under discussion is unincorporated, with the exception of the municipality of Bella Villa.

When asked how many opposed the plan, nearly everyone stood. No one rose to indicate approval of the plan.

One man suggested that residents of the area band together and hire attorneys to fight the plan. "Some of us are going to lose everything if the plan is enacted. I for one would just as soon lose a few hundred dollars fighting it legally," he declared.

Harvey E. Konradi, a real estate broker and developer, charged that the changes in zoning that would follow adoption of the plan would make fortunes for persons "who, through mere chance, will then own property that will fall in the high density classification."

"Conversely," he continued, "those people who now own land presently zoned at 20,000 square feet per lot and now find this land scheduled for rural or open space classification will face financial ruin."

An attorney representing a family that owns several large tracts of land in that area protested the plan would lead to changing the zoning of nine of these parcels.

He asserted that studies have shown that the need for homes of $25,000 and up has mostly been supplied. "What we do need is a lot more high-density zoning for little people who need small homes on small lots," he said. "In spite of this, I find practically none of this type of land in this area."

Planning Called Useless.

The need for any planning at all was sharply attacked by another speaker. Pointing out that in the past, 20-year plans have been found in error by as much as 15 years, he asked, "Who know's what is going to happen in 20 years? I don't think the planning commission is capable of determing what the situation will be 20 years from now."

Hermann F. Wagner, county planning director, answered that the plan would be a flexible one and could be changed easily to meet new needs as they develop. "If we don't look forward to the future, all we can do is live in the past," he declared.

Noting that all businesses engage in planning, Wagner said that a plan is necessary to determine future needs for schools, highways and commercial development. The reason that past plans have gone awry, he said, was because no agency was watching trends in the county.

Wagner noted that under present procedure, a developer acquires property and then petitions for rezoning with little consideration given to desires of nearby property owners. "We hope that under this plan enough land has been set aside for various categories so it will not be necessary for this to happen," he said.

Industrial Sites Scarce.

In answering a man from the Lemay area who objected to industrial sections being scattered amonv residential areas in the plan, Wagner said, "One of the hardest uses for which to find land in St. Louis county is industrial. The locations we have chosen are level enough for industrial needs and have adequate transportation facilities.

"If you are going to have a balanced tax base, you are going to have industrial areas in the county. And since the county is primarily residential, you are going to have to have industry next to residential areas."

He said it was hoped that any zoning ordinance would set up restrictions for this industry. "I know of many industrial areas which enhance the value of surrounding residential property," he said.

For purposes of study, the county has been divided into 19 areas. Last night's hearing was on Areas 17 and 19. Area 17 is bounded on the northwest by the proposed Interstate 55 Expressway, on the northeast by St. Louis, on the east by the Mississippi river and on the southwest by Lindbergh boulevard and the proposed Circumferential Expressway.

Area 19 is bounded on the north by the proposed Circumferential Expressway and Lindbergh, on the east by the Mississippi, on the south by the Meramec river and on the west by the proposed Interstate 55.

Major features of the plan for this part of the county include beautifying Jefferson Barracks, constructing a major new shopping center at the intersection of Lemay Ferry road and Lindbergh, development of an urban renewal plan for parts of the Lemay-Luxembourg area and setting aside 2781 acres for rural use.

A hearing on Area 1 will be held at 7:30 p.m. today at Larrimore School, Larrimore and Trampe roads. This area is in the extreme northeast part of the county.

BURGLARY SUSPECT SEIZED WITH LOOT, ANOTHER FLEES

Patrolman Louis Landsbaum of the Page boulevard district arrested a burglar yesterday as he and an accomplice were carrying their loot along the Hodiamont streetcar tracks in the rear of 5147 Kensington avenue.

Landsbaum was cruising in the area and became suspicious when he saw the two men laden with articles, some wrapped in a bed sheet. He arrested a man who identified himself as Henry N. Scott, 30 years old, 5100 block of Kensington. The other man fled.

Police said Scott admitted breaking into the apartment of Mrs. Lillian Bradshaw, 1012 Clarendon avenue, and stealing a portable radio, portable television set, typewriter, camera and several phonograph records. Scott had been bitten on the thumb by Mrs. Bradshaw's dog.

EX-CONVICT FOUND GUILTY OF STOLEN BONDS CHARGE

Sherman A. Gendron, a former convict, was found guilty today of receiving and concealing $13,300 worth of stolen series E United Stotes savings bonds. The verdict was returned by a jury in the court of United States District Judge Roy W. Harper.

Sentencing of Genron, 400 block of Iron street, was deferred by Judge Harper until May 11, when motions which may be filed in the case also would be heard. Gendron took the stand in his own defense and denied any knowledge of the charge.

He was arrested with Vito Biondo, 1500 block of Hogan street, last Jan. 25 in an automobile in St. Louis. The bonds had been stolen earlier in a Collinsville burglary. Biondo pleaded guilty yesterday and his sentencing also was deferred until May 11 by Judge Harper, who directed the probation and parole office to investigate Biondo's background.

POLICE SEARCH BILL ADVANCES IN STATE SENATE

Committee Recommends It Along With Measure for Stiffer Drug Sale Penalties.

By HERBERT A. TRASK
State Political Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, May 2—The search and seizure powers of St. Louis police would be strengthened materially under a bill recommended for passage by the Senate Criminal Jurisprudence Committee last night.

The committee approved a measure providing stiffer penalties against narcoics peddlers, a proposal designed to help stamp out the increasing illegal traffic in drugs in St. Louis.

Both measures are sponsored by Senator John W. Joynt (Dem.), St. Louis, at the request of Circuit Attorney Daniel P. Reardon Jr. A third criminal code reform measure backed by Reardon, which would provide heavier penalties for carrying concealed weapons, was held up for further study by the committee.

At a committee hearing several weeks ago, the St. Louis circuit attorney said St. Louis police should be granted the same powers Kansas City police have to stop and search persons suspected of carrying concealed weapons.

Increase in Cases.

Reardon reported there has been a sharp increase in concealed weapons cases in St. Louis, but many of these charges are thrown out of court on the technical ground that the search and seizure exceeded the present police powers in the city.

Under the other approved bill, the sale of narcotics would be punishable by a minimum sentence of five years, and the courts could not suspend sentence or grant a parole. At present, the minimum penalty is a fine and jail term not exceeding one year.

The bill provides also that if the offender had a prior narcotics conviction, the minimum sentence would be 10 years. The maximum penalty would be life in prison, but if the sale was to a person under 21 years of age, the death penalty could be imposed.

Summons Service Bill.

The committee recommended passage also of a House-approved bill requiring Missouri employers to assist constables in St. Louis, St. Louis county and Jackson county in obtaining service of summonses on any of their employes when at work. The measure, sponsored by Representative F. Neil Aschemeyer (Dem.), Olivette, amends a 1959 law which imposed a similar obligation on employers in connection with the serving of summonses by sheriffs.

St. Louis and Jackson counties would be authorized to establish pension plans for retirement of officials and salaried employes under provisions of a proposed constitutional amendment tentatively approved in the House yesterday.

The proposal would permit the Legislature to authorize any political subdivision of the state to provide retirement systems.

If approved by the House and Senate, the proposed change would be submitted to voters at the general election in November 1962, or at a special election called earlier by the Governor.

The House advanced a measure, sponsored by the St. Louis city administration, which would transfer the armory in the city to the state, effecting an estimated $70,000-a-year saving for the city.

The St. Louis armory is the only one in the state maintained by the local government. The bill was advanced to final passage stage by voice vote.

The House tentatively approved a bill sponsored by Representative Joseph Ames (Dem.), St. Louis, and other members of the St. Louis delegation, which would give constables in the city a $1500 annual salary increase. They now receive $7000 a year.

The bill would give the constables additional duties of investigating applicants for jobs in the magistrate courts, so incumbent officeholders might obtain the pay rise. Salaries of deputy constables in the city would be increased from $3600 to $3960 a year.

St. Louis county municipalities having a population of 40,000 or more and having their own fire departments would be exempted from the present state law excluding them from fire districts under provisions of another measure advanced in the House.

Representative E. J. Cantrell (Dem.), Breckenridge Hills, sponsor of the bill, said some feared their districts might be impaired through consolidation of municipalities, as contemplated under a bill passed earlier by the House and pending in the Senate.

100 BEARDLESS E. ST. LOUISANS 'ARRESTED,' FINED

More than 100 men were "arrested" on East St. Louis streets yesterday and fined $5 each for failing to have beards, a requirement these days in East St. Louis because of the city's forthcoming centennial observance.

The offenders were clapped into a lion cage that served as a jail in front of the East St. Louis centennial offices at 240 Collinsville avenue. The fines were imposed by "Judge" David Johnston, East St. Louis city engineer.

The sale of shaving permits took a noticeable upturn after the court opened for business. More than 1700 permits have been sold at $2.50 each. Men who have shaving permits are not required to grow beards.

The 100th anniversary of the city's founding will be observed officially from May 20 to 27 with street dances, tableaux and other events.

GASOLINE TRUCK IS UPSET, CLEAN-UP REQUIRES 5 HOURS

Firemen worked five hours last night to wash 6200 gallons of gasoline from a street after a tank truck overturned and spilled its contents at North Florissant avenue and Palm street.

Richard Horn, driver for Phillips Petroleum Co., told police he was turning into Palm when the tractor-trailer overturned and skidded on its side. Horn, whose hip was injured, attributed the accident to a shifting load or a broken axle. He lives at 2524 Banister drive, St. Louis county.

Firemen, directed by Assistant Chief Robert Olsen Jr., flushed the pavement with hose streams from three pumpers. Heavy fumes forced residents of a dwelling at 3303 North Florissant to seek temporary shelter elsewhere. The tractor-trailer was righted and towed away.

BILL TO OFFSET SALES, USE TAX LOSS ADVANCED

It Would Authorize Bonds for Some Firms That Often Fail to Pay Levy to State.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, May 2—The Senate gave tentative approval today to a bill expected to replace several millions of dollars in revenue which the state would stand to lose under combination of the sales tax and the use tax.

The bill would provide for collection of sales taxes from firms that go out of business or fail for a variety of other reasons to pass on to the state the money they have collected from customers.

The bill would provide that the Director of Revenue could require a firm to post bond up to $10,000 to cover tax collections. It would apply to carnivals and other itinerant enterprises, and firms expected to be in business only a short time.

Exemptions Restored.

A bill to stimulate the state's economic growth by restoring use tax exemptions was given preliminary approval by the Senate yesterday. The exemptions had been invalidated by the State Supreme Court.

Senator Albert M. Spradling Jr. (Dem.), Cape Girardeau, who sponsored the proposal with the backing of Missouri industries, said he plans to call the measure up for passage Thursday. Yesterday's action indicates the Senate will pass the bill by a top-heavy vote and send it to the House.

As tentatively approved by the Senate, the Spradling bill combines the state sales and use taxes into one act and makes the voided use tax exemptions, in an amended form, applicable to both levies. The Supreme Court, in its March 13 ruling, declared the use tax exemptions illegal because they did not apply also to the sales tax.

Rate Remains 2 Per Cent.

Under the bill, the sales and use taxes would remain unchanged at the present rate of 2 per cent. The original bill would have increased both levies to 2½ per cent, but the tax increases were deleted because of objections by Gov. John M. Dalton.

The Senate adopted a series of amendments before approving the bill.

One elimiinated from the exemptions materials and machinery used in transmission and communication services, making telephone, power and pipeline equipment subject to the taxes. Spradling, who offered the amendment, declared the exemption of such property would cost the state considerable revenue which it could not afford to lose.

Relief for Repair Shops.

Another amendment broadened the exemption on repair and replacement parts and equipment used for the manufacture or maintenance of automobiles, barges, pipelines, railroad rolling stock and aircraft.

This, Spradling explained, would meet the automobile industry's objections to paying a 2 per cent tax on re-tooling equipment needed for the assembly of new models of cars every year. It would also remove a tax burden which might have led to the closing of large railroad and aircraft repair and overhaul operations in Missouri, he said.

Another amendment, offered by Senator Arkley W. Frieze (Rep.), Carthage, granted tax exemption to rental motion pictures and sound transcriptions used by radio and television stations. Frieze said he thought all news media should be treated equally, pointing out that the bill already exempted newsprint and printers ink.

Effective When Signed.

The Senate added an emergency clause under which the bill would take effect immediately after its enactment and approval by the Governor. It declared an emergency exists because Missouri faces "Economic disaster" unless the law is quickly put into operation.

Spradling told the Senate that two or three firms are planning major new industrial developments in Missouri if the legislature enacts his bill. He said passage of the measure would not only promote new industry and new jobs, but would encourage Missouri industries to expand facilities and operations in the state.

He estimated the bill, as now amended, would cost the state $3,000,000 to $4,000,000 a year in revenue. But without the bill, he said, the economic cost to the state would be even greater because of the loss of industry and employment.

Drouth Before Space Shot Day.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla., May 2 (UPI)—The cloudy and rainy weather that forced postponement of the man-in-space shot today came after a long drouth. The Orlando weather bureau said April was the driest for Florida since 1943.

LOUIS G. (MIDGE) BERRA

ROBBER SLUGS 'MIDGE' BERRA, FLEES WITH $400

Constable Says He Stopped His Auto to Help Woman and Man Attacked Him.

Constable Louis G. (Midge) Berra reported to police he was slugged by a man and robbed of $400 and his revolver early today after he stopped his automobile to offer assistance to a woman.

Berra, 55 years old, said he was driving west in Delmar boulevard at 2:30 a.m. and saw a man and a woman standing at the curb at Walton avenue. The woman was weeping Berra said.

Stopping his car at the curb, Berra said he identified himself as a constable and offered assistance. The woman's companion walked to the opposite side of the car, opened the door and struck Berra on the head with a piece of brick, stunning him.

The man stole Berra's wallet, containing the money, and a revolver from a holster. Berra said the pair ran south in Walton. Berra refused medical attention and went to his home, 2315 Macklind avenue, by taxicab.

Berra, a power in Democratic politics, is committeeman for the Twenty-fourth ward and a former alderman. He was an unsuccessful candidate for nomination for sheriff in the primary election last August.

Mrs. Charlotte Parker, 71 years old, suffered a fractured left elbow when she was knocked down and robbed of $1 by two men yesterday.

Mrs. Parker said she was walking in the 2800 block of North Garrison avenue when the men seized her and threw her to the pavement. They fled with her purse. Mrs. Parker, who lives at 2908 University street, was admitted to Homer G. Phillips Hospital.

Clarence Mills, a porter at a coin-operated laundry at 1221 North Twelfth street, reported he was held up last night by two men who forced him at pistol point to unlock the door. Mills said the men stole undetermined sums from a cash box and a vending machine, and fled.

William Burns, 3957 Finney avenue, was robbed of $50 by two men who seized him near a filling station at 1000 South Compton avenue yesterday. Burns told police he was taking the money to the station to pay a bill. After grabbing the cash from his hand, the men fled on foot.

ILLINOIS G.O.P. BILL WOULD COST DEMOCRAT SEAT

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 2—Elimination of one Democratic member of the United States House of Representatives would be virtually assured under a Congressional redistricting proposal made for southern Illinois today by Republicans in the Legislature.

Because Illinois's population growth did not keep pace with that of the nation, the state will lose one of its 25 seats in the House. Under the redistricting proposed by the Republicans, the Twenty-fifth district, represented by Democrat Kenneth J. Gray, would be eliminated, and the counties in it divided between the new Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth districts.

This proposed realignment would leave Gray and fellow Democrat Melvin Price in the same Congressional district, the Twenty-fourth. Prices livcs in East St. Louis and Gray in West Frankfort, which is in Franklin county.

Madison County Shift.

Under the G.O.P. plan, Madison county, now in Price's Twenty-fourth district, would be assigned to the new Twenty-first district, represented by Peter Mack (Dem.), Carlinville. This would make the Twenty-first district 'safe' for the Democrats because Madison county is traditionally a Democratic stronghold.

Many normally Republican counties in the extreme southern end of the state would be added to the present Twenty-third district, now represented by George Shipley (Dem.), Olney. This would make it more difficult for Shepley to win re-election, observers said. His two Congressional victories have been by narrow margins.

Rival Plan Expected.

State Senator John A. Graham (Rep.), chairman of the Illinois Senate Elections Committee, released a map showing the proposed new districts for southern Illinois. A proposed redistricting for the northern half of the state will be announced later. The Democrats are expected to submit a rival redistricting proposal.

The counties that would be in three of the new districts in southern Illinois are:

Twenty-first: Macoupin, Madison, Montgomery, Christian, Shelby, Fayette, Effingham and Cumberland.

Twenty-third: Edgar, Clark, Crawford, Jasper, Lawrence, Richland, Clay, Marion, Bond, Clinton, Washington, Jefferson, Wayne, Edwards, Wabash, White, Hamilton, Saline, Gallatin, Hardin, Pope, Johnson, Union, Alexander, Pulaski and Massac.

Twenty-fourth: St. Clair, Monroe, Randolph, Perry, Jackson, Franklin and Williamson.

MRS. LOUIS C. TIRMENSTEIN FUNERAL TO BE TOMORROW

Funeral services for Mrs. Louis C. Tirmenstein, author and wife of a retired secretary-treasurer of the Brauer Supply Co., will be at 2 p.m. tomorrow at the Beiderwieden undertaking establishment, 3620 Chippewa street. Burial will be in St. Trinity Lutheran Cemetery.

Mrs. Tirmenstein, 78 years old, died yesterday of a heart ailment at Lutheran Hospital. One of the founding members of the Lutheran Convalescent Home, 4359 Taft avenue, she served the organization as president from 1939 until 1954. She was the author of the text "Lutheran Women's Work in Greater St. Louis," published in 1938. She lived at 5870 Nottingham avenue.

Surviving, besides her husband, are two sons, Ralph M. Tirmenstein, St. Louis, and the Rev. Louis C. Tirmenstein Jr., Hamilton, O.; three brothers, A. E. Brauer, Columbus, O.; the Rev. Walter C. Brauer, Evansville, Ind., and Oscar P. Brauer, St. Louis, and two sisters, Mrs. Fred Oberschulte, St. Paul, Minn., and Mrs. Henry Elling, Geneseo, Ill.

MINISTERS NEED TO KNOW PSYCHIATRY, SPEAKER SAYS

Forty per cent of all emotionally disturbed persons consult a clergyman before they see anyone else, Dr. John O'Hearne, Kansas City psychiatrist, said yesterday at the annual Institute of Psychiatry and Religion at Alton State Hospital, Alton.

He said it is essential that ministers have some knowledge of mental illness and that disturbed individuals be referred promptly to a psychiatrist. Dr. O'Hearne said postponement of treatment is dangerous and can lead to suicide. Psychiatry and religion have a common meeting ground in "the awareness of the whole man," he said.

Another speaker, the Rev. Edward T. Eggert of Koch Hospital, spoke on alcoholism. An alcoholic, he declared, cannot be rehabilitated by appealing to his moral responsibilities. He cannot be helped unless he wants help, the speaker asserted.

5 ST. LOUIS AREA SCHOOL PAPERS WIN TOP RATINGS

Five St. Louis area high school newspapers were given top ratings of "special excellent" yesterday in the Missouri Interscholastic Press Association's contest at the University of Missouri School of Journalism.

Class A winners (schools with enrollments of 501 or more students) included the Normandy Courier, Normandy High School, and the Cavalier, Bishop DuBourg High School.

Class B winners (schools with 500 or fewer students) were the Xavier News of Xavier High School and Maryville Hi-Lites of Maryville High School. The Lindbergh News of Lindbergh Junior High School received top rating in Class C for junior high schools. The spokesman of Festus High School received a superior rating in Class B competition.

Census Director Confirmed.

WASHINGTON, May 2 (AP)—The Senate approved yesterday the nomination of Richard M. Scammon of Minnesota to be director of the census. Also it confirmed Louis J. Doyle of Maryland to be general counsel of the Post Office Department.

NATIONAL AIRLINES TIED UP BY MACHINISTS' STRIKE

MIAMI, Fla., May 2 (AP)—A strike of machinists today grounded all planes of National Airlines and brought layoff notices for employes over its routes, which extend from Houston, Tex., to Miami to Boston.

N.A.L. said it canceled all flights and notified employes not to report for work. National has 65 flights a day normally in and out of Miami.

THE WORLD'S MOST HONORED WATCH

At Least Once in a Lifetime

By Harrison J. Cowan

NEW YORK—The process of growing up seems to be marked with a procession of watches—the toy watch as a child, the graduation watch, watches received on sundry gift occasions. But most of us still hope to own not just another watch, but the finest watch obtainable. The desire is not vanity, but reflects an inward awareness of the sacred nature of time, the measure of life itself.

How do you find such a watch? Jewels alone are not enough, nor "specifications" such as shockproof, waterproof, anti-magnetic, etc. These are found in the cheapest watches.

If a watch is great, it is publicly great. Champions are made by competition. Of the few truly great watches of the world, Longines has most consistently entered every arena of competition where the true worth of a watch may be judged. If you are ready now to buy your finest of all watches, a Longines will satisfy your every need.

Surprisingly, however, as years pass you will learn that you paid no premium whatever for the superior qualities of your Longines. With reasonable care, your Longines watch should remain a treasured and cherished possession throughout an adult lifetime.

Longines Admiral Automatic. A Longines innovation—The Admiral is a self-winding dress watch of classic design, wanted thinness, exceptional accuracy. The world-honored Longines movement is given total protection by Admiral's new one-piece case. Longines Admiral Automatics are priced from $89.50 to $185.

son. This is that the United States does not have the rocket power to put large payloads into space. Nor is it likely to have the rocket power for some years to come. By that time it can be expected that the Russians will have improved their capabilities far beyond what they are now.

In the three years since the NASA has been in existence it has had a program for the development of more powerful rocket boosters that are needed to put greater payloads into space.

NASA took over space expert Wehrner von Braun's Saturn rocket. This is a cluster of eight rockets of 188,000 pounds of thrust each, giving a total thrust of just more than 1,500,000 pounds.

The NASA program provided also for the development of two hydrogen-oxygen upper stage rockets of 15,000 and 200,000 pounds of thrust, respectively. These were to be used as upper-stage rockets for the Atlas and Saturn boosters.

The vehicle known as the Atlas Centaur will use the Atlas booster and two of the liquid hydrogen 15,000-pound thrust rockets under development. If all goes well it will have the capability of placing 9000 pounds of payload into a 300-mile orbit.

Skin Very Thin.

But there are a number of ifs. The Atlas booster was not built to carry a heavy second stage. Many "fixes" have had to be made to strengthen its structure and there is no certainty that a reliable structure has been achieved. The Atlas has a skin so thin that it must be kept under air pressure of 10 pounds a square inch to keep it from collapsing when empty.

Centaur, the first United States effort to gain a larger boost capacity, is yet to be tested and is far from development to a high degree of reliability.

The second main hope in the American effort in the space race is to use the Saturn booster with a cluster of six 15,000-pound-thrust liquid hydrogen engines as a second stage. This will put a payload of approximately 19,000 pounds in a 300-mile orbit.

Saturn itself is incredibly complex. Rocket reliability is not great and when the whole vehicle depends on the functioning of eight separate rocket engines in the first stage and six in the second, the reliability of the whole can justly be questioned.

Flight Testing in 1964.

A second model of the Saturn, called the C-2, will have as a second stage four liquid hydrogen engines of 200,000 pounds of thrust. The contractor for the second stage has yet to be chosen. The Saturn C-2 will be able to put 45,000 pounds of payload into a 300-mile orbit. First flight testing is scheduled for 1964.

Few such schedules are likely to be met. For example, the original plan was to launch a man down-range with a Redstone booster in March 1960.

Alert for Any Rebel Thrust.

Government forces remained on the alert, especially along the front north of Vientiane on the route to the royal seat of Luang Prabang. Observers who flew over the area today said the bulk of the government troops is poised with artillery just south of the Nam Lik river, presumably on guard against any new rebel thrust toward Vientiane.

(United Press International said Pathet Lao troops were reported advancing into northwest Laos. It said planes arrived in Luang Prabang with refugees fleeing before the rebel advance.

(The pilots were quoted as saying the Communist-supported forces had captured the town of Na Mo and were driving on Nam Tha, which lies almost on the Chinese border.)

President Kennedy's roving envoy, W. Averell Harriman, meanwhile flew on today to visit another United States ally threatened by Communist fighters. Harriman, after a weekend visit to Vientiane and Luang Prabang, flew to Saigon to confer with South Viet Nam President Ngo Dinh Diem, the target of mounting Red terrorism.

He Sums Up Russian Role.

Harriman said there was no way to judge the scale of foreign Communist intervention in Laos but that it includes not only equipment "but also personnel that provides greater military potential. . . .

"The whole operation in recent weeks has taken on a professional character," the ambassador said. American military experts in Vientiane estimate that 10 to 15 per cent of the rebel forces are Communist North Viet Nam leaders and technicians. These have made their presence felt particularly in the direction of the rebel artillery fire.

Harriman said the United States Government and the Western-backed Laotian regime of Prince Boun Oum are still committed to the holding of a 14-nation conference to work out the future of Laos despite the report by Prince Norodom Sihanouk of Cambodia yesterday that Laotian King Savang Vatthana is now opposed to the international intervention. The King reportedly said the Laotians should be left alone to settle their own affairs.

Cuba Called Red

ment, which came two weeks after the failure of a United States-backed invasion of Cuba by anti-Castro exiles, was the first official United States pronouncement calling Cuba a member of the Communist camp.

SOCIALIST STATE IS PROCLAIMED

KEY WEST, Fla., May 2 (AP)—Prime Minister Fidel Castro put Cuba deep in the sphere of international Communism today, proclaiming a socialist state, ruling out elections and placing harsh new restrictions on the Roman Catholic Church.

Cubans filled Havana's Civic Plaza for a mammoth May Day demonstration and roared their assent when Castro insisted on Cuba's right to choose its own political and social future despite United States disapproval.

Castro's 3½-hour speech lasted into the early morning. The telecast was monitored in Key West, 90 miles from Havana.

The crowd screamed "No, no" when Castro asked "Do you need elections?" He said Cuba will do without them.

Calling priests "the exploiters who came in the name of God," Castro announced that church schools would be nationalized in a few days and foreign-born clergymen would be expelled from Cuba.

Only about one-third of Cuba's 750 priests are Cubans. Most of the rest are Spanish and some are from the United States.

Castro said workers who used to express their demands "to those who were completely deaf to their interests . . . no longer have to submit to those trials."

"Now everything the government does or can do has one sole and exclusive purpose, which is to aid its class, its people," he said.

The crowd broke into the Cuban revolutionary song, "We Shall Triumph."

Cuba has as much right to set up a socialist state 90 miles from the United States coast as the United States does to its form of government, Castro said.

"Why do they fear us? . . . As Khrushchev said, this shows they have no faith in their own system."

It was clear from Castro's context that by socialism he meant Communism or something like it.

He used the word traitors to describe Latin American nations which followed the United States's lead in severing diplomatic relations with Cuba, and vilified President Kennedy, who earlier was burned in effigy.

The Prime Minister, wearing a uniform, a beret and a pistol at his waist, spoke after watching for 14 successive hours as legions of laborers, peasants, athletes and some heavy military equipment moved past him.

Warns of World War.

"The aggressive policy of the United States can cause a world war that can cost the lives of tens of millions of Americans," he shouted.

"We are ready to fire 1,000,000 shots as soon as the first Yankee parachutist lands. There is not the slightest doubt that the first one who puts his foot on Cuban soil will have started the third world war.

"The foreigners who invade our country will have no escape. We shall fight a war without prisoners."

Castro repeated last week's offer to negotiate, saying his regime is willing to "discuss anything except our socialist revolution."

"We are willing to discuss, to alleviate the tension," he said. "But perhaps they do not worry about 1,000,000 American children who might die. . . .

Ikeda to Bring Wife to U.S.

TOKYO, May 2 (AP)—Prime Minister Ikeda will take his wife on his trip to the United States in June. It will be the first time a Japanese Prime Minister has done so.

Udall

Guard armory in Washington, D.C."

Checks to Committee.

Evans went on to say that Udall had asked him to have all checks made payable to the Democratic national committee, adding "if for some personal reason you do not wish to follow this suggestion, please contact me."

Mr. Kennedy's forty-fourth birthday anniversary actually is May 29, the day before the President is scheduled to leave for Paris to see President De Gaulle.

The letter contained a stenographer's note showing that a copy had been sent to Udall.

Even before that copy reached Udall, the Secretary said, another friend in the oil business, who had received a copy, sent it to Udall in the belief it was improper and would be embarrassing.

"I called Mr. Evans and said I was flabbergasted," Udall said. "I asked that he recall the letter, and most of the letters were recalled."

Evans Falls to Appear.

When the newspaper appeared today with the story, Udall telephoned Evans again, informing him he was calling a press conference and inviting Evans to appear. Evans did not show up. His office told some callers that Evans was on his way to an early lunch and others that he was in New York.

After denying to reporters that he had asked or authorized Evans to make any broad solicitation, Udall went on to explain that fund-raising was "one of the unpleasant facts of life."

"We're not doing anything that the previous Administration didn't do," he said. "I've always thought political campaigns ought to be financed out of the public budget."

But, lacking such a system, public officials must help in various ways to defray political expenses, he said. The Democratic party has a deficit of about $2,000,000.

Asked to explain what was done, Udall replied:

"You approach people in your department with schedule C jobs (top positions exempt from civil service) and urge them to attend, and you contact other people who have contact with the department and ask them to buy tickets."

People 'Want to Be Seen.'

People attend such dinners, he said, because they want to be seen there and because they "want to be known as being friendly."

Udall denied that contributors received any special favors. He pointed out that Evans's company "got clobbered in the oil decision I have made about the oil industry." This was a reduction of the residual oil import quota for Shell Oil Co., of which Asiatic is a subsidiary.

The incident recalled a testimonial dinner for former House Republican leader Joseph W. Martin Jr. of Massachusetts in Houston, Tex., in 1958.

Republican National Committeeman J. J. (Jack) Porter of Texas solicited contributions in a letter saying it would be up to Martin to muster votes for a bill sought by the industry to exempt natural gas from federal regulation.

Publication of the Porter letter helped defeat the gas bill.

U.N. Observers

roughly two-thirds of Laos is now in their control.

At last month's ministerial meeting of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization, the members said they were prepared to take "appropriate" action to prevent a military take-over of Laos. However, France is known to be opposed to any military intervention, and some other members feel strongly that Laos is not the place to become involved in a Korea-like action.

Finally—and this, it is understood, is a compelling argument with the Administration after the failure of the Cuban invasion—there is mounting opposition on Capitol Hill to sending United States troops into Laos.

Opposition by Fulbright.

In a broadcast interview Sunday night, Senator J. W. Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said:

"I don't think the terrain and the conditions are right for sending in our troops. We must seek another solution and we are."

Senator Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, said that although he favored a firm stand against Communism, "I'd like to pick my position so that we wouldn't be mired down in another disastrous situation."

Two years ago when the Pathet Lao were threatening to break out of the provinces of Sam Neua and Phong Saly, which they controlled, the U.N. sent a mission to Laos over strong Soviet protest. As a result of the U.N. mission, the Pathet Lao relaxed its pressure for a time.

If a resolution is submitted in the U.N. Security Council, it is expected that the Soviet Union will exercise its veto. The issue would then be taken to the General Assembly, where the veto does not obtain.

Some diplomats here think that if the General Assembly called for a cease-fire and voted overwhelmingly for a U.N. presence in Laos, the Soviet Union could not afford to defy world opinion and risk antagonizing the neutral nations in Asia and Africa.

FRENCH GASOLINE TANKER AFIRE OFF COAST OF BRAZIL

RECIFE, Brazil, May 2 (UPI)—A French tanker loaded with aviation gasoline caught fire off the coast of Brazil, the Brazilian tanker Presidente Wenceslau radioed today.

The Brazilian ship said it had rescued all 42 crewmen from the burning ship, Novice Le Maou.

The Wenceslau said the fire was raging on the prow and in the engine room, but had not reached the explosive cargo.

TVA EXPANSION STIRS DISPUTE AT SWIDLER INQUIRY

By JAMES DEAKIN
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 2—A dispute over the Federal Government's role in the development of electric power broke out today at a Senate hearing on the nomination of Joseph C. Swidler as a member of the Federal Power Commission.

Swidler, former general counsel of the Tennessee Valley Authority, defended TVA's record in response to questions by two Democratic Senators, John O. Pastore of Rhode Island and Strom Thurmond of South Carolina.

"I think TVA has been good for the entire country," Swidler declared. "It has helped consumers in Rhode Island as well as the Tennessee valley area. It does not threaten the rest of the country."

Charge of Luring Industries.

Pastore had questioned whether it was fair for TVA to use tax money to expand its power-producing facilities and then use the expanded service "to lure industries away from other parts of the country."

He said TVA was "getting beyond its original function" when it built new generating plants to serve an expanded area which had grown "only by attracting new industry away from other places."

Swidler replied that the revenue bonds which TVA now is authorized to sell to finance new generating plants will be paid off by those who live in the Tennessee valley, not by the Government.

He said there is "no proof that TVA has enticed or attracted industry away from other parts of the country." There have been "very few" relocations of industry in the TVA area, Swidler said.

"If you were from Rhode Island you wouldn't make that statement," Pastore retorted heatedly. "That's what we've been trying to cope with. I've got the headache and you're telling me I haven't got one."

Says He Backs Swidler.

Pastore emphasized, however, that he favors maximum development of this country's natural resources, including water power, and will vote to confirm Swidler as a member of the FPC, "because I believe you will defend the consumer."

Swidler, who is President Kennedy's choice for FPC chairman, was recalled today for further questioning by members of the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee.

In response to questions by Thurmond, the nominee said he did not anticipate any substantial change in the relative roles of public and private power in the United States.

Any major increase in the amount of public power, he pointed out, would require action by Congress in the form of appropriations. The FPC, he noted, does not have this authority.

"I don't think it would be a good thing to have full public ownership of power facilities," Swidler told the committee. "Public and private power monitor each other, and I think that's a good thing."

PINE LAWN POLICE CAPTAIN IS DEMOTED TO PATROLMAN

Roy Steinmetz, who was suspended from duty as a captain in the Pine Lawn police department April 18, was reinstated in the rank of patrolman by the Pine Lawn board of aldermen last night.

Steinmetz was suspended after an inquiry into the handling of funds of the Pine Lawn Police Association. Steinmetz, as president, had signed a check for a $162 loan to Lt. Robert Reasoner, treasurer.

Reasoner has resigned. The Pine Lawn city attorney, St. Louis County Coroner Raymond I. Harris, said there was no provision for making a loan with police association funds.

FRANK L. ROUSE NAMED DEPUTY COUNTY CORONER

Employment of Frank L. Rouse, 1001 Maeville drive, Kirkwood, as a deputy St. Louis county coroner was announced by Coroner Raymond I. Harris today. Rouse is replacing two part-time deputies, Richard Rose and Francis Griffin, the coroner said.

The new deputy will devote his attention to detailed investigation of violent deaths and deaths for which no cause is determined immediately. He is a former member of the Kirkwood police department, and has been working as a private investigator.

DELINQUENCIES ON PAYROLL TAXES RISE 9 PCT. IN YEAR

WASHINGTON, May 2 (AP)—Senator John J. Williams, (Rep.), Delaware, said yesterday that delinquencies on payroll taxes paid by employers increased 9.4 per cent last year.

The payroll taxes are sums withheld from employes for income taxes and social security, as well as unemployment taxes which are paid solely by the employer.

Williams told the Senate employment tax deliquencies totaled $268,396,000 last Dec. 31 as compared with $236,843,000 a year earlier.

KENNEDY PLANS FULL CEREMONIES FOR BOURGUIBA

WASHINGTON, May 2 (UPI) — President Kennedy will pull out all ceremonial stops when President Habib Bourguiba of Tunisia arrives here tomorrow for a 10-day official visit.

The President will meet Bourguiba at National Airport at noon and will accompany him to town in a motorcade. Bourguiba will have two conferences with Mr. Kennedy at the White House Thursday and Friday.

Bourguiba will address a joint session of the Senate and House Thursday. Also on the Thursday agenda is a conference with AFL - CIO president George Meany and other labor leaders.

He will have talks at the State Department Friday and attend a National Press Club luncheon.

BRENTWOOD COUNCIL ADOPTS $380,000 BUDGET FOR YEAR

A $380,000 budget for the coming fiscal year was adopted by the Brentwood City Council last night. The budget is about $26,000 higher than the one for the present year, Mayor A. Ray Parker said.

The Mayor said he expected the city tax rate to decrease despite the higher budget, because of property reassessment going on in St. Louis county. The council will delay setting the rate until Brentwood re-assessments have been completed.

The $26,000 increase includes a 7 per cent pay increase for all full-time city employes, and reflects general rises in other costs, Parker said.

'Testing Times Ahead,' Murrow Tells Missouri Legislature

JEFFERSON CITY, May 2 (UPI) — America is "fat in a world that is largely lean or hungry" and "there are testing times ahead," Edward R. Murrow, director of the United States Information Agency, told a joint session of the Missouri Legislature yesterday.

The former Columbia Broadcasting System executive was a guest of Missouri lawyers and the General Assembly in observance of Law Day. He was introduced by former President Harry S. Truman.

"No state in modern time has lost its freedom without its law first being destroyed or subverted," Murrow said.

"Freedom under the law can never be taken for granted. As we value our freedom, so must we value our law, for it is the law that protects us from the tyranny of the state and encroachment by our neighbors.

"Perpetual Crisis."

"We live in a state of perpetual crisis. Freedom is hard pressed on many fronts, and it must be assumed that the pressure will increase."

Murrow said Hitler "reduced the legal profession to virtual serfdom" and Italian Fascists "obliterated the rights of the individual by striking down the law . . .

"But of the tyrannies that have strode through the political jungle that is our world, few have been as implacable as the Communist. Theirs is a dedication to change through chaos."

America does not oppose change, Murrow said, but in the United States changes were brought about by laws "under which the individual is sacred unto both himself and his land.

"Change under communism is posited on the individual's total lack of sanctity and on his personal worth as imposing no limit on the state."

Murrow warned that "Soviet leadership may, for the time being, have sheathed its punishing sword. But the weapon is still there and those who may be tempted to engage in open dissent are aware that it will not be allowed to rust in the scabbard.

"Today is May Day. The pavement of Red square in Moscow will feel the bite of tank treads and the slap of marching feet. It will be a great celebration of the might and accomplishments of Communism, and it is mighty indeed.

'No Concept of Rights.'

"But among the accomplishments, history will record Hungary as well as Sputnik. It will record that while they thrust out a man into global orbit, they also forced back a nation into political orbit.

"And it is here that we draw the distinction between our life and theirs, for they have no concept of rights embodied in a rule of law that puts man above man's accomplishments."

He said, "We cannot impose our social or economic structure" on nations helped by America. "But we can and should tutor them in the ways of our law, persuade them that democracy's business is always unfinished business, and to the preachment of our principles, we must add the price of our practice.

"We cannot successfully extol the virtues of the American way of life abroad when we cannot provide and insure it for several million Americans living in this land.

"There have been times in our recent history when we have confused dissent with disloyalty. We have walked too openly with our fears and too little in the company of our faith."

Murrow paid tribute to Truman.

"The fact that he made the tough decisions without flinching or faltering — that he conducted himself with a combination of grimness and gaiety—has, I think, made it easier for those who must now face decisions of equal moment to stand steady in their shoes to do likewise," Murrow said.

He departed from his prepared text to say: "Mr. Truman, I shall report to my colleagues in Washington that your shoulders are as broad and square as they ever were."

19 PERISH IN BRITISH DRINKING CLUB FIRE

BOLTON, England, May 2 (AP) — Nineteen persons—eight women and 11 men — perished early today when fire swept a crowded drinking club in this Lancashire industrial town.

Men and women leaped from fifth floor windows to a shallow river flowing more than 80 feet below.

Four of the jumpers were killed. The river is only seven feet wide at that point, and several landed on the gravel of the river bank. The few who survived the leap were injured seriously.

Police said 15 of the dead were trapped in the club on the top floor of an old warehouse. Flames cut off escape down a narrow staircase.

Two men who jumped were washed by the fast current of the town's streets, under which the river runs. Police recovered their bodies.

Firemen fought their way up the blazing staircase in an attempt to rescue those trapped on the top floor. But all were dead, huddled in two groups. One heap of bodies was behind the bar where they had apparently huddled to shelter from the heat.

It was Britain's worst fire since the Glasgow whisky warehouse blaze of March 1960 in which 19 firemen and salvage men were killed.

Cadillac

Even its economy says "yes"!

Let us reflect, for a moment, on the things that beckon a man to Cadillac.

There is, to begin with, the car's grace and majesty of styling—a temptation that is difficult indeed to deny.

There is its luxury and its comfort—eloquent invitations to ownership all by themselves.

There is its masterful performance and its reputation for quality—irresistible attractions in today's world of motor cars.

And now, more than ever, Cadillac's economy ranks high among those important considerations that lead inevitably to the "car of cars".

For a Cadillac has, over the years, become progressively more practical to own and to operate.

The purchase price of a 1961 Cadillac is remarkably reasonable in relation to other cars. In terms of value received, it might well represent the greatest bargain of all.

And consider how well a Cadillac holds that value—and makes your Cadillac a sound investment for whatever length of time you might choose to own it.

Then, too, the car is unusually conservative in its use of gasoline—and as free from maintenance as sound engineering and careful craftsmanship can make it.

Visit your dealer soon for the facts.

You'll find, we are certain, that even Cadillac's economy says "yes"!

APRIL JOBLESS TOTAL DECLINED TO 4,962,000

By THOMAS W. OTTENAD
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 2—Unemployment last month fell to 4,962,000, drop of 533,000 persons, the Government reported today.

Dr. Seymour L. Wolfbein, deputy assistant Secretary of Labor, warned, however, that the decline was only the amount expected at this time of year.

He told a press conference that the rate of unemployment remained at the "relatively high plateau" it has held since last December. Long-term unemployment—those out of jobs 15 weeks or more—rose more than twice its usual increase at this season, he added, setting a record for the period since the end of World War II.

No General Improvement.

"As far as employment and unemployment are concerned," Wolfbein stated, "there has been no evidence of general economic improvement."

He qualified this by pointing out that unemployment figures generally lag behind business upturns. He said a better judgment could be made after detailed figures, due to be reported next week, become available.

The number of persons out of jobs in April was 1,302,000 higher than a year earlier. The number out of work in March was 5,495,000.

The rate of unemployment last month, after adjustment for seasonal factors, was 6.8 per cent. The previous month it was 6.9 per cent. Since last December the rate has fluctuated between 6.6 and 6.9 per cent, a level that Wolfbein termed comparatively high. The only higher rate occurring in any April since the end of World War II was 7.3 per cent, reached in 1958. In April 1960 the level was 5.1 per cent.

The number of persons unemployed between 15 and 27 weeks, which Wolfbein regarded as particularly significant, rose by 266,000 between March and April to a total of 2,218,000. This excelled the previous record for the postwar period, 1,886,000, which set in April 1958.

'Substantial' Rise.

In addition, Wolfbein pointed out that the number of persons who have been out of work 27 weeks or more rose "substantially" last month. It jumped from 799,000 in March to 923,000 in April. A year earlier the figure was only 499,000. Last month's level was second only to August 1958, when 971,000 persons had been unemployed for half a year or more.

"The figures show that long-term unemployment remains a serious problem," the Labor Department official remarked.

Wolfbein stressed also that the total number of persons working last month did not rise as much as was expected. There were 65,734,000 persons employed. That was an increase of 218,000 from March, compared with an expected gain of 700,000 based on seasonal influences.

The principal reason for the lag was the failure of agricultural employment to show its usual rise of about 500,000 workers. Farm employment totaled only 5,000,000, virtually unchanged from the previous month's level.

Non-agricultural employment rose by 195,000 to a total of 60,734,000.

The number of non-farm workers who are limited involuntarily to part time employment remained almost unchanged from the previous month at 2,987,000.

Wolfbein said that if only seasonal factors affect the job picture, unemployment this month would drop to 4,700,000 and then rise sharply to 5,500,000 in June when high school and college graduates and other students enter the labor market.

U.S. ARMY IDENTIFIES FOUR MISSING IN LAOS FIGHTING

WASHINGTON, May 2 (UPI)—The Army today identified four Americans who are missing and feared killed or captured in the fighting in Laos.

When last heard from on April 22, the four were members of an American field training team which was advising the royal Laotian forces in the vicinity of Vang Vieng.

Missing are Capt. Walter H. Moon, Fort Bragg, N.C.; Sgt. 1/c John M. Bischoff, Fort Bragg; Sgt. Orville R. Ballinger, Spring Lake, N.C., and Sgt. Gerald E. Biber, Grand Junction, Colo.

ANONYMOUS NOTE HALTS NEW YORK NUMBERS RACKET

NEW YORK, May 2 (AP)—Mayor Robert F. Wagner says a $1,000,000-a-year numbers racket has been broken up through an anonymous letter to P.O. Box 100.

The post office box is an address set up by the mayor several months ago for complaints by citizens about wrongdoing among city officials, civil employes and others.

Nine persons were arrested yesterday as a result of the numbers racket tip. Five of the nine were booked on felony gambling charges and the others on misdemeanor conspiracy charges.

City investigation commissioner Louis I. Kaplan said more arrests were expected in connection with the racket in which bets up to $200 were being taken among employes at the federal building.

1. $950,000 for the widening and reconstruction of the Jefferson avenue bridge over the Mill Creek Valley railroad tracks. The bridge will overpass Chouteau avenue, thus ending a serious source of traffic congestion.

2. $730,000 for paving the Forest Park-Rock Island Expressway from Kingshighway westwardly to the city limits.

3. Three bills for residential street lighting in neighborhood rehabilitation areas. The Fairgrounds area would get $225,000; West End, $200,000, and Shaw area, $200,000. The funds would come from an item for neighborhood rehabilitation in the 1955 bond issue. Legality of using this fund for the purpose is being sought in an opinion from the city's law department.

Laundry Equipment.

4. $200,000 additional funds for equipment needed in consolidation of laundry facilities of City Hospital, Homer G. Phillips Hospital and Chronic Hospital. The laundry center would be at City Hospital.

5. $85,000 for widening the Southwest avenue bridge over the Oak Hill branch of the Missouri Pacific Railroad tracks.

6. $70,000 for construction of an incinerator at the Zoo.

7. $25,000 additional for construction of a bridge to carry the Terminal Railroad tracks over North Broadfay near Calvary Cemetery. Construction is already under way on this project.

The aldermen passed a bill approving a revision of the city code. This work has been in progress for about two years under the supervision of David M. Grant, director of legislative research for the board. The enactment will send the work to the printer.

A bill to ratify an agreement between the city and St. Louis county for establishment of a City-County Airport Commission was introduced.

ADMITS TYING CORD AROUND NECK OF STRANGLED MAN

NEW YORK, May 2—Edward C. Steinbrueck, an unemployed salesman who identified himself as a former resident of St. Louis, was held on a homicide charge here today in the strangling of Woodward Price, an advertising agency copywriter.

Police reported that after Steinbrueck, 25 years old, was traced through a telephone number found in the apartment of Price, 31, he was arrested and admitted that he had tied a bathrobe cord around Price's neck Saturday night.

He was quoted as saying they had been drinking, and that they had been friends since March, when they met in a bus station.

HOUSE PASSES BILL MAKING 50-STAR U.S. FLAG LEGAL

WASHINGTON, May 2 (AP)—The House passed a bill yesterday to legalize the 50-star national flag.

The measure would give the force of law to former President Eisenhower's orders adding stars to symbolize the admission of Alaska and Hawaii. The purpose is to remove ambiguous language in the basic law of the flag.

In one sentence, that law states that there "shall be 48 stars," and that there will be "as many white stars on the field of blue as there are states in the Union." The House-approved revision would eliminate the reference to 48 or to any specific number of stars.

3 CHURCHES, AIRLINE OFFICE BOMBED IN BUENOS AIRES

BUENOS AIRES, May 2 (AP)—Three churches, the United States Braniff Airways office and a police car were targets of bomb attacks in Buenos Aires last night. No injuries were reported.

Another bomb went off near a school operated by American teachers.

The violence climaxed May Day observances. The General Labor Confederation, once the backbone of Juan D. Peron's regime, held its first rally since the dictator was ousted in 1955. The rally attracted both pro-Peronist and pro-Castro speakers.

About 1000 persons tried to parade after the rally but police scattered them with tear gas.

M'NARY STATES CONDITIONS FOR WORKHOUSE AID

If St. Louis and St. Louis county can agree on a site for a new city-owned workhouse in St. Louis county, county authorities will support the city's enabling legislation at Jefferson City, County Supervisor James H. J. McNary said yesterday.

In a written statement, McNary made it clear that he believes the interests of county residents come ahead of all other considerations in agreeing on a county site.

Mayor Raymond R. Tucker has agreed to amend the city's bill in the Legislature to give the County Council veto power on any site that may be proposed.

McNary said:

"The immediate question of withdrawing our opposition to a city workhouse located in the county is contingent upon our citizens having the protection of knowing that their county government will have control of the site chosen.

"In other words, the County Council, the county legislators (at Jefferson City) and I certainly will co-operate with the Mayor and Board of Aldermen to whatever extent our county residents approve."

He then said that if a "feasible site can be finalized," the county would not oppose the city's pending legislation.

He continued: "It has been said that the city and county have a purely mutual interest in the subject. Such thinking must be tempered by the fact the county has about a dozen potential inmates of a workhouse compared to the city's inmate population of about 400 prisoners."

Declaring this was hardly a mutual situation, McNary suggested that the most practicable solution would be for the county to board its inmates in a wholly owned city workhouse, regardless of its site.

He said that any county participation in a joint facility would require voter approval of a county bond issue to provide for the county's share of the construction cost.

In a second statement, McNary replied to a recommendation of the county circuit court grand jury that all members of the County Planning Commission be appointed to their terms of office. At present, terms of three members have expired but the commissioners are continuing to serve pending the appointment of their successors.

"Because of the complexity of the several projects under way in the planning commission during the past two years," McNary said, "I have purposely avoided drastic changes in the commission's membership.

"The appointments which have been made were very sound ones in my opinion, and future appointments will be made on the same basis—demonstrated sense of civic responsibility, personal integrity and awareness of the problems involved in the planning commission's long-range goals."

BUILDING OF $1,500,000 FREEDOM CENTER STARTS

VALLEY FORGE, Pa., May 2 (AP)—Ground was broken yesterday for the American Freedom Center, a $1,500,000 project designed as a showcase of free enterprise.

The center will become a part of Freedoms Foundation, the patriotic non-profit agency that was founded in 1949. It will consist of two large buildings, named for George and Martha Washington, joined by a service area, and will be of colonial architecture. The site covers 40 acres adjoining Valley Forge State Park.

The larger building will be Freedoms Foundation's headquarters and will have an auditorium, a dining room and facilities for administering the national awards program. The second building will be a center for study and research and will house the Library of Free Enterprise, study halls, dormitories and seminar rooms.

CUBAN EX-SENATOR FREED, POSTS $1000 BOND WITH U.S.

MIAMI, May 2 (UPI)—Former Cuban Senator Rolando Masferrer was released from United States custody yesterday after having been held for nearly a month at the request of Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

After his release, Masferrer posted $1000 bond on a federal indictment charging him with conspiring to outfit and send a military expedition against Cuba.

Masferrer, who maintained a private army in the regime of Fulgencio Batista, was accused by Fidel Castro of numerous atrocities. He fled Cuba when Castro took power on Jan. 1, 1959. His immigration parole was revoked and he was taken into custody on April 8.

'Fair Lady's' Fourth Year.

LONDON, May 2 (AP)—Champagne corks popped in a backstage room early today at a party celebrating the start of "My Fair Lady's" fourth year in London. The hit musical to date has played to 2,875,000 persons in the British capital and taken in more than £2,250,000 ($6,300,000). Seats have been booked to the end of 1962.

hearty breakfast between 2:30 and 3 a.m. of a seven-ounce filet mignon, orange juice, two eggs, toast, butter and jelly. They drank water, no coffee.

The breakfast was prepared by Capt. Jean McKay of Illmo, Mo., Air Force dietitian who has been preparing the astronaut's meals.

As the morning wore on, more and more spectators gathered on the beach south of the cape.

But at 4 a.m. a squall line and cold front moved toward the Florida coast.

Word of the postponement, heard over automobile radios, was a letdown to the thousands on the beaches.

Also disappointed by the delay were reporters here to cover the shot. Television cameramen had been poised to bring the blastoff "live" to screens throughout the nation.

KLEIN CHARGES KENNEDY PLANS TO ATTACK PRESS

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 2 (AP)—Herbert G. Klein, who was press secretary to former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, said today he believes the Kennedy Administration is preparing to open a major attack against newspapers.

Klein said also there is a threat from the Department of Justice to apply auti-trust laws against newspapers which own television stations and against multiple newspaper ownership.

In a speech prepared for a Lions Club luncheon, Klein, editor of the San Diego (Calif.) Union, declared:

"At a recent Women's National Press Club 'trial balloon' dinner, Edwin Guthman, special assistant to Attorney General Robert Kennedy, said anti-trust laws 'should be applied to prevent newspapers from owning radio and TV stations and vice versa.'

"He also urged the application of the laws against group newspapers.

"This is blackmail — raw blackmail. The implication would be that those newspapers who are considered friendly to the Administration would be spared, but there is a club to be held over the heads of the large newspaper operators who may be critical or young Bobby or his brother.

"The trial balloon has been launched. I now would challenge the Attorney General to state his views directly.

"Is he to blackmail the newspapers, or did his press spokesman comment out of turn?

"The public which reads and relies on newspapers is entitled to know just how great the Justice Department pressure will be against their home publications.

"Does Attorney General Kennedy desire to make them knuckle under?

"There is no greater censorship than that of government blackmail."

Klein said President Kennedy last week hinted at an attack on newspapers "when he implied that news stories were endangering American security."

Klein said the press has a responsibility and is fully aware of it.

"I am not as sure the President realizes his responsibility to give the public the facts when the situation is adverse," Klein stated.

"He has been willing to provide the positive propaganda but not always the deeper news. I would urge him to reassess his views."

HERMAN DISCHINGER ESTATE IS VALUED AT $309,623

The estate of Herman Dischinger, chairman of the board of the Hartwig-Dischinger Realty Co., 2802 North Grand boulevard, was valued at $309,623 in an inventory filed in St. Louis county probate court at Clayton yesterday.

Stocks valued at $273,500 included 3000 shares of capital stock of Lindell Trust Co. Cash totaled $25,914.

Mr. Dischinger, 69 years old, died last March 26 of cancer. He lived at 7240 Henderson road, Normandy. Under his will he left the bulk of his estate to his wife, after specific bequests to his son H. Carl Dischinger, a daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth K. Bukovich, and several charities.

Now! Relieve acid attacks caused by

STOMACH TENSION

Tablet discovery checks attacks in seconds... then works like a warm glass of milk to keep acid stomach soothed for hours

N.Y., N.Y. (Special). Medical science knows that today, millions suffer from Stomach Tension...a distress caused by today's hectic pace of living.

Stomach Tension pours wave after wave of burning acid onto delicate stomach tissues. But ordinary antacids merely relieve the first wave of acid...then leave the stomach open to further attack. An antacid was needed that could give prolonged soothing relief...the same amazing relief that doctors knew a warm glass of milk gave. The answer came when physicians discovered a Glycine compound—a medication that soothed a burning acid stomach even better than a warm glass of milk. This compound gave faster relief than ordinary antacids, and actually worked to soothe the stomach for hours. This most effective compound is named Amitone.

If you have Stomach Tension and ordinary antacids don't give the relief you want, get Amitone. No prescription needed.

JUDGES SHIFT POELKER FROM CRIMINAL CASES

Judge Virgil A. Poelker was transferred from the criminal to the civil division of the St. Louis county circuit court yesterday. It was announced last week that he had written two personal checks for which there were insufficient funds.

The transfer was approved by all eight circuit court judges meeting en banc. The meeting was closed to reporters.

At the conclusion of the meeting, which lasted one hour, Presiding Judge Robert G. J. Hoester issued this statement: "A motion was made, seconded and unanimously passed that the court en banc, with the concurrence of Judge Poelker, transfer Judge Poelker to a civil trial division and transfer Judge (Franklin) Ferriss to the criminal division effective May 1."

Neither Judge Hoester nor any of the other judges would comment further. Judge Poelker also refused to answer reporters' questions.

Prosecuting Attorney Norman H. Anderson had informed the judges that he would be available in the event they wished to question him about Judge Poelker's assignment, but he was not called to the meeting. Anderson had said previously that he had doubts of the propriety of Judge Poelker continuing to hear criminal cases in the light of the check-writing incident.

Judge Poelker wrote two checks for a total of $3000 to Alfred O. Harris, a carpenter, of 4957 Arsenal street. The checks were returned marked "insufficient funds." They were in payment for work done by Harris at Judge Poelker's home at 12152 Olive Street road, Creve Coeur.

The judge, who contended that the incident was the result of a misunderstanding, made the checks good after Harris complained to the prosecuting attorney.

POLARIS GOES 1600 MILES, 7TH SUCCESS IN NINE TRIES

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla., May 2 (AP)—A long-range Polaris missile was fired more than 1600 miles down the Atlantic tracking range yesterday, registering its seventh success in nine launchings.

Officials reported all test goals were achieved by the solid-fuel rocket shot from a land-based pad.

The new model Polaris, the A2, is being developed to carry a thermonuclear warhead to targets 1725 miles away, compared with the 1380-mile maximum reach of operational Polarises installed on the nuclear submarines George Washington and Patrick Henry.

CITY FILES ITS FIRST SUIT FOR OZARK RIGHT OF WAY

The first condemnation suit for acquisition of city right of way for the Ozark (Interstate Route 55) Expressway was filed yesterday in circuit court here.

Nineteen parcels of property from the city boundary northeast to President street are being sought. Attorneys for the state Highway Department said these are parcels the department has been unable to acquire through negotiation.

A suit was filed March 7 in St. Louis county circuit court to condemn certain parcels required for the county portion of the highway.

CASTRO WILL GO TO MOSCOW TO GET LENIN PRIZE

MOSCOW, May 2 (UPI)—The official Soviet news agency Tass said today Cuba's Premier Castro will come to Moscow to receive his Lenin Peace Prize.

Tass quoted Castro as saying, "I see the Lenin prize not as a personal award but as an unmatched honor to our people, who steadfastly and resolutely fought against imperialist aggression and exploitation and for national sovereignty and peace." It quoted him further as saying that only the "great solidarity . . . of the Socialist countries" made his victory possible.

MINERAL GROUP TO GIVE PRIZE

The St. Louis Mineral and Gem Society will present a $25 government bond to Ramsey Lammers III of St. Charles for his exhibit, "Rhythmic Banding in Minerals — Natural and Synthetic," which was entered in the Greater St. Louis Science Fair.

The presentation will be made at the society's meeting at 7:30 p.m. Friday in Wilson Hall Washington University. A geologist's pick and a book on minerals will be awarded to Joe Kramer, 2418 North and South road, Normandy, for his entry, "Rocks That Grow."

CALL FOR 2 OFFICIALS TO QUIT IS BEATEN

A motion calling for the resignation of two Berkeley councilmen lost last night by a 3-to-3 tie vote. The vote followed charges that the councilmen were attempting to oust City Manager Gordon Olson and the city attorney and engineer.

Mayor Louis A. Roberts charged at the meeting that Councilmen Robert Fowler and Elvis McLain had attempted to weaken the city's council-manager form of government by recommending changes in the city attorney and engineer posts, and then threatening Olson with dismissal when he refused to make new appointments.

Under the city charter, the city manager has the power to appoint the city attorney and engineer.

Those voting for the motion to resign were Roberts, and Councilmen Nick Congemi and King Crawford. Those opposed were Fowler, McLain and Jess Dorman.

A seventh councilman, Fred Goetsch, was absent, but Roberts read the council a letter from Goetsch stating that he believed the city charter was being weakened by "attacks on the city manager to get at the attorney and engineer."

After the vote, Roberts said he hoped the issue was fully resolved, now that the councilmen seeking to interfere with administration appointments had been "publicly spanked."

Although a vote calling for the resignation of a councilman is not binding, the council, by a majority vote, could force a member out by declaring he had violated his oath of office, Roberts said. This action would be taken only if the councilman in question refused to resign despite a request to do so by the council, he said.

U.S. DROPS POWELL SEDITION CHARGES

SAN FRANCISCO, May 2 (UPI)—The United States Government today dropped remaining charges of sedition against John W. Powell, his wife Sylvia, and Julian Schuman, all of San Francisco, for their actions in the Korean war.

Assistant United States Attorney Charles Renda obtained dismissal of a sedition indictment returned more than five years ago because, he said, the Government did not believe it could obtain a conviction.

A treason complaint was filed Jan. 31, 1959, but the grand ury never returned an indictment. The complaint was dismissed later by a United States commissioner.

The charges were based on articles in the magazine China Monthly Review, published by the Powells and Schuman in Shanghai during the Korean War.

The magazine was distributed in North Korea to American prisoners of war. The sedition indictment accused the three of falsely reporting that the United States had engaged in germ warfare and of inflating United States casualty figures so as to undermine morale.

Renda, acting "with reluctance," obtained dismissal of a 13-count sedition indictment from United States District Judge Louis E. Goodman. Renda said the case had been reviewed by the internal security division of the United States Department of Justice, and that today's decision had been approved by Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy.

The sedition indictment was returned April 25, 1956, on the urging of two United States Senators, Herman Welker (Rep.) Idaho, and William Jennings (Rep.), Indiana. The case did not come to trial until Jan. 26, 1959.

The proceedings were declared a mistrial by Judge Goodman because of newspaper publicity given Goodman's remarks made out of the hearing of the jury.

Goodman had commented that the government appeared to have a better treason than a sedition case, even though treason carries a possible death penalty.

The Government promptly filed a treason complaint, but United States attorneys later indicated they could not obtain sufficient evidence.

Renda said the Government was compelled to drop the sedition charge because of Goodman ruling preventing it from calling former prisoners of war in Korea as witnesses.

Kennedy's Lost Prestige May Be Greatest Cost of Fiasco in Cuba

By MARQUIS W. CHILDS
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
© 1961 St. Louis Post-Dispatch

PARIS, May 2.

In computing the score of the Cuban fiasco it is necessary to reckon with the effect it has had on President Kennedy's reputation in Europe and the rest of the world. It could well be that the cost is greatest in this department and particularly against the background of the remarkable prestige that the young American President had begun to acquire.

His statements, his speeches, the whole manner of his conduct of the most important office in the world had inspired not merely respect but a widespread current of hope. This was a President proceeding with judicious calm, with quiet civility to try to solve the grave problems threatening war and chaos.

To say that what happened—or failed to happen in Cuba—interrupted the current of hope is to resort to the most generous understatement. It brought a shock of surprise and dismay. The sudden, seemingly impulsive act based on so many miscalculations was contrary to the whole impression Mr. Kennedy had begun to build up.

Now Europeans are asking nervously what comes next?

This reporter has talked with diplomats and officials of a half dozen countries in the past week and without exception their hope is that the President will take his setback with as good a grace as possible, learning from an early mistake. They are aware of the mood of America as reported here—the hurt pride that must be quickly redressed. But the conviction is widespread that any direct intervention by the United States in Cuba with military force would make the situation much worse.

As one of the highest officials of the French government expressed it, the position of America's allies would become difficult to impossible with Latin America torn asunder by such intervention. Others are fearful that the peace of the world would be put in even more precarious balance than it is today and perhaps irreparably shattered.

The question of Cuba already has been raised in the council of the North Atlantic alliance. Significantly, it was raised by Belgium which, with the issue of The Congo brought up in various international bodies, has reason to be sensitive on the score of intervention. It was done politely—we should like to know the nature of this action and the motives behind it—but none the less firmly.

At the meeting of NATO foreign ministers in Oslo next week Cuba will be raised again with Secretary of State Rusk called upon to expound the United States position. This is in accord with the policy of frank consultation on all subjects of a common interest no matter how sensitive national feelings may be, as in the instance of Portugal and Angola, Portugal's African colony that threatens to become "another Congo."

Norway after all has a common border in the far north with the Soviet Union. If the United States should assert its right to intervene directly in Cuba because of the danger of Communism 90 miles from America's shores, could not the Soviets use the alleged danger of NATO installations in neighboring Norway as the pretext for intervention there?

This was the implication in Premier Khrushchev's note on Cuba and it is not dismissed lightly in Europe. The Norwegians, occupied through four bitter years of World War II, have in their isolated position in the north given this solemn consideration.

The European view on Cuba is related to the whole question of international co-operation versus the "go it alone" approach that today increasingly threatens the structure of co-operation. Understandably, there is some half suppressed satisfaction that Big Brother has stubbed his toe. This is particularly true among the French and British who remember Suez and the righteous denunciation by the United States — and the Soviet Union—of that misadventure.

But that human reaction to one side, the sober concern is for the success of the new President and his administration since success is so obviously essential to the future of Europe and the world.

Raymond Aron, long a friend of the United States, writing in Figaro on "The Cuban Disaster," suggests that the Monroe Doctrine as enunciated anew by Mr. Kennedy is outmoded. That doctrine was intended, Aron writes, to protect Latin America from European colonialism with the support of the British navy which was the supreme power in its day.

But that day has passed and the United States can no longer consider Latin America a "sphere of influence" in which American power is free to work its own will. Ofter all, Aron points out, the Soviet Union has long tolerated the military installations of the United States in Turkey with its border with the Soviet Union. These installations, he might have added, include intermediate range missiles with nuclear warheads under the control of the United States.

The London Observer, in an editorial headed "Blinkers," goes further in accusing President Kennedy on the basis of his speeches since the Cuban misadventure of a view of the world which is "dangerously oversimplified" in that it leaves no room for neutralism and equates capitalism with total virtue and Communism with total evil.

"It is only when the neutral nations are convinced that the West is prepared to respect their independence and leave them alone that they will see much greater faults in the Soviet Union which is bound by its own ideology to deny freedom of choice to its own people as well as to others," the editorial says.

To Americans suffering from the outrage of a defiant Castro just across the water this may seem heresy. But it should be understood that it is a widely held view among America's most loyal friends everywhere. To go against it will be to jeopardize the structure of alliances and friendships painstakingly built during 15 years.

KENNEDY SCHOOL AID BILL GAINS IN SENATE

WASHINGTON, May 2 (AP)—A Senate education subcommittee today voted 8-1 to approve President Kennedy's $2,298,000,00 proposal for federal aid to public grade and high schools.

Only Senator Barry Goldwater (Rep.), Arizona, opposed the measure. Six Democrats and two Republicans voted to send it to the full Labor and Public Welfare Committee.

The latter group is expected to approve it either Thursday or early next week.

Democratic leaders hope to bring the legislation up on the Senate floor next week.

The bill would authorize federal grants to the states over three years to be used for school construction, teacher salaries, or both at the option of the states.

The grants would total $666,000,000 the first year, $766,000,000 the second, and $866,000,000 the third.

Each state would receive a minimum of $15 a public school child each year. Low income states would get larger grants for each pupil.

Senator Wayne Morse (Dem.), Oregon, the subcommittee chairman, called the vote "a very significant and important step" in enacting Mr. Kennedy's 1961 legislative program.

Voting for the bill in addition to Morse, were Senators Lister Hill of Alabama, chairman of the full committee; Pat McNamara of Michigan, Ralph Yarborough of Texas, Joseph S. Clark of Pennsylvania, Jennings Randolph of West Virginia, all Democrats, and Clifford P. Case of New Jersey, and Jacob K. Javits of New York, Republicans.

NEHRU ATTEMPTS TO BLOCK NAMING OF POLITICAL HEIR

NEW DELHI, May 2 (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru proposed yesterday in Parliament a reorganization of his party's leadership that would make it more difficult for any one person to emerge as his acknowledged political heir.

Nehru recommended that the Congress party, which usually follows his lead, have two deputy leaders in Parliament instead of one. The Prime minister is the leader in both houses, and the post of deputy leader recently became vacant with the death of Home Minister G. B. Pant.

Since then Nehru has tried to cut down the stature of the deputy leader's post, for which rival factions have been squabbling. Nehru, 70 years old, was groomed for leadership by Ghandi, still refuses to discuss the idea of a successor and discourages rivalry among his subordinates.

COURT APPOINTS PHYSICIAN TO EXAMINE GEORGE FRANK

A physical examination was to be made today of George Frank, an accountant and associate of East St. Louis gang boss Frank (Buster) Wortman, to determine whether his health is good enough to permit him to be tried later this month on a charge of attempted income tax evasion.

United States District Judge William G. Juergens at East St. Louis appointed Dr. Paul Larson Jr., a specialist in internal medicine, to examine Frank after the defendant's physician testified yesterday that his health was such that the strain of a court trial could prove fatal.

The testimony was given at a hearing on a motion seeking a continuance of the trial, set for May 15. Dr. Larson is to report his findings to Judge Juergens Thursday morning, when a ruling on the motion for a continuance will be made. Other defendants in the income tax evasion case are Wortman, Elmer (Dutch) Dowling, Edward (Ted) Wortman, Sam Magin and Gregory (Red) Moore.

EVANGELICAL SYNOD TO JOIN UNITED CHURCH OF CHRIST

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich., May 2 (AP)—The Michigan-Indiana synod of the Evangelical and Reformed church, comprising 106 churches in the two states, voted unanimously last night to join the newly formed United Church of Christ.

Eleven other synods have approved the proposed constitution. The remaining synods will vote later this month.

The new church was formed in June 1957 by a union of the General Council of the Congregational Christian Churches with the Evangelical and Reformed church. The new constitution will take effect when approved by two thirds of the individual Congregational churches and 33 regional Evangelical and Reformed synods voting.

CHEVROLET'S GOT MORE OF WHAT IT TAKES

. . . and that's why more people are taking to it. That Jet-smooth ride, for instance, with Full Coil suspension and hundreds of other built-in "shock absorbers" that take the bounce out of bumps. (Chevrolet's one of the few cars with a coil spring at every wheel.) And all Chevrolets have Body by Fisher refinements you'll find in no other car in Chevy's field. Big and little things that add up to home-on-the-road comfort. There's the easier loading deep-well trunk that swallows up odd-sized objects an ordinary trunk would choke on. Conveniences like crank-operated vent-i-panes, single-key lock system, parallel-action windshield wipers—just to name a few. All this wrapped up in a slimmer, trimmer shape that's so easy to get around with. No wonder Chevrolet's the most popular on the highway and the buy-way!

UNIVERSAL MATCH MERGER PROGRESSES

Directors of Universal Controls, Inc., of New York yesterday unanimously approved a merger with Universal Match Corp., it was announced today. Merger of the two companies was agreed to and then canceled in January. Negotiations were reinstated in March and deferred again last month after an unfavorable vote of the Universal Controls board of directors.

Approval also was voted yesterday by the executive committee of Universal Match, with the authority of its full board, Frank J. Prince, chairman of Universal Match's executive committee and the largest shareholder, announced.

Universal Match will be the surviving corporation of the merger, which will be accomplished by an exchange of stock at the rate of three tenths of a share of Universal Match common stock for each share of Universal Controls common stock. About 3,300,000 shares of Universal Match stock will be exchanged. At yesterday's closing price, they would be valued at about $180,000,000.

Special meetings of the shareholders of the two companies will be held on July 21 to vote on the merger, it was announced.

All present members of the board of Universal Match will serve on the new board. In addition, Carl P. Clare, executive vice president and chief executive officer of Universal Controls; Gustave L. Levy, partner in Goldman Sachs and Co.; Christopher A. Rupp, vice president of Baltimore National Bank, and one other to be named by Universal Controls and acceptable to Universal Match will be directors of the surviving corporation.

M. Mac Schwebel, president of Universal Controls but currently on leave of absence, will not be a director of the new corporation, Carroll Rosenbloom, board chairman of Universal Controls, said today. Schwebel has been indicted by a federal grand jury in New York for violation of securities laws.

PULITZER PRIZE AWARDS FOR 1960; WHO'S WHO ON WINNERS

Amarillo Paper Gets Medal; First Novel Wins; Expose on Business Ethics Is Honored

NEW YORK, May 2.

PULITZER PRIZE awards in the fields of journalism, letters and music, announced yesterday by President Grayson Kirk of Columbia University, went to the Amarillo (Tex.) Globe-Times for meritorious newspaper public service, to the novel, "To Kill a Mockingbird," by Harper Lee, and to "All The Way Home," adapted for the stage by Tad Mosel, for drama.

The forty-fifth presentation of the prizes, endowed by a bequest in the will of the first Joseph Pulitzer, founder of the Post-Dispatch, the old New York World and the Columbia Pulitzer Graduate School of Journalism, was made by Columbia University trustees, guided by advisory boards of specialists.

The annual awards in journalism included seven other recipients, each of whom received a $1000 honorarium, four more in letters in the realms of history, biography and poetry, each of them given $500, and to a book publisher a special citation for putting forth a "Picture History of the Civil War."

IN JOURNALISM, Sanche de Gramont was named as the winner for best reporting under pressure of deadline, in the New York Herald Tribune of the death of Leonard Warren, Metropolitan Opera Star, during a performance, and Edgar May, Buffalo (N.Y.) News, without edition time a factor, for an analysis of the state welfare service.

Other journalism prizes went to Edward R. Cony for his stories in the Wall Street Journal analyzing a dubious transaction involving business ethics. It was considered the outstanding example of reporting on national affairs. The prize was given Lynn Heinzerling of the Associated Press for international reporting on early events in The Congo.

William J. Dorvillier of the San Juan (Puerto Rico) Star, was the winner for distinguished editorial writing with comments on ecclesiastical intercession in 1960 Cuban elections. An award for newspaper cartooning was received by Carey Orr, for work produced in his long career with the Chicago Tribune.

A Japanese photographer, Yasushi Nagao, won the prize in his category for producing the most outstanding picture published in United States newspapers with a widely printed picture, circulated by United Press International, entitled "Tokyo Stabbing." He was the first foreign photographer to receive a Pulitzer Prize.

RECOGNITION for meritorious and disinterested public service was gained by the Amarillo Globe-Times for its crime investigation sparked by the newspaper's editor, Thomas Hazzard Thompson. It resulted in a successful campaign to rid local government of corruption. It culminated in the resignation of a county judge, and indictments of public officeholders.

The achievements of the inquiry launched by Thompson, which obtained a gold medal award valued at $500 from the Pulitzer Prize judges for his newspaper, included the subsequent election of a reform slate of officials and a "clean-up" administration.

DE GRAMONT, 29-year-old staff member, was at work on the rewrite bank of the Herald Tribune when his opportunity came to win the award for local reporting under the pressure of edition time. The night city desk was informed that Leonard Warren had collapsed when singing at the Met, last year on March 4.

De Gramont was assigned to hasten to the Metropolitan Opera House. He found that Warren was dead and gathered other pertinent facts, returning to his office to write his graphic story under heavy pressure of time. He now is a member of the Paris staff of the Herald Tribune.

PULITZER PRIZE judges considered the series of articles by Edgar May written without the immediacy of a deadline, entitled: "Our Costly Dilemma," published in the Buffalo Evening News, as the distinguished example of last year's local reporting under the prescribed conditions.

His 14 articles, dealing with the expense and administration of relief, were written after a six-month survey including three months of active service as a caseworker for the Erie County Department of Social Welfare. He was nominated for the prize by Commissioner Raymond W. Houston of the New York State Department of Social Welfare.

"The commissioner of the Erie County Social Welfare department issued a 34-point reform program as a direct result of the series," Houston wrote Pulitzer Prize intermediaries at the Columbia Graduate School of Journalism.

CONY DEALT with a problem of business ethics in his analytical story in the Wall Street Journal, which attracted the attention of Pulitzer Prize judges and the advisory board, to earn the $1000 award for reporting on national affairs. It concerned a transaction whereby an executive of one company did business and profited with another firm in which he was interested.

The complicated operation concerned the purchase of plywood from the nation's largest producer of that product, Georgia-Pacific Corp., through Carrol Shanks, then president of Prudential Insurance Corp., and also a Georgia-Pacific director.

The intricate business operation was legal but aroused the ethical problem of whether executives should serve two masters, profiting from each. Cony is news editor of the Wall Street Journal.

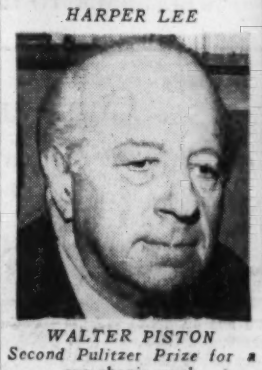
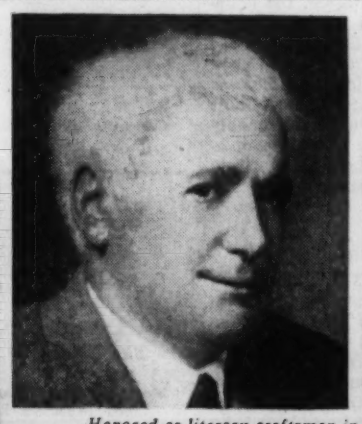
HARPER LEE

Writers scoring triumphs with their first efforts received the ranking literary awards in the listing of Pulitzer Prizes for 1960. Harper Lee won the prize for fiction with her first published work—"To Kill a Mockingbird," the story of a small Southern town and its struggle with social problems. The other first effort, the play "All the Way Home," won the drama award for Tad Mosel. A television writer, he based his play on the Pulitzer Prize novel of 1958, "A Death in the Family." Involved in a scene (right) from the play are (from left) Lillian Gish, Colleen Dewhurst, Thomas Chalmers, Aline MacMahon and Tom Wheatley.



WALTER PISTON

Second Pulitzer Prize for a symphonic work.



Honored as literary craftsmen in specialized fields were historian HERBERT FEIS (left) for "Between War and Peace: The Potsdam Conference"; PHYLLIS McGINLEY, for a collection of verse titled "Times Three: Selected Verse From Three Decades," and biographer DAVID DONALD, whose study of an anti-slave crusader was called "Charles Sumner and the Coming of the Civil War." The American Heritage's "Picture History of the Civil War" earned a special citation.

REPORTER SEES NAME TELETYPED, LEARNS HE WON

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 2 (AP)—Edgar May of the Buffalo Evening News received word that he had been awarded a Pulitzer Prize for reporting while standing at an Associated Press teletype machine yesterday.

He was less than calm when the machine spelled out his name in the list of award winners.

"I've won a Pulitzer!" he shouted and ran from the room to telephone friends.

"Did I read it correctly . . . was it really me?" he said moments later when he rushed back into the A.P. office.

He had read it correctly.

"This is the happiest day of my life," he said in a quieter moment.

AMARILLO, Tex., May 2 (AP).

A VIGOROUS civic house-cleaning campaign led to a distinguished award yesterday for the Amarillo Globe-Times—a Pulitzer Prize for meritorious public service.

The afternoon newspaper was honored for a crusade against vice and corruption which drove a county judge from office and contributed to a turnover in law enforcement personnel.

It was the first Pulitzer Prize for public service ever won by a Texas newspaper.

PUBLISHER S. B. WHITTENBURG said: "The Pulitzer gold medal for meritorious public service to the Amarillo Globe-Times will be a continual challenge to us to be more constantly alert for those individuals or combinations of individuals who destroy the fabric of good community life.

"We are humbly grateful to be allowed to take our place among the other winners of the Pulitzer gold medal. The efforts of those of us who have won the award is matched by the hundreds of other newspapers who carry on the great tradition of service by the free press of America.

"Under the leadership of editor Thomas Hazzard Thompson, our staff worked for months to assemble the material that brought us the award. We all are profoundly complimented."

THOMPSON, 52 years old, a former public school teacher and college professor, said: "Some of our friends in the newspaper business told us this

WINNING PLAY ALMOST CLOSED SEVERAL TIMES

NEW YORK, May 2 (AP)—Tad Mosel's tender play, "All The Way Home," has become known as "The Miracle on Forty-fourth Street." It has almost closed several times, and stayed on Broadway only through desperate measures.

The play opened Nov. 30 at the Belasco theater. The critics liked it, but the public took little interest and a tentative closing notice was posted the Saturday after it opened. A last-minute surge of ticket buying saved the play that time.

The theater usually has been only half-filled since then, and several other times the closing notice has been posted, then withdrawn, by producers Fred Coe and Arthur Cantor. Presumably, after yesterday's news, "All The Way Home" will get still another reprieve.

Biographies of Winners Of Journalism, Letters Awards

NEW YORK, May 2.

Tad Mosel

George Ault Mosel Jr. has been called "Tad" practically all his life. He was born in Steubenville, O., 39 years ago.

Mosel interrupted his studies at Amherst in World War II to serve in the Army Air Corps. He was graduated from the University in 1947 and went on to study at the Yale Drama School and Columbia University.

He has written extensively for television, some of his works in that medium being "Star in the Summer Night," "My Lost Saints," "The Lawn Party," and "The Waiting Place."

Before breaking into TV writing, Mosel, a bachelor, worked for a time selling tickets for an airline. "It was a frightening thing," he recalls. "I couldn't get a job writing."

Harper Lee

Miss Lee was born on April 28, 1926, in Monroeville, Ala., where her father and elder sister still practice law. She attended public schools there and studied law at the University of Alabama.

For several years Miss Lee has divided her time between Monroeville and New York City, where, until she decided to devote her full time to writing, she

Laos—and After

However the Laos crisis is resolved, South Viet Nam may soon succeed it as the emergency area of Southeast Asia. The Administration appears to be justified in planning to double the amount of military aid going to the government of South Viet Nam. The additional $41,000,000 will be available during the fiscal year starting in July. At the same time it is important that the United States make every effort to induce the Viet Nam government to speed up its program of social and political reform; fortunately, this also is contemplated.

As is often the case on the Communist periphery, there is a dual problem in South Viet Nam. Communism has made gains there both because of armed guerrilla attacks and because social reform has been too long delayed. For the time being, therefore, military aid and social reform must go together. A better life for the Vietnamese will not fend off the roving bands of Communist terrorists, nor will military action without the hope of social progress enlist the support of the people.

Washington estimates are that about 600 persons a month are being killed by South Viet Namese Communists and their allies from the Communist-controlled northern portion of the country. The deteriorating situation in Laos has made it easier for Vietminh insurgents from the north to slip into South Viet Nam.

The ultimate solution in Laos, which borders South as well as North Viet Nam, will of course have a profound effect on Viet Nam and on the stability of the Western-backed Ngo Dinh Diem regime. President Kennedy and the National Security Council have been considering this as well as the still-confused question of the Laotian cease-fire.

Chairman Fulbright of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee is wisely opposed to sending American troops into Laos, even at the risk of a serious loss of United States prestige if Laos should fall to the Communists. But the Administration must also try to determine whether the loss of Laos would mean heavier pressure on Viet Nam, whether the West should make a military stand in Viet Nam if necessary, whether the West should be prepared to abandon Southeast Asia rather than fight, or whether new avenues of diplomatic pressure can be opened up.

Mr. Kennedy's ambassador-at-large, Averell Harriman, said in Laos on Monday that Soviet Premier Khrushchev must bear responsibility for further delay in a Laotian cease-fire. It appears certain that Khrushchev is trying to push the young Kennedy Administration as far as he can. The questions Mr. Kennedy and his advisers are pondering are: How far is Khrushchev really prepared to go, and what will it take to stop him?

If only Laos were involved, the decision before the Administration would be less difficult. Laos is a small place; the Laotians do not want to fight anyone. If Laos could be isolated, its loss would principally be loss of face. But how would that affect South Viet Nam, Cambodia and Thailand? This is rice country. It offers food and room for expansion to Red China. Is it to be kept free? If so, how?

Ever since the United States went to the aid of Greece and Turkey under the Truman Doctrine, our national policy has been that of aiding threatened nations to maintain their freedom of choice. That is still American policy, as it should be. But nothing President Kennedy has said in recent days is truer than his remark in Chicago that we can only help those who have the will themselves to defend their own freedom.

Where to Sleep, to Eat?

While Missourians can be proud of the gradual opening of public accommodations to all citizens equally in major cities, in much of the state racial and even religious discrimination prevails. The Human Rights Commission has found that Negroes cannot find lodging in more than 86 per cent of the hotels and motels, or sit down in 84 per cent of the restaurants.

This is the evidence which has prompted the Missouri House to approve tentatively a new bill prohibiting such discrimination in restaurants, hotels, theaters and similar accomodations for the public. The bill requires the Commission to attempt persuasion before compulsion. Neighboring Illinois and Kansas, as well as other states, have similar laws. We congratulate the House for voting to inspire fair and uniform practice in Missouri.

Security, Not Socialism

So many charges of falsification have been hurled on both sides of the medical-care controversy that a debate between Secretary Ribicoff and the president of the American Medical Association might be helpful. Unfortunately, the Secretary's challenge may not be accepted; but somebody ought to try to get the discussion of this question back on the rails.

For example, we cannot agree with the bulletin of the St. Louis Medical Society that the Kennedy plan would introduce socialized medicine. Its sole objective is to provide through Social Security—more akin to insurance than anything else—for the cost to retired persons of hospitalization, nursing home care and the like. It is needed because, despite assertions in medical association publications, the Kerr-Mills Act of last year is inadequate.

Urging letters to legislators to induce Missouri to join in the Kerr-Mills program, the local bulletin states that this "can be workable and fair, provided that means tests and perhaps a lien and recovery law are enacted." That is the turning point of the debate. Even if Kerr-Mills money is accepted, it can be used only to help those who take a pauper's oath. Should not Americans have the opportunity to provide during working years for the requirements of age?

The St. Louis medical bulletin is "against wholesale distribution of funds under Social Security, which has been demonstrated to be financially unsound." It states that "the profession is still on record as against Social Security in general." Perhaps. The American people, however, long ago accepted Social Security as one of the most heartening innovations in their history.

The most progressive nations have adopted it in principle. No less than 56 foreign countries have more or less similar systems. No less than 33 nations provide health insurance, generally more far-reaching than the Kennedy plan.

Why do American doctors allow an organization which speaks in their collective name to resist so strenuously a proposal which is so much more limited than Britain's? Surely our doctors do not advocate a pauper's oath for the aged.

Try Again in the County

The plan for new Missouri House districts informally approved by the County Council's Democratic majority is deficient on the two counts by which it must be judged—which is to say it needs to be completely redone. The districts it offers fall a good deal short of being nearly equal in population, and in several instances they are not nearly as compact as they ought to be.

The districts range in population from a low of 31,289 in the southwest Eleventh District to 56,694 in the east-central (University City area) Seventh, or from about 34 per cent below the ideal size of 50,252 to about 12 per cent in excess of it. Five of the districts are 10 per cent or more greater than the ideal; one, the west-central Eighth, is 17 per cent below the ideal. Six of the districts fall within the range of six per cent above or six per cent below the ideal. But as a whole this is far too great a disparity in population totals to be permitted to stand.

From the point of view of compactness the districts tend to be more reasonable approaches to the ideal than from the population standard. Even so, the University City Seventh district, which is too large anyway, unnecessarily jogs through a narrow opening to burst into a part of Wellston. There are some peculiar indentations in the north side Second, and the Tenth, paralleling the city's West End.

It may be that some of this loose draftsmanship grows out of efforts to follow township lines; if so, that is a mistake. The townships exist principally as units of party organization; they have no real relationship to local or state government. What is more they vary in size quite markedly. But the practical effect of using township lines is to give one party—or one faction of one party—control over a particular seat, and no doubt that is what the Democrats had in mind.

Republican claims of bias aside, the boundaries of the districts ought to be redrafted because they do not meet the spirit of the constitutional injunction for districts as compact and as nearly equal in population as may be. The Election Board in St. Louis created city districts that were reasonably compact and almost precisely equal in population. The Council's Democratic majority surely ought to be able to do the same.

Leaks and the National Interest

Representative John Moss has added an interesting note to the controversy over President Kennedy's suggestion that the press exercise voluntary restraints during the cold-war period. Mr. Moss, chairman of the Special Government Information Subcommittee, points out that in almost every instance, so-called breaches of security investigated by his group have turned out to be "carefully controlled leaks of information favorable to the viewpoint of some government official, federal agency or military service." That underlines one of the difficult questions in this field—how to separate genuine security matters from matters involving bureaucratic cover-up. It seems to us that the best agency to evaluate situations like this is the individual newspaper, acting independently. Editors are in a position to inform themselves if national security really is at stake and to act accordingly, and to expose mistakes so the people may act accordingly.

Meeting of the Waters

Visitors who admire the Milles fountain representing the meeting of the Mississippi and Missouri rivers are sometimes surprised to learn that the actual confluence is extremely difficult to reach. Naturally enough, they expect some sort of overlook at one of the most significant sites in the United States, the mid-way point on the great inland waterway so prominent in the country's geography, history, economics and politics. It does seem almost perverse that the area has been allowed to remain the almost inaccessible flood plain that it is.

Proposals, of course, have been advanced time and again to remedy this neglect. Now another is made by Alfred Kahn, the county's assistant planning director. He calls for a national park on the crescent of land on the water side of the proposed Columbia Bottoms industrial park. Though the site is nationally important, it is a question whether it really needs national attention.

When and if the Columbia Bottoms levee is built, local enterprise surely will provide access and a suitable space for the viewing of the rivers. Missouri also might consider establishing a small state park opposite Columbia Bottoms on the land which really lies between the two rivers. Perhaps it is not feasible to have this accessible when the rivers are in flood. Yet at other times it should be possible to visit it conveniently. A suitable observation point, properly landscaped, ought to be established by the state—or even the county—without calling on Washington.

Roads Win a Point

The blacktop bill has been eviscerated by amendment in the Missouri House, and if legislative burial results, the bill will be unlamented.

This measure would have required the Highway Department to accept alternate bids as between Portland cement concrete and asphaltic concrete for all highways, and also to accept the lowest bid. Since the cheapest construction material does not always represent the cheapest maintenance, the effect might have increased the long-range cost of roads. But the efforts of asphalt interests to override the judgment of highway engineers on how to build highways lost through an amendment. The amendment limits alternate bids to highways not built with federal aid funds, meaning highways which are usually built of asphalt anyway.

For the first time, in this Legislature, the embattled state highway system has won a victory over special interests. It was about time.

"WELL, BACK TO DER OLD SAUSAGE MILL."

Cuba and the West

President Kennedy's Policy Ignores Nature of Enemy, says British Newspaper

An Editorial in
The Manchester Guardian

Most liberal opinion in England welcomed President Kennedy's election as the beginning of what looked like a more progressive and dynamic period in American history. On Cuba, he has disappointed many people here. It is right that he should know this—not because anyone wants to blackmail him, but simply in order that he should know what his silent constituents all over the world are thinking.

For President Kennedy is, after all, the leader of the alliance. He carries our fate in his hands no less than the fate of his own countrymen. If, through pride, or obstinacy, or lack of imagination, he acts in such a way that the good name of his country is tarnished, the whole of the West will suffer.

The Mirror of Public Opinion

On Cuba this is what the President has done. By supporting Dr. Cardona's invasion he has strengthened Dr. Castro and pushed him still further into the arms of the Soviet Union. By appealing to the Monroe Doctrine he has inflamed Latin American susceptibilities on one of their most tender spots.

In the United States the Monroe Doctrine is seen as the guarantee of the independence of the Western Hemisphere. South of the Rio Grande, it looks more like a hypocritical cover for North American imperialism. White House spokesmen, commenting on the "Guardian's" criticisms of the —Herblock in The Washington Post.

Test Monroe Doctrine, have insisted that it has the sanction of national necessity. To this, two things must be said.

First, hardly anyone outside the United States can believe that Cuba is a threat to American security or that there is any "national necessity" to crush Dr. Castro. President Kennedy has said that he will intervene in Cuba if the Russians are given missile launching sites on the island. But even if the Soviet Union got missile launching sites from Dr. Castro, Cuba would be no more serious a threat to the United States than Turkey (with American bases) now is to the Soviet Union. Mr. Khrushchev has not threatened to send a Russian army into Turkey.

In any case, the plea of "national necessity" cannot be accepted as a justification for aggression. All aggressors have always claimed that their transgressions were compelled by "national necessity." It was "national necessity" that led Britain and France into the Suez invasion. It was "national necessity" that led Hitler into Poland. To allow a plea of "national necessity" is to allow a nation to be prosecutor and judge in its own cause, and to make the rule of international law impossible. It is, in fact, a return to the law of the jungle.

The most distressing feature of President Kennedy's policy, and of the American newspaper comments on our criticisms of it, is that they ignore the real nature of the enemy they claim to be fighting. Communism is not a plague like the Colorado beetle, to be stamped out by force. Communism is an idea: one of the most plausible persuasive ideas in human history.

It is, of course, backed by the armed might of the Soviet Union. But the danger the West now faces in Latin America and Africa is not that of direct Soviet intervention, nor even that of a Communist conspiracy advancing by stealth. The real danger is that Latin Americans and Africans may decide, of their own free will, that the Communist picture of the world is more truthful and more promising than the West's.

If that should happen, then the West is indeed doomed—for in the last resort, no power on earth can withstand the advance of an idea. President Kennedy's policy towards Cuba has given new plausibility to the Communist myth that his country is the citadel of imperialism. If the President were to continue on his present course, he would make Communism more dangerous, not less.

Detroit to Cape Canaveral From The Detroit News

Some 400,000 Michigan unemployed, without diversion except to watch the night skies for an American in orbit, will be peculiarly interested in testimony before the investigating subcommittee of Senator McClellan.

Electricians, plumbers and pipefitters on construction projects at the Cape Canaveral missile launching site commonly draw $450 to $500 a week, the committee was told. And "some foremen" have drawn $800.

Col. Robert M. Creech testified that some weeks workers drew pay for 110 hours, and the Air Force has "just issued" orders establishing a 60-hour week ceiling.

Wages are highest and the quality of labor poorest at Cape Canaveral, the testimony continued, and strikes have been used to get regular time, time and a half and double time in one 12-hour day. The result—delayed space progress everywhere.

Skilled workers plodding streets here for jobs will be amazed to know more workers are assigned to jobs at America's No. 1 launching pad than can get into the space where the work is. There would be plenty of room and abundant skilled labor for some of the jobs in Detroit—where a big hunk of the tax bite is taken.

SOCIAL CHANGE IN LATIN AMERICA TODAY: ITS IMPLICATIONS FOR UNITED STATES POLICY, by Richard N. Adams, and others. (Harper, for the Council on Foreign Relations. 353 pgs., $5.)

Evidence of the new social forces at work in Latin America is contained in this new study put out by the Council on Foreign Relations. Articles dealing with these forces as reflected in Peru, Bolivia, Brazil, Guatemala and Mexico are included—and the authors of the several articles are all authorities in their fields.

For example, Oscar Lewis of the University of Illinois writes on Mexico, a country he knows intimately. Prof. Lewis marks 1940 as a turning point in the Mexican story, when the "distinctively agrarian and revolutionary phase of the Mexican Revolution" ended and a new phase, sometimes called the industrial revolution or, by others, "a shift to the right," began.

And since that time, urbanization, diversification and other aspects of modern industrialized nations have appeared in Mexico. Moreover, a growth of better relations with the United States has resulted. Mr. Lewis concludes:

". . . Because of Mexico's prestige among Latin American nations as a people that has carried out an authentic national revolution of its own, Mexico can also be, more than any other Latin neighbor, both a testing-ground and an interpreter of the value and advantages of friendship and co-operation with the United States."

All the articles deal with similar subjects in each of countries surveyed. And the conclusions of the several authors, in sum, is that while United States-Latin American relations will continue to undergo a severe testing, hope for better hemispheric relations is not unwarranted—if these nations continue their social and political developments and the United States offers tangible understanding to them.

FIELDING'S TRAVEL GUIDE TO EUROPE—1961-62 edition, by Temple Fielding. (Sloane, 1144 pgs., $5.95.)

This is the updated version of the guide which has been used by more and more persons over the years. It covers Europe from Austria (Albania, it's noted, is prohibited to tourists by our State Department) to Yugoslavia and all alphabetical points in between. Most of the information needed as a starting point for many points in each country is included, as well as such items as tourist traps to be avoided. Places which have deteriorated or improved since the previous edition are noted, as well as currently recommended spots. There's a comprehensive index also. The book is a bit bulky for a coat pocket, but won't crowd any suitcase.

Letters from the People

The A.M.A. Off Base

The current propaganda launched by the A.M.A. against a medical care program for the aged under the social security program is a gross distortion of the facts.

Included in its reasons for support of the Kerr-Mills bill is: "It is now being put into operation in 46 states, with the full support of the medical profession . . ." This would imply that 46 states have enacted legislation to implement the Kerr-Mills legislation.

The truth is that only five states (Michigan, Oklahoma, West Virginia, Massachusetts and Washington) have adopted this legislation. Other states, including Missouri, have legislation under consideration but the staggering cost to the states under this proposal is almost prohibitive.

Another distortion of fact is the statement: "It avoids waste of tax dollars because it is geared to need . . . does not make federal dependents out of all the elderly able to meet their own health-care expenses." The truth is all recipients of medical care services under the Kerr-Mills bill must meet certain eligibility requirements prescribed by the states and which can vary from one state to another. Medical care is not available as "a right" as it would be under social security but only after the applicant was subjected to a thorough and searching investigation. A patchwork of programs would exist throughout the country with no similarity except in name.

Instead of saving tax dollars it would increase substantially the red tape, administrative costs and bureaucracy of which the A.M.A. complains. Michigan has set up separate offices and specialized caseworkers in each of its urban counties to handle this program. This is necessary because applicants for medical care under Kerr-Mills must pass a "means test" to establish their eligibility.

Other statements in the A.M.A. paid advertisement are also misleading. There is nothing in the pending bill before the Congress (H.R. 4222) which would lower the quality of medical care or destroy the doctor-patient relationship. Neither is there any proof that voluntary health insurance programs would decline.

The A.M.A. or any other group has a right to express itself on any public issue but also an obligation to tell the truth and support assertions with facts—not fantasy.

Don't Worry

When are the special-interest politicians going to stop telling us we have nothing to worry about?

According to them we had nothing to worry about when the first Sputnik went into space, when the peace talks collapsed because of the U-2; nothing to worry about when our prestige started slipping, and now nothing to worry about when Russia shot the first man into space. Is this attitude to hound us forever? Libra

I wonder how many people really understand the inconvenience daylight saving time causes the farmers. Farmers have always gotten up early and worked late in summer. There are a number of things we can't do until the sun gets up and dries off the dew—like combining and putting up hay, which we can seldom start before noon.

If we must hire labor, men hardly want to work in the evening until the job is done, but want to quit when the clock says it's time. Often we could combine till 7:30 or 8 regular time or work even later putting up hay.

I wonder why you townfolk could not go to work an hour earlier and quit accordingly? You work by the clock and it would not make any difference to you. You'd have your long evenings to play. As it is, we farmers can't even get to mid-week prayer meetings without leaving our work undone.

Khrushchev Blitz Against Kennedy

WASHINGTON.

SOVIET PREMIER KHRUSHCHEV is plainly attempting a blitz of the Kennedy Administration before the new President can get on top of his job and take a made-in-America initiative of his own. The tough old Bolshevik is dragging his feet in Laos and at the even more crucial disarmament talks in Geneva.

He has had assistance he could not possibly have arranged on his own—though he is happily assuming the credit—in the Cuban fiasco and in the revolt of the generals against De Gaulle in Algeria. He is playing upon the sensitive piano of American national pride, particularly in Cuba, and hoping that he can aggravate the young President into making impulsive decisions of a fatally militaristic nature. It is clever and also merciless and will surprise only those who thought Khrushchev's recent tour of the United States was merely a comedy.

Dulles

What Kennedy must ask himself during these lonely days is: Where is the vital center of the storm? Where should he and can he act to prove that he perceives all that is going on in the calculating Khrushchev brain and intends to meet it?

Taking Rap for Dulles.

The President's mistakes during the crucial period just ended are almost as apparent as their results.

He made a bad judgment on Cuba and then neglected to provide against failure. He enlisted with fanfare headline-making support but did not line up some shock political troops of his own to take the offensive against the opposition.

He began with the idea that Central Intelligence Director Allen Dulles was such a good, honorable man—which Dulles is—that the President could afford to take the rap for him and ease him out with everyone being sweet and charitable about the whole thing. He is now learning that presidential prestige comes first, and not because of personal vanity.

CIA Job Reduced?

Each day brings Kennedy a fresh shock. The weight of the evidence is that the CIA committed his prestige in Cuba in a hopelessly amateur way.

The situation in France is frightening and the Geneva impasse even more so.

Now it is being reported that some CIA duties will be transferred to the Pentagon. If this proves true, it will soon become apparent to Senators already irked because, amid a week replete with off-the-record briefings, they learned only what friendly columnists and editors told them.

Senator Morse, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee dealing with Latin America, has said plainly that no one on his or the whole committee was consulted about Cuba. The State Department took evasive action about a hearing called by Morse, but Secretary of State Rusk will attempt this week to repair that damage.

Vague on Censorship.

The President made a weak speech to the publishers in New York, apparently having felt he had shot his wad with the brilliant and defiant talk to the editors.

The kind of haphazard, voluntary censorship Kennedy suggested cannot work in so big and free a country. If some form of censorship is what he wants, he must say so and lay down the rules.

The President seems to feel that he needs elders. The Kennedy army he mobilizes, regardless of age and previous conditions of servitude, is what will save his leadership.

28 R.O.T.C. AWARDS AT WASHINGTON U.

Keys, Medals Go to 24 Students—Col. Hart Akagi Receives Three.

Twenty-eight keys and medals were awarded to oustanding Army and Air Force R.O.T.C. cadets yesterday at the annual joint awards ceremony at Francis Field on the Washington University campus.

The awards, received by 24 students, were presented by Vice Chancellor Carl Tolman, Dean Don A. Fischer of the School of Engineering and representatives of service organizations in the St. Louis area.

Army Cadet Col. Hart Akagi of Honolulu received three awards. They were a senior Reserve Officers Association gold medal, Chicago Tribune gold R.O.T.C. medal and Military Order of the World Wars medal.

Two Awards Each.

Air Force Cadet First Lt. David W. Peterson, 1106 Pinetree lane, Webster Groves, and Army Cadet Second Lt. Richard E. Pinckert, 5917 Childress avenue, each received two awards.

Other awards to cadets were: Senior R.O.T.C. gold key for outstanding performance of duties, Army Lt. Col. Townsend W. Bowling, 7408 Washington avenue, University City, and Air Force Maj. Bernard B. Blaydes, 3124 Lemp avenue.

R.O.T.C. gold medals for outstanding members of third-year class, Peterson and Second Lt. Charles W. Brandhorst, 7129 Tholozan avenue. R.O.T.C. silver medals to outstanding members of second-year class, First Sgt. Jay L. Liss, 7924 Lafon avenue, University City, and Airman 2-C Armand A. Fannin of Springfield, Mo.

R.O.T.C. bronze medal for outstanding members of first-year class, Sgt. 1-C Edward A. St. Aubyn of Venezuela and Airman 3-C Kenneth W. Axtell, 22 Noland drive, Glendale; Society of American Military Engineers gold medal, Peterson and Pinckert.

Attorneys Staging Law Day Drama

—By a Post-Dispatch Photographer.

FUNERAL TO BE THURSDAY FOR WILLIAM H. DICKE

Funeral services for William H. Dicke, retired architect and contractor, will be at 2 p.m. Thursday at the Drehmann-Harral undertaking establishment, 1905 Union boulevard. Burial will be in St. John's Cemetery.

Mr. Dicke, who was 92 years old, died yesterday of infirmities of age in a Chicago hospital. Mr. Dicke, a former St. Louisan, had been living in Chicago since 1957. Prior to his retirement in 1934, he had designed and built homes in north St. Louis. Before moving to Chicago, he had lived at 1911 Hebert street.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Edward H. Roth of St. Louis, and a brother, Edward C. Dicke of St. Louis.

HARRY BENNIGSON FUNERAL SERVICES TO BE TOMORROW

Funeral services for Harry Bennigson, executive vice president and a director of Hamilton Shoe Co., will be at 1 p.m. tomorrow at the Rindskopf undertaking establishment, 5216 Delmar boulevard. Burial will be in Spokane, Wash.

Mr. Bennigson, who was 68 years old, died Sunday of uremic poisoning at Jewish Hospital. He came to St. Louis in 1947 as vice president and general manager of the shoe company, after representing the firm in Spokane. In 1950 he was advanced to executive vice president. He lived at 42 Berkshire street, Richmond Heights.

He was treasurer of the St. Louis Shoe Manufacturers Association and a member of the 210 Associates, a national philanthropic organization in the shoe industry. Surviving are his wife, Helen; two sons, Marvin Bennigson, Spokane, and Ramon L. Bennigson, St. Louis, and three daughters, Mrs. Maxine Mandles, Tacoma, Wash.; Mrs. M. B. Michaels, Piedmont, Calif., and Mrs. William V. North, Kansas City, Mo.

BEN C. COMFORT DIES; HEADED GAS FIRM

Ex-President, Chairman of Mississippi Fuel Directed Building of Line.

Ben C. Comfort, former president and first chairman of the board of Mississippi River Fuel Corp., died today at Glenwood Hospital following a long illness. He was 71 years old.

Mr. Comfort, who was born in Detroit and studied civil engineering at the University of Michigan, joined Mississippi River Fuel Corp. in 1928 as general manager. He directed construction of the pipeline through which natural gas is brought from Louisiana fields for distribution to customers of Laclede Gas Co.

As vice president and later as president of the fuel corporation, Mr. Comfort testified at gas rate hearings before various regulatory bodies. He predicted natural gas reserves would last for generations.

Mr. Comfort, an expert rifleman and designer of sporting rifles, topped more than 800 other experts in winning the Wimbledon Cup Match at the National Rifle Association meet at Camp Perry, O., in 1935.

After his retirement in 1951, Mr. and Mrs. Comfort lived in Biloxi, Miss. They returned to St. Louis in 1955 and lived at 4475 West Pine boulevard. Surviving are his wife, Edith Ryckman Comfort, and two sons, Ben C. and Homer Comfort, Detroit.

Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. Thursday at Alexander & Sons undertaking establishment, 6175 Delmar boulevard, with burial in Oak Grove Cemetery.

HARRY F. M'LEAN DIES

MERRICKVILLE, Ont., May 2 (AP) — Harry Falconer McLean, Canadian construction man who gave away thousands of dollars, died at his home here Sunday night. He was 78 years old.

He became widely known in the 1940s in a series of public giveaways as "Mr. X," hitting the headlines first in November 1943, when he tossed $5000 in $100 bills to war wounded in Toronto.

ART MUSEUM GIVEN 19TH CENTURY ITEMS

Two Gifts on Display Are Gold Snuff Box and Silver Teapot.

A cast gold snuff box and a silver teapot, both made early in the nineteenth century, were placed on exhibit today at the City Art Museum, Charles Nagel, museum director, announced.

The snuff box is a gift from the Friends of the City Art Museum and the teapot was donated by Mrs. Richard Kent, 18 Huntleigh Woods.

Nagel said the snuff box was made by Johann Wilhelm Keibel, who with his father made many of the gold boxes which were fashionable during the reigns of Alexander I and Nicholas I, of Russia.

The rectangular box has a hinged lid and its entire surface is decorated in the rococo style, said Nagel. A subject depicting an architectural theme is on the lid and shields bearing the figure of a pelican, strapwork and leaf scrolls cover the other surfaces.

Nagel said the teapot is in the classical revival style, typified by its ovoid, straight-sided form, tapered spout, wood handle set in silver sockets and bright-cut decoration. It is the work of Daniel van Voorhis, a Philadelphia silversmith.

SOCIETY FOR BLIND FUND CAMPAIGN OPENS TODAY

The annual fund drive of the St. Louis Society for the Blind opened today and will continue through this month. No goal was set for the campaign, C. F. McClure Jr., chairman of the drive, said.

Funds raised will cover the programs of the society, McClure said. He listed the programs as the eye bank, prevention of blindness, employment of the blind and social and recreational services for the blind.

Donations to the campaign should be sent to the society at 508 North Grand boulevard. The name of the organization was erroneously reported in Sunday's Post-Dispatch as the Light House Society of the Blind, a United Fund agency, instead of the St. Louis Society for the Blind, which is not in the United Fund.

Happy Hitting

If it's true that contented cows give more milk, why shouldn't happy ball players produce more base hits?

Broeg

The two top talents of the time, Mickey Mantle and Willie Mays, have hit the ball harder and more successfully so far this early season than at any period in careers which, to be frank about it, never have quite reached expectations.

And that's meant as a boost, not a knock.

Mays and Mantle, both 10-year men at 30, have so much ability that, baseball men agree, they've never hit the heights. Their heights, that is.

Mantle, the bull-necked blond switch-hitter, had one sensational triple-crown season, 1959, when he batted .365 and also led the American League in home runs, 52, and RBIs, 130.

Like the Yankees' slugger, Mays, the terror of the Giants, has had seasons that would be considered the ultimate by most players, but not by—or for—Willie. His best years were 1954 when he hit .345 with 41 homers and '55 when he belted 51 home runs, drove in 127 and stole 24 bases.

Now, apparently happier under new managers, Mays and Mantle, the perfect players, are behaving as though they're going to pass those previous peaks.

Labor Relations

Yes, we know, they're professionals, men paid to play, and they shouldn't care how they're handled, just as long as their names are spelled correctly on the first and fifteenth of each month.

The truth is, though, that men react differently to different treatment. For that matter, Stan Musial is rare, possessing the disposition that enabled him to put out the same for seven managers, reserving his opinions, but not his effort.

Mantle, it's apparent, resented Casey Stengel's attempts to push and prod him into the perfection the veteran manager saw as a thrilling possibility. The old man was almost too possessive. Stengel inherited DiMaggio, Rizzuto, but HE brought up Mantle from Class C to the majors, from Joplin to New York.

With the speed and power of the body beautiful he saw before him, Ol' Case wanted No. 7 to be not only the best home-run hitter, but also the best bunter, base-runner and outfielder. Stengel probably preached too much in the early days when the kid wanted to pop his bubble gum and sow his oats.

Inheriting a more mature Mantle, who now has seen the sights on and off Broadway, Ralph Houk quietly bestowed, no pun intended, the mantle of authority on Mickey. The Major decided that, rather than be led, the slugger could lead. And what leadership a proud Mantle has given so far.

The opinion continues here that with a 162-game schedule, pitching spread thin through a 10-team league and a most inviting target in Los Angeles' Wrigley Field Jr., Mantle just might break the most glamorous record on the books, Babe Ruth's 60 homers of 1927.

Four for Alvin

Mays' day came a day earlier for Willie than for the kids and Commies this year. Willie's wonderful walloping Sunday—four home runs—served merely to emphasize how happy he is to be playing for Alvin Dark.

Next to Leo Durocher, Dark taught Mays the most when he was a grass-green rookie rushed up to the Polo Grounds 10 years ago this month, to help the Giants win a dramatic pennant.

Durocher, recognizing a gold mine even when he saw it with free-wheeling, completely charmed the naive young Negro boy and won him over. Willie was Leo's boy. Everyone knew it, including Bill Rigney, who was a reserve infielder then.

If Rig resented the special treatment or, more likely, if he heard other players take exception to the exception, he vowed he would play no favorites when he became a manager. He soft-pedaled praise for Mays, stepped up his criticism so that the star would be just one of the boys. Willie never understood. He was hurt and resentful.

If Dark won't gush over Mays as much as Durocher did, he doesn't have to because a bond was established a decade ago when the established shortstop, a Southerner, lent a helping hand to the colored boy from Dixie.

Willie would run through the wall for Alvin—or hit four home runs for him. As both Mays and Mantle have proved, it's great to be young, happy and tremendous hitters.

It's pretty pleasant to manage them, too.

Gardner Stars for Minnesota

CINCINNATI, May 2—(UPI)—Gene Freese of the Cincinnati Reds and Billy Gardner of the Minnesota Twins never batted .300 or made an All-Star team, but for several seasons now they've managed to hold major league jobs through hustle and handiness.

Never was this more evident than in the roles they played yesterday in helping their clubs win the only two games played in the majors.

Freese hustled home from second base on a hit to deep short with the winning run in the Reds' 3-2 victory over the Philadelphia Phils. Gardner hit a two-out ninth-inning double that sent home Jim Lemon with the run that enabled Minnesota to edge the Chicago White Sox, 6-5.

The 27-year-old Freese, now playing with his fifth major league club, is hitting only .242, but he remains in the lineup primarily because of his speed and home run threat.

It was Freese's fleetness that helped lefty Jim O'Toole win a six-hitter against Robin Roberts and the Phils last night.

Freese on the Move.

With the score tied at 2-2, Freese led off the fourth by reaching first on a wild throw by shortstop Ruben Amaro. He moved to second on Chico Cardenas' single.

Don Blasingame then hit a grounder to Amaro's right. The Phils' shortstop made a diving stop, but couldn't make a play on Blasingame. Freese raced all the way home from second and beat Amaro's throw to the plate.

O'Toole pitched five shutout innings after that to clinch his second victory against as many defeats. He struck out nine batters and walked two. Gordon Coleman homered for the Reds in the second inning.

For Roberts, it was the fourth defeat without a victory. Bobby Del Greco's hits helped the Phils score both their runs.

At St. Paul-Minneapolis, a small afternoon crowd of 5777 watched the Twins beat the White Sox and remain in third place, a game out of the American League lead.

Three Hits For Gardner.

Scrappy, 33-year-old Gardner, now in his eighth major league season, made three of the Twins' 14 hits. Lemon, who scored the winning run had reached base with his fourth hit of the afternoon. Turk Lown was the Chicago loser in relief.

The White Sox's first three runs resulted from solo homers by Jim Landis, Al Smith and Camilo Carreon off Minnesota starter Chuck Stobbs.

Minnesota stayed in the game on the strength of Harmon Killebrew's two-run homer in the first; a pair of runs in the fifth on doubles by Lennie Green and Bob Allison, followed by Gardner's single; and a game-tying tally in the sixth resulting from Green's double.

Bills' Big Four Meet

Benington Says His Bills Were More Confident Than He Was

By John J. Archibald

They honored the battling Billikens last night. Speakers at a Tipoff Club dinner dealt lavish praise to a group of St. Louis University players who, in the words of Coach John Benington, "had more confidence in themselves than I did."

The most valuable player award was split three ways, among Glen Mankowski, Gordon Hartweger and Tom Kieffer. In addition, a special award was given to Bob (Bevo) Nordmann, the 6-foot-10 center who missed much of the season because of a knee injury.

"You often hear people talk about team spirit and that sort of thing," Benington said in a conversation after the ceremonies, "but what this team had was a little different. The boys had a tremendous respect for each other's ability. They knew what they could do and it was often a little more than I thought they could do.

"Several times I found the players pepping me up, where it usually is the coach who is supposed to deliver the fight talk. We'd be losing at halftime to a good team and Hartweger would say, 'Don't worry, Coach—we'll get 'em all right.'"

The trio who shared the most-valuable honors were introduced by Bob Broeg, sports editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Kieffer, the only junior in the group, was commended for his ability to hit in the clutch, as well as his all-round excellent play.

Mankowski, the ball-hawking defensive expert, was cited for his performance against Bradley in St. Louis U.'s nationally televised victory. Benington said, "I've never seen a player have a game as great as Mankowski did against Bradley that day."

Benington recalled that he once told Hartweger that he doubted Gordon would ever play much for him because he seemed to be lacking in all of the accepted basketball skills. After the coach listed all the boy's faults, Hartweger said, "Coach before I leave here, you'll get to like me."

Mrs. Benington admired Gordon's spirit and did what she could to persuade her husband that the boy might help the team.

As Hartweger accepted his silver bowl, he said, "I want to thank coach's wife for talking him into letting me play."

Bob Burnes, sports editor of the Globe-Democrat, presented Bob Nordmann with his award. Bevo was congratulated for his efforts to stay in shape so that he could help the team if his knee healed in time. Within a week after the injury, suffered in St. Louis's victory in the final game of the Kentucky tournament, Nordmann was sitting on the Bill's bench doing what he could to help Benington.

On the clock given him was the inscription, "For Outstanding Contribution to Billiken Basketball, 1960-61."

Other lettermen from the team that compiled a 21-9 record and finished as runner-up in the National Invitation Tournament were: Art Hambric, Donnell Reid, Bill Nordmann, Dave Harris, Dave Luechtefeld and George Latinovich.

"This team set a precedent that could be valuable in the future," Benington pointed out. "By winning against Bradley, Kentucky and Notre Dame on those teams' home courts, they showed that the home court advantage can be overcome anywhere and that it doesn't take a super team to do it."

No-Hitter Gives Bills First Win

St. Louis University found a way to win a baseball game. Larry Scherer last night pitched a no-hit game, said to be the first in Billiken baseball history, as the Blue and White beat Southeast Missouri State College, 5-1, at Crystal City.

The victory was the first of the season for the Billikens after nine defeats and a tie. The tie was against Southeast Missouri last Friday.

Scherer also had a big night at bat with four hits in five trips including a double. Len Boehmer also was 4-for-5 with two doubles and Dave Ritchie had a home run and a triple.

St. Louis U. was to be in action again today with a game scheduled at 4 against Washington University at Ligget Field.

The game opened a busy week for Washington. The Bears are set to play at Harris Teachers College at 3:30 tomorrow and have a doubleheader at Quincy, Ill., Saturday.

Johnson Makes Patterson Offer

PHILADELPHIA, May 2 (AP)—The manager of Harold Johnson said today he hoped heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson would accept an offer to meet the National Boxing Association light heavyweight champion in a title fight here next fall.

"I wish we could get him," added manager Pat Olivieri. "We may have to give him more money."

Olivieri expressed enthusiasm for a Johnson-Patterson clash on the heels of an announcement yesterday that promoter Herman Taylor had wired a bid of a $250,000 guarantee to Cus D'Amato, manager of Paterson, for a 15-round heavyweight title bout with Johnson.

Taylor proposed the bout "some time after Labor Day" either at Philadelphia Stadium or Franklin Field.

British Golf Debate: Did a Fly Make Putt By Landing on Ball

LONDON, May 2 (AP)—Golfing circles today debated the case of the fly that putted a birdie three. The question was this: Did the ball fall, or was it pushed? And it sent the experts scurrying for their rule books.

It happened yesterday on the third green at Sunningdale, Berkshire. Michael Lunt was playing Hugh Squirrell.

Squirrell was on the green in two. His putt reached the hole and teetered tantalizingly on the lip. Then a fly lighted on the "landward" side of the ball.

Slowly and surely it crawled up and over. . . . And down the other side toward the hole. And just as surely the ball rolled forward and dropped into the hole.

Lunt marked up a three for Squirrell on his card But back at the clubhouse, they were told that it shouldn't have counted—if in fact the fly did move the ball.

For the rule says: "If a ball at rest be moved or the lie altered by any outside agency except wind, it shall be placed on the spot from where it was moved."

A putting fly thus would become an "outside agency."

At nineteenth holes elsewhere they discussed the problem. At St. Andrews, club secretary Brigadier E. Brickman, said: "Yes, there is a similar case. It dealt with a bee."

The bee also landed on a ball on the lip of a hole. It was decided the bee was an "outside agency."

Squirrell said: "There is no guarantee the fly pushed the ball in." Lunt said he thought the ball had stopped before the fly putted.

But can a fly (weight approximately 18 milligrams) putt a golf ball (weight 46,000 milligrams) into a hole?

Said an entomologist: "It would depend on the way the blades of grass were lying. A million-to-one chance."

Cards and Broglio To Get First Shot At Pirates Tonight

By Neal Russo

If the Cardinals heed Manager Gene Mauch of the Phillies, they won't be misled by the Pirates' slower start this season.

"Pittsburgh definitely is the team to beat," Mauch said here the other day. "The Pirates showed they could outclass the field last year. They have the same men, no age problem, no injuries and they also have Vinegar Bend Mizell for the full season, along with Bobby Shantz."

Tonight at 8 o'clock the Cardinals, who gave the Pirates as much trouble as anyone did in 1960, breaking even with them, will get their first 1961 shot at baseball's world champions. The Pirates have a 9-6 record this year and the Redbirds are 7-9.

Change In Pitchers.

Solly Hemus announced a switch in his starting pitcher, from Bob Gibson to Ernie Broglio, for several reasons: 1. Broglio's 4-0 won-lost record and 1.24 earned-run mark against Pittsburgh a year ago; 2. The desire to give Broglio as many starts as possible; 3. The Redbirds' disheartening 11-7 collapse against the Phillies Sunday.

Manager Hemus, eager to end a pitching slump that has brought four losses in the five games on the current home stand, moved Gibson to the Wednesday night starting assignment. After Thursday's open date, Solly plans to open with Larry Jackson against the Cubs here Friday night.

Harvey Haddix, set back by the flu this season, will start against his former Cardinal mates, who might be playing without captain Kenny Boyer in tonght's game at Busch Stadium. Boyer is suffering from a stiff neck.

Haddix has a 13-8 record against the Redbirds, despite only a 1-3 mark in 1960.

Pirate Manager Danny Murtaugh said he hadn't decided between Mizell and Vern Law for Wednesday's game. Mizell has won both of his starts.

Nieman Kept in Lineup.

After a lengthy workout yesterday, an open date, Hemus said that Bob Nieman definitely would stay in the lineup. That means Stan Musial probably will ride the bench on the seventh anniversary of his record five-home run day against the Giants.

"I have to stay with Nieman for a while," Hemus said. "Bill White (sore ankles) should be ready. With a lefthander going for Pittsburgh, I may use Don Taussig in center."

"Lindy McDaniel threw batting practice about 25 minutes, and he looked good," Hemus said. "He should be getting back in the groove before long. Our pitching is much better than it has shown."

The statistics hardly indicated that the Pirates needed extra batting practice, but Murtaugh also turned his men loose at Busch Stadium yesterday.

Six Bucks Over .300.

Until the Bucs' bats quieted down a bit in Cincinnati over the weekend, the champions had eight men hitting over .300. Despite the recession, Pittsburgh came into town with this imposing list of averages: Smoky Burgess .455, Gino Cimoli .389, Bill Virdon .340, Bob Clemente and Dick Groat, each .323, Dick Stuart .306, Don Hoak .280 and Bob Skinner .267.

Bill Mazeroski with .179 and Hal Smith with .143 were the only Pirates dragging their feet.

Perhaps the Pirate who will be the unhappiest over the news that Musial probably will sit out most of the series is Bob Friend, who was beaten by The Man twice last season on dramatic home runs. Friend is off to a great start with a 4-0 record but isn't likely to see action here this week.

"We're getting Friend some runs for a change, and he has been pitching good," Murtaugh said. "Virdon has been blasting the ball. No plunkers for him."

Jensen Confirms He's Through

RENO, May 2 (AP)—Jackie Jensen returned home to Nevada today and was met by his tearful wife.

"I am through with baseball forever," Jensen said.

The Boston Red Sox outfielder reiterated:

"I just don't feel I can play major league baseball anymore."

Jensen got off a train at Sparks, three miles east of Reno, in effort to avoid newsmen. An Associated Press reporter was waiting at Sparks and drove Jensen to Reno, where Mrs. Jensen was waiting.

A reporter told Jensen he had seemed to have had a fine spring.

"Spring training?" mused Jensen. "That was a long time ago."

Last night, when his train stopped at Ogden, Utah, Jensen confirmed that he was retiring.

"I've had it," Jensen told sportswriter Ensign Ritchie of the Ogden Standard-Examiner. "I know when my reflexes are gone and I'm not going to be any twenty-fifth man on the ball club."

Speed Horses, Stretch Runners Battle in Derby Trial

Sports Cameo

By Red Smith

Merely Money

NEW YORK, May 2—When Globemaster won the Wood Memorial on his way to the Kentucky Derby, it was suggested here that he and the filly Idun might be the only horses costing more than $60,000 as yearlings that won back their purchase price. Globemaster, an $80,000 yearling, has collected $150,744 and is at Churchill Downs for the laudable purpose of making it a quarter-million on Saturday.

Well, it develops that there is one other colt that went for a filthy fortune as a yearling and subsequently won himself out. This is the Kerr Stable's Prince Blessed, now four years old and still racing. He was bought for $77,000 and in 27 races up to now has earned $92,780. Now let's look at some others.

The highest price ever paid for a thoroughbred yearling at an American auction was $87,000 forked over by Liz Lunn at Saratoga in 1956 for Rise 'n Shine, a son of Hyperion. Now six and still in training, he has repaid his charming owner $21,965 over five years which figures out to an annual refund of $4393. At that rate he should get back the remaining $65,035 by the time he is 21.

Rise 'n Shine's price topped the existing American record by $1000, the F. J. Adams Syndicate having paid $86,000 in 1954 for Nalur, which wound up his racing career with earnings of $6575.

New Broom Costly

Counting Globemaster, there have been four yearlings that sold for $80,000 flat. Tulsan, one of Nasrullah's many sons, brought that figure in 1955, didn't race as a two-year-old, started 25 times at three and four, won twice and collected $8,040. He's through.

Jeff's Uh Oh—and how's that for an $80,000 name? — was a yearling in 1956, raced through 1960 and got $30,985 back for Mr. and Mrs. George Lewis.

Royal Dragoon ranked even with Globemaster at the top of the 1959 sales. He won once in nine starts last year, made $5050, and died unexpectedly last September at Belmont.

Tudorka, bred in England by the Aga Khan, was sold at Saratoga in 1954 to Mrs. Eleanora Sears, a lady squash player who enjoys walking. Hiking up and down and across New England, she saved up $75,000 in cab fares and chucked it all in on this Tudor Minstrel colt, which waited until he was three before going to work. He picked up $3910 in five starts over two years, winning once, and hasn't done a lick since 1957.

Considering the depreciation of the dollar, chances are the most expensive thoroughbred was New Broom, which brought $75,000 at Saratoga in 1928. He raced at two and never won at all, earning a tidy $200 in seven starts. Tried in stud, he turned out to be a bleeder, so they used him as a polo pony.

The Jugheads

A lot of thoroughbred owners still regard the standardbred as a poor country cousin, but the surprising fact is that in two of the last three years a harness horse has brought a higher price than any runner. Last year, for instance, a trotting colt named Mon Mite, now en route to Roosevelt Raceway to begin his career, topped all auctions at $81,000. And in 1958 a syndicate headed by Stanley Dancer got up $105,000 for Dancer Hanover.

This was hailed at the time as the world record for a yearling of any breed, but it was only the American record. Dancer Hanover was the first love-child from the union of the great pacing sire Adios and The Old Maid, which had produced two champions.

Though the colt was bred for extreme pacing speed, all he would do for Stanley Dancer on his farm at New Egypt, N.J., was trot slowly. After two months of painstaking instruction, Dancer got him pacing reluctantly, but then juvenile ailments laid the colt up. Lawrence B. Sheppard, the breeder, didn't want a reputation for peddling $105,000 lemons so he bought him back for $200,000 and turned him over to Del Miller.

At two, Del was able to race Dancer Hanover once and win with him, but it was a non-betting event at Vernon Downs with no purse. Last year Miller had him going well, got 13 victories out of 24 starts, winning $33,606. This year, Del believes, he'll pace a hole in the wind.

As to that world record for yearlings, it was established in 1945 at Newmarket in England by his highness the Maharani Sita Devi Gaekwar of Baroda. In a sale consuming exactly 120 seconds, the Gaekwar paid $117,600 for Savajirao, a brother of that year's Epsom Derby winner, Dante.

There are plenty of other tales like the story of Imperial Hanover, which cost $72,000 in 1949 and never won, collecting $320.

At Least 14 to Go Saturday

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 2 (UPI)—One of the best renewals of the $16,500 Derby Trial was on tap at Churchill Downs today with three speed horses set to tangle with two stretch runners in a race which will greatly influence the size of the Kentucky Derby field on Saturday.

A field of nine was named for the mile race, which in the past has pointed out four winners of the first of the Triple Crown classics five days later.

But four of them appear to be hopelessly outclassed in this final prep race for the Rose Run.

Four-and-Twenty, co-favorite with Carry Back to win the Kentucky Derby, heads the field. This bay son of Blue Prince led from the start to finish in the Santa Anita Derby and the Forerunner Purse at Keeneland a few days ago. He is owned by the Alberta Ranches and ridden by 55-year-old Johnny Longden.

Ready to battle Four-and-Twenty are Fred W. Hooper's Crozier and J. Graham Brown's He's A Pistol, both endowed with a high turn of speed and likely to challenge the Californian right from the start.

Also in the field are Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs's Dr. Miller and Red Oak Stable's Injun, the stretch runners.

Derby May Lose Starters.

Bayburn, Star X., Gay's Pal and Prince Nerida complete the listings.

"The trial should determine the size of the Kentucky Derby field on Saturday," said Churchill Downs racing secretary Allan (Doc) Lavin. "If Four-and-Twenty can win big we may lose some of the expected starters. But no matter what happens I think we will have at least 14 in the Derby.

An upset victory by one of the outsiders would swell the Derby field and even bring famed Calumet Farm back into the picture after being knocked out of it twice.

Calumet Farm, already the winner of seven Derbies, originally counted upon Beau Prince, but that colt went lame and has been shipped to Garden State Park in New Jersey.

Sho Lea Raced Poorly.

Then trainer Jimmy Jones tried to get Sho Lea ready for the race, but Sho Lea turned in a poor effort in the Blue Grass Stakes at Keeneland last Thursday.

"I talked to Jimmy on the phone today," Lavin said. "He said he had looked at the pictures of the Blue Grass and his colt didn't do as badly as he first thought."

"If it's a dull Derby Trial, then I'll bring Sho Lea up from Keeneland, work him Wednesday on the Downs strip and then take a shot at the big one Saturday," Jones advised Lavin.

"I believe it's a matter of a jockey. I don't know who he wants, but I believe if Jimmy could put his finger on the rider he wants he would come," Lavin added.

But Lavin does not anticipate a "dull Trial."

Four-and-Twenty is the 8 to 5 favorite with Crozier second choice at 3 to 1. He's A Pistol is 4 to 1 with Dr. Miller 8 to 1 and Injun listed at 10 to 1.

Longden, winner of the Kentucky Derby in 1943 with Count Fleet, still is undecided whether to ride Four-and-Twenty or Flutterby, Alberta's other Derby runner. The Trial will help him make up his mind.

Savannah Red To Carry 117 In Cahokia Bow

Savannah Red, trained by C. Howard Springs, the leading horse at last fall's Fairmount race meet with five victories, will try to continue his St. Louis-area streak at Cahokia Downs tonight in the five-furlong feature. Savannah Red has been assigned top weight of 117 pounds.

Post time for the first race is 8:30 o'clock.

One of the eight-year-old's leading rivals is expected to be Bill Peyton's Moon Glow Bey, a six-time winner in 1960. Others include Long Blue, Sal's Queen, Bulnes Lady, Busy Gains, Fleet Eva, Easy Tiger and Raider Lou.

For the first two nights of the East St. Louis Jockey Club's meeting, the 15,605 fans sent $573,227 through the mutuel windows.

English Soccer Star Deserts Club; Suspended

LONDON, May 2 (AP)—England's hopes in next year's world soccer championships slumped when it was announced yesterday that Jimmy Greaves, one of the country's best players, had been suspended for 14 days. Because of the universal aspect of soccer, preliminaries to the world meet are held a year in advance.

Great Britain plays two such preliminaries in the next three weeks and officials said that if the club defeated Mexico here May 10, it would stick with Greaves's replacement May 21 against Portugal and in the world meet in Chile.

The star was suspended for failure to accompany his Chelsea (English League) mates on a tour of Israel.

Instead, he flew to Italy and watched Milan play. The Milan club recently paid $224,000 for his 1962 contract. Although playing for Milan next season, he still would be eligible for England's international team because he remains a citizen of Britain.

Madison County Track Meet Tonight

Preliminaries are scheduled to begin at 5:30 o'clock and finals at 7 tonight in the Madison County high school track meet.

Competing in the carnival at Alton High, besides the host school, are Edwardsville, Collinsville, Wood River, Roxana, Western Military Academy, Triad, Highland, Madison, Bethalto and Granite City.

Deterding Is Named Effingham Coach

EFFINGHAM, Ill., May 2 (UPI)—Don Deterding, 26, coach at Dexter, Mo., has been named head basketball coach at Effingham High School, succeeding James Moore.

Deterding received honorable mention on the Little All America team while attending Southeast Missouri State College at Cape Girardeau in 1957. He is a native of Collinsville.

Jennewein Victor

Robert Jennewein of Wagner, with an 1854 total, won the all-events title in the Y.M.C.A. Industrial bowling tournament at the Arway. Albert Chase, McDonnell, 747, took the singles and Frank Selumas and Stuart Green, Ralston, the doubles with 1418. Western Printing captured team honors the previous week.

Monopoly In Boxing Is Charged

LOS ANGELES, May 2 (UPI)—A new charge of boxing monopoly was on record today in connection with the latest charges that world heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson isn't meeting the toughest men in his division.

Patterson was offered $350,000 by promoter George Parnassus to meet the winner of the May 11 bout here matching Zora Folley, Phoenix, Ariz., and Alejandro Lavorante of Argentina. Folley, No. 4 challenger, conceded he felt Sonny Liston was most deserving of a shot at the title, but said Patterson and manager Cus D'Amato have been dodging top-rated contenders for years.

At the same time, Paul (Pinky) George, Lavorante's manager and a veteran of 35 years in boxing, contended TelePrompTer was a monopoly because it controlled closed-circuit television of heavyweight championship bouts.

"TelePrompTer, the outfit that sprouted out of the ashes of the I.B.C. (International Boxing Club), is a monopoly and should be investigated," said George. The manager volunteered to go to Washington to testify before Senator Kefauver's committee and make specific charges about what he considers the newest boxing monopoly.

"I think Sonny Liston rates a title shot more than any of the rest of the challengers," Foley said at a luncheon at which contracts were signed for the May 11 bout.

DuBourg, Trailing McKinley 14-6 in Sixth, Wins 17-16 in Eighth

Ladue Edges Ritenour In District 5 Semifinal

By Bob Ruhl

How many runs does a baseball team need to enjoy a safe lead? Don't ask Coach Julius Blanke of McKinley High. He's not sure any more.

Yesterday in a semifinal game of the state district baseball tournament, McKinley took an early 6-1 lead over DuBourg and held a big 14-6 cushion in the sixth (prep teams play just seven innings).

"I thought we had 'em then," said Blanke afterwards. But the Goldbugs didn't and the Cavaliers came up with nine in the sixth and two in the eighth to win the District No. 3 game, 17-16.

The other District No. 3 contest went to St. Louis U. High, which scored enough in the third, three runs, and went on to beat Roosevelt, 4-1, on Del Wilber's two-hitter.

Beaumont, Ladue Win.

Beaumont, defending state champion, got a two-hit effort from Larry Scoggins as the Bluejackets downed Lutheran Central, 11-2, in District No. 2. The only hits off Scoggins were home runs by Jim Kitrell and Larry Kreyling. Those two homers and one by Beaumont's Ron Voss were on hits past the left-fielder that went into the lake on Fairgrounds diamond No. 3.

The other District No. 2 game was won by Sumner over Laboure, 8-4, on pitcher Bob Campbell's grand-slam homer in the seventh.

Ladue, state finalist last season, got its second straight complete game by Bob Bohren, but the Rams had to rally with five runs in the third to beat Ritenour, 7-6 in District No. 5. Country Day collected two in the fifth and two in the sixth to edge Priory, 6-5.

Kirkwood's Steve Miller doubled in the ninth and came home with the winning run on Fred Scott's single as the Pioneers nudged Webster, 3-2, in District No. 4. Lindbergh downed Mehlville, 3-1, in the other game.

A total of 31 players took part in the Ferguson-St. Thomas Aquinas game, won by Ferguson, 14-4, in District No. 1. Corpus Christi could manage only two hits but defeated Riverview, 3-2. One hit, three walks, an error and fielder's choice gave Corpus Christi its three runs in the second.

The district finals will be held Wednesday with Ferguson meeting Corpus Christi in District No. 1; Sumner playing Beaumont in District No. 2; DuBourg testing St. Louis U. High in District No. 3; Kirkwood opposing Lindbergh in District No. 4; and Country Day meeting Ladue in District No. 5.

Ziegler Homers.

Six singles helped McKinley score eight runs in the first of the sixth. But a leadoff home run by Carl Schwarzen, a three-run homer by Carl Ziegler, and five McKinley errors were the big factors in DuBourg's nine-run sixth.

McKinley tied the game at 15-15 with a single run in the seventh and added another lone tally in the eighth before DuBourg scored two runs. A total of 19 errors were recorded in the three-hour game.

Sumner's Curtis Jones smashed a two-run homer in the fifth to tie the game with Laboure at 4-4 and set up Campbell's winning slam, a long hit into right-centerfield.

Bob Tucker's home run gave Ladue a 2-0 lead in the first, but Ritenour rallied to score three runs, two on Ray Thurmond's homer. Jerry Ward's two-run double in the fifth helped the Rams score five. Pitcher Bohren, tagged for eight hits, settled down to strike out six of the last seven batters to face him.

Priory took a 5-0 lead after one inning over Country Day, but Codasco rebounded to win the sixth on Tom Convey's double that scored John Kittner.

34 Errors by Prep Team in 35-0 Loss

The baseball wasn't slippery but the Valley Park High School team just couldn't hold onto it yesterday. The team was charged with 34 errors in a 35-0 loss to Hancock in a South County League game.

Hancock made 20 hits, scoring 12 runs in each the second and third innings. Rich Follen had four-for-four and Jerry Simpson three-for-three. Mike Bergen and Al York homered. Hancock now has won six and lost none in league play.

Gathering at Hall of Fame Banquet

Ben Gould, Robert Hughes Honored by Sports Group

By Harold Tuthill

Two former teachers whose paths first crossed 40 years ago at Central High School met last night at a banquet honoring them as new members of the Hall of Fame of the Greater St. Louis Athletic Association.

One of the former teachers at Central, Ben B. Gould, said to the other, Robert P. Hughes, "What have you been doing since you left Central, Bob?"

"I have been at Country Day School since 1923," Hughes answered.

Gould later told the gathering at Carpenter's Hall that he had never been an athlete and knew very little about athletics. He became interested, he said, because the University of Michigan needed a good strong farm boy to tend the tennis courts during the summer vacation. "The pay wasn't much but then I didn't work very hard," Gould said.

Gould was graduated from Michigan in 1906 and went to Central High in January, 1907.

"It wasn't long before I became acquainted with the late Michael William Walker and we shared bachelor's quarters together," he said. "That's how I became interested in athletics here."

Gould became secretary of the Public High League and for years was manager of the league. In 1935 he was transferred to McKinley and stayed there until his retirement 13 years ago.

Hughes was graduated from Springfield, Mass., College in 1919, spent two years as athletic director in the Panama Canal Zone, then was hired by the St. Louis Public Schools system.

Mervin A. Clark, secretary of the organization, received the service award for his contribution to sports here the past few years.

Harold Booth was inducted as the new president, succeeding James (Peck) Price.

Afterward, Charley Rash, a member of the Missouri U. football staff, showed a movie depicting the highlights of the successful 1960 football season.

13 Kutis Players on Star Squad

Thirteen members of the national champion Kutis eleven were named on the St. Louis Soccer League All-Stars for the three-day competition with the C.Y.C. stars and Chicago Stars at Public Schools Stadium, May 14, 20 and 21.

The 22-player squad, to be coached by Joe Numi and Oscar Corona, will hold it first workout at Meramec Sports Club next Sunday afternoon. John Finn, veteran halfback of the Northwestern eleven, was named captain.

The squad members:

Goal — Warren Diamantini, Kutis; Bill King, Northwestern; David Robben, Schumachers.

Fullbacks — Bobby Kehoe, Kutis; Robert Meisemann, Carondelet; Herman Wecke, Kutis; Tom Julius, Kutis.

Eddington Brothers Win Chicago Bouts

Dan and Don Eddington, St. Louis boxing twins, each won a unanimous four-round decision at Marigold Garden, Chicago, last night.

Softball Tonight

The Blue Circle, formerly the Fleers, will oppose the 2900 Bar in a Muny softball game tonight at 9 o'clock at Fairground Park. Blue Circle defeated the Thurmers, 4-1, in a practice game recently at Fox Park.

Principia Winner

Principia's golf team gained three victories in a four-school match at Greenville, Ill., yesterday. The results: Principia 8½, Illinois College 6½; Principia 17½, McKendree ½; Principia 18, Greenville 0.

E. St. Louis Wins 1-0 No-Hitter

East St. Louis continued its merry tradition of making the bizarre appear commonplace as southpaw Gary Stokes hurled a no-hitter over Edwardsville to boost the Flyers of Pick Dehner into first place in the Southwestern Illinois baseball race.

Two weeks ago the Flyers used three double plays and a triple play to beat Granite City, 5-0. Last Saturday East St. Louis topped Lincoln, 1-0, on an unusual double-penalty ruling. Yesterday the Flyers' only run in the fourth came about on an odd play.

With the bases loaded, the result of three walks, and two out in the fourth, Edwardsville pitcher Darrell Schaake fielded a batted ball but didn't get the throw home in time as the run scored.

Ed Prine's single in the third was the only hit off Schaake, who struck out four but walked 10. Stokes, a 5-9, 160 pounder, fanned 12 and walked four. The Flyers left 12 on base to Edwardsville's four.

C.Y.C. to Honor Basket Champions

St. Gabriel school's city intermediate C.Y.C. basketball champions will be honored tonight at 6:30 dinner at the Missouri Athletic Club. John Benington, St. Louis U. coach, and John Flanagan, former Billiken coach, and past and present athletic directors, Dukes Duford and Bob Stewart, will be present.

Buds to Oppose Falstaffs Tonight

Lanes 5 and 6 at Arway Recreation will be the last battleground in St. Louis for the nationally famous Budweiser bowling team. The Buds will meet the Falstaffs on that pair at 7:30 tonight in a match that will complete the Bowling Proprietors Association Champions League play for this season.

At the end of this month Anheuser-Busch will discontinue sponsorship of the Buds, a club that included four national championships among its string of honors over the past seven years.

Tonight the Budweisers need one victory to add a final honor, the Champions League title. They lead the Falstaffs by two games.

Third place will be at stake also, with the Cliff Antons (47-34) meeting the fourth-place United Vans (45-36). The Uniteds also must sweep its series in order to move up.

Sixth-place Roncaro is in a similar position as it faces the Willens, who hold the No. 5 spot by two lengths. The Smiths, in seventh, are one and one-half games behind the Roncaros as they oppose the eighth-place Rabens.

The Budweisers' Ray Bluth is virtually certain of the high average honors for he leads teammate Dick Weber by three points, 213 to 210. Budweiser bowlers occupy three of the next four places in the individual standings, with Don Carter at 208, Tom Hennessey at 207, Falstaff's Billy Welu 207, and Pat Patterson 205. Jim Vrenick and Bill Rericker of the Antons also have 205 averages, but with less pin carryover than Patterson. J.J.A.

SPORT SHORTS

All-America TOM STITH, whose scoring feats helped make little St. Bonaventure a major basketball power, has been stricken with tuberculosis. His doctor says it will be more than a year, at the earliest, before Stith plays again. He recently was signed by the New York Knickerbockers of the National Basketball Association. . . . The Knickerbockers yesterday asked United States District Court in San Francisco to stop KEN SEARS from playing with the San Francisco Saints of the rival American Basketball Association.

The St. Louis Hawks' fifth draft choice, JOHN BERBERICH, a 6-9 U.C.L.A. player, has signed a contract with the Saints. . . . LEN WILKENS of the Hawks, who captained Providence College a year ago, spoke at a dinner honoring the Friar team which won the 1961 National Invitation Tournament by defeating St. Louis U.

WALT BELLAMY of Indiana was signed by the N.B.A.'s new Chicago club, which made him its No. 1 draft choice.

BOB GOALBY of Belleville shot an 8-under-par 64 in practice for Thursday's opening of the Las Vegas golf tournament. His score was a course record.

BOBBY BRAGAN has been made special assistant to the general manager of the Houston Colts baseball team; GRADY HATTON, manager of the Houston Buffs, replaces Bragan as director of player personnel for the Colts, and FRED MARTIN, one of the Cubs' 10 manager-coaches, will handle the Buffs temporarily. TAL SMITH was promoted from administrative assistant to farm director.

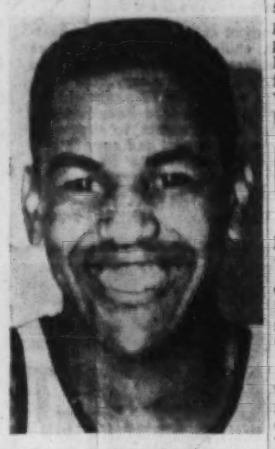
BOB SADOWSKI allowed three hits in hurling San Juan to a 7-2 victory over Syracuse in the International League. ED OLIVARES hit a three-run homer and singled in scoring three times for the winners.

Two former Ritenour High standouts starred for minor league teams. RON HUNT hit a homer, a double and two singles to drive in three runs as Cedar Rapids beat Lincoln, 8-4, in the Three-I League. . . . And BOB BURDA homered for Portland in a 5-3 win over San Diego in the Pacific Coast League. DUKE CARMEL also hit for the circuit for the Beavers.

JOHN CALLISON, the Philadelphia Phils' RBI leader with 13, is expected to be out of the lineup for three or four days after being spiked by Cincinnati's GORDON COLEMAN. . . . Los Angeles Dodger manager WALT ALSTON said youth and inexperience are his primary reasons for lineup juggling: "We're dealing with players in their early 20s. It's still hard to say just who can do what. I'm not trying to mastermind, just trying to find out what each man can do."

Best-looking big league rookies so far this season, according to JOE REICHLER of the Associated Press, appear to be third baseman STEVE BOROS of Detroit, shortstop DICK HOWSER of Kansas City and catcher DICK BERTELL of the Chicago Cubs. . . . Despite the 29 major league home runs Sunday, the big leaguers are 39 round-trippers behind their 1960 pace for the same number of games, 237 to 198.

Sweden's best-known track star, DAN WAERN, has been charged by his government with receiving money for running as an amateur and failing to list it as income. Shortly after writing a story entitled "I Can't Afford to be an Amateur," he bought a $68,000 farm.



TOM STITH

GEORGE (GIX) VON ELM, golf star who defeated BOBBY JONES for the U.S. Amateur title in 1926, died in Pocatello, Idaho. He had been suffering from lung cancer. . . . Basketball star CHOPPY PATTERSON of Clemson College suffered a fractured pelvis, injuries to his legs and possible internal injuries in an automobile accident at Gaffney, S.C.

Named head basketball coach at Holy Cross College was FRANK OFTRING, a Navy veteran who served as assistant to ROY H. LEENIG for the last two seasons.

SKIP THOREN, 6-9 Rockford, Ill., basketball ace, said he would enroll at the University of Illinois. JIM SEELEY of Moline, also highly-regarded, said he would enter Illinois.

GEORGE FREESE, older brother of the Cincinnati Reds' GENE FREESE, has been purchased by the Chicago Cubs from Chicago's Houston farm. . . . At the same time the Cubs assigned infielder SAM DRAKE, catcher MOE THACKER and pitcher BEN JOHNSON to Houston.

Special license plates in Massachusetts have been authorized for EDDIE SHORE, former Boston Bruin defense star who now is owner of the Springfield Indians of the American Hockey League. . . . The plates will read "Mr. Hockey."

DUFFY DAUGHERTY is trying to put more fun into Michigan State football by giving his players a 15-minute "free" period in the middle of a practice session. "Practice can be a real drag," said Daugherty.

The U. S. Tariff Commission, in a move to protect American makers of baseball gloves, recommended increasing the ad valorem import duty on Japanese gloves from 15 per cent to 30 per cent.

DOUG HARVEY of Montreal was named winner of the James Norris Memorial Trophy as the National Hockey League's outstanding defenseman of the past season. . . . Former champions JIM JACOBS and JOHN SLOAN advanced to the quarterfinals in the National Handball Tournament. . . . BOB WENTE of St. Louis completed part of his driver tests for the Indianapolis 500-mile race.

EDWARD MULDERICK of Wilmington, Del., bowled a 700 series in the A.B.C. tournament, but his doubles partner, WILLARD CATHCART, shot just 447. Their difference was four pins under the record of 257.

Ladue's Maxeiner Takes Tennis Title

It took three hard-fought sets to decide the individual championship of the Kirkwood invitational tennis tournament and when all the drives and lobs had ended, Tom Maxeiner of Ladue High came out on top. He defeated Dan Singer of University City, 4-6, 8-6, 8-6, at the Kirkwood Park courts.

Ladue also captured team honors with 18 points in the prep meet, with Webster Groves second with 14 and Kirkwood third with 11.

Codasco Wins on Track

A distance runner, Carl Hoppe, paced Country Day School to a 87⅔-30⅓ victory over Lutheran High South in an ABC League track and field meet. Hoppe won both the mile and 880-yard events.

Mrs. Corbett Funeral.

Funeral services for Mrs. Catherine M. Corbett, mother of Robert (Bobby) Corbett, one of St. Louis's top soccer players for several years, will be held from the Joseph A. Howard undertaking establishment, 1619 South Grand, at 8:30 o'clock Thursday morning. Mrs. Corbett died yesterday. In addition to Robert, she is survived by three other sons and a daughter.

Kalicak Team Nears Women's Pin Crown

The Kalicaks need only a tie in one of tonight's final three games with second-place Kutis in order to wrap up the Women's B.P.A. Traveling League title. The women will bowl at Arway at 7:30 on lanes adjoining the men's traveling league.

Gwinnette Herbert, with the league's high average of 180, has paced the Kalicaks to their 63½-38½ record. Kutis, whose Dot Schmidt has a 179 average, has a 61-41 mark.

worked in the reservation department of an international airline.

Although she has been writing since she was a child, she never presented any of her work for publication until she wrote "To Kill A Mockingbird." A close friend finally sent her to a New York literary agent, who referred her to J. B. Lippincott Co.

Herbert Feis

Feis, 68 years old, is a native New Yorker who now lives in York, Me. He received his A.B. degree from Harvard University in 1916, and his Ph.D. in economics from the same institution in 1921.

For the next 10 years he taught at several universities and served in the International Labor Office in Geneva, Switzerland. While working with the Council on Foreign Relations in New York City in 1931, he was invited by Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson to become adviser on international economic affairs in the Department of State.

He served also as a member of the policy planning staff in the State Department. In 1944 he became a special consultant to Stimson, who was then Secretary of War, and carried on in the same capacity for Stimson's successor, Robert P. Patterson.

Feis's published works include "Europe, The World's Banker" (1930), "Sinews of Peace" (1944), "The Spanish Story" (1946), "The Road to Pearl Harbor" (1951), "The China Tangle" (1953), and "Churchill-Roosevelt-Stalin, the War They Waged and the Peace They Sought" (1957).

Feis is now a member of the Institute for Advanced Study at Princeton, N.J. During the current term, he is a visiting professor of history at Columbia University.

Phyllis McGinley

Miss McGinley was born March 21, 1905, in Ontario, Ore., and as a child lived on a ranch in Colorado.

At the age of 12 she moved to Ogden, Utah, with her family, where she attended the Convent of the Sacred Heart. She continued her education at the University of Utah and the University of Southern California.

While still in college, Miss McGinley began to sell her poetry to national publications. This encouraged her to move to New York where she taught school at nearby New Rochelle for four years, and later became poetry editor of Town and Country Magazine.

In 1937 she was married to Charles Hayden. They now live in Larchmont, N.Y., with their two daughters.

Miss McGinley's collection of awards includes the Edna St. Vincent Millay prize of the Poetry Society of America. She is a member of the National Institute of Arts and Letters, P.E.N., International Literary Writers' Guild, the Poetry Society of America and the Catholic Poetry Society.

In addition to this year's prize-winner, she is the author of five adult and several children's books.

David Donald

Donald, who is 41 years old, was born in Goodman, Miss. He received his A.B. degree from Millsaps College in Jackson, Miss., and did graduate work at the Universities of North Carolina and Illinois. He received his Ph.D. in history from the University of Illinois in 1946.

After a two-year appointment at Smith College, he was a member of the faculty of Columbia University from 1947 to 1959, when he was appointed professor of history at Princeton University.

In 1954-55 he was Fulbright Professor of American History at the University of Wales, and in 1959-60 he served as Harmsworth Professor of American History at Oxford University.

He is the author of "Lincoln's Herndon" (1948) and co-author of "Divided We Fought: A Pictorial History of the War, 1861-65" (1952) and of "The Enduring Lincoln" (1959). He edited "Inside Lincoln's Cabinet: the Civil War Diaries of Salmon P. Chase" (1954) and George Cary Eggleston's "A Rebel's Recollections" (1959). He has a wife and son.

Sanche de Gramont

De Gramont was born in Geneva, Switzerland, in 1932. He is a graduate of Yale and the Columbia School of Journalism. Before joining the Herald Tribune in 1958, he worked for the Worcester (Mass.) Telegram, the Associated Press, and the Agence France Presse. He is married, and was recently assigned to Paris by the New York Herald Tribune. He is a French count and former first lieutenant in the French Army in Algeria.

Edward R. Cony

Cony was born in Augusta, Me., March 15, 1923. He attended Colby College from 1940 to 1942 and served with the Army from 1943 to 1946. After his discharge, he continued his studies at Reed College and was graduated in 1948 with a bachelor's degree in political science. He received his master's degree in journalism from Stanford University in 1951.

After his graduation he worked as a reporter on the Portland Oregonian. In 1953 he joined the Wall Street Journal as a reporter in its San Francisco bureau. In 1955 he was transferred to Los Angeles as bureau manager, and two years later to Jacksonville, Fla., as manager of the paper's southeastern news bureau. He moved to New York in 1959, and was named news editor the following year. He lives with his wife and four children in Manhasset, New York.

Lynn Heinzerling

Heinzerling has been covering news abroad for 22 years. He had been reporting and supervising coverage of central and southern Africa for three years, and, early in 1960, was about to be transferred. Before he could leave for his new post several African areas, including The Congo, achieved independence and heavy rioting broke out.

He remained in The Congo until last November, when he returned to the United States for a rest. He is now in London as assistant chief of bureau of the Associated Press, with special interest in Africa.

Heinzerling was born in Birmingham, O., on Oct. 23, 1906. After attending Akron University and Ohio Wesleyan, he joined the Cleveland Plain Dealer. He began work for the Associated Press in Cleveland in 1933 and in 1938 moved to the New York foreign news desk prior to transfer abroad.

From 1938 to 1945 his byline stories came from nearly every important European news center. He was in Danzig Sept. 1, 1939, when the German battleship Schleswig-Holstein fired the first shots of World War II.

He helped cover the early phases of the German occupation of Denmark and the Nazi invasion of Holland, and was later with the British Eighth Army and the United States Fifth Army in Italy. In 1948 he was named chief of the Associated Press's Geneva bureau, and in March, 1957, became chief of the Johannesburg bureau.

Heinzerling last month won the Overseas Press Club award for his African coverage.

Walter Piston

Piston was born in Rockland, Me., in 1894. He attended the Massachusetts School of Art in Boston, and received his A.B. degree summa cum laude from Harvard University in 1924. He was awarded an honorary doctor of music degree from Harvard in 1953.

From 1924 to 1926 he studied music in Paris on a John Knowles Paine fellowship. He received a Guggenheim fellowship in 1935.

He became assistant professor of music at Harvard in 1926, an associate professor in 1938, and has been professor of music at that institution since 1944.

Piston is a member of the National Institute of Arts and Sciences, the American Academy of Arts and Letters, and Phi Beta Kappa. He is the author of several books on music. He lives in Belmont, Mass.

Yasushi Nagao

Nagao, the son of a sales executive, was born in Tokyo on May 20, 1930. He was graduated in 1953 from the faculty of engineering of Chiba University, near Tokyo.

He attributes his photograph of the assassination to calmness and self-confidence, and says he knew his action shot was the best picture he had taken since he began his career as a newspaper photographer.

Nagao is the first foreign photographer to win a Pulitzer Prize. He became eligible for the award when his picture was published in United States newspapers.

Carey Orr

Orr, 71-year-old editorial cartoonist for the Chicago Tribune, has been recognized for his long and distinguished career as a cartoonist. A veteran of 47 years in his field, his war cartoons in World War I won generous recognition and, in 1918, he was awarded a gold medal by the United States Government. Later his portrayal of the sinister aspects of prohibition placed him in the forefront among American cartoonists.

In World War II, he drew cartoons which were reproduced in poster size to serve as inspirational messages for service branches and war workers.

He has been employed by the Chicago Tribune since 1917. He helped to pioneer the daily color cartoons which have been a regular feature of the Tribune.

He was born in Ada, O., on Jan. 17, 1890. He attended the University of Washington and the Chicago Academy of Fine Arts before starting his career with the Chicago Examiner in 1912. He lives in Winnetka, Ill.

Edgar May

Born in Zurich, Switzerland, May came to the United States with his family when he was a child. He is a United States citizen. After studying at the Columbia University school of general studies, he attended the Medill School of Journalism at Northwestern University, from which he received his bachelor's degree in 1957.

He was a file clerk at the New York Times 1948-51, while he was attending Columbia at night; served as reporter for the Bellows Falls (Vt.) Times, 1951-52, and for the Fitchburg (Mass.) Sentinel in 1953. After two years in the Army he became a part-time reporter for the Chicago Tribune in 1955-56. Since April 1958, he has been a reporter for the Buffalo Evening News. The 31-year-old reporter is single.

William J. Dorvillier

Dorvillier was born in North Adams, Mass., and educated at New York University. His first newspaper job was with the North Adams Transcript. Subsequently he worked as night editor on the South American desk of the Associated Press and with the United Press in the Caribbean area; head of the Washington bureau of El Mundo, Spanish daily published in San Juan; editor of the old Puerto Rico World Journal; from 1953 until 1959 he was editor-publisher of the Dorvillier News Letter, an economic newsletter covering business, financial, labor and industrial developments in Puerto Rico.

He has been editor and publisher of the San Juan Star since its founding. The newspaper is owned by Cowles Magazines, Inc.

Prize-Winning Cartoon

Cartoon that brought a Pulitzer Prize to Carey Orr of the Chicago Daily Tribune. It was titled "The Kindly Tiger."

New Paper in Puerto Rico First Abroad to Win Pulitzer Prize

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, May 2 (AP)—"Wonderful—almost too good to believe," said William J. Dorvillier yesterday when he got the news that he had won the Pulitzer Prize for editorial writing.

Dorvillier, 53 years old, editor and publisher of the San Juan Star since it came out Nov. 2, 1959, said: "Imagine, we are a Pulitzer Prize-winning paper after only 18 months of publication!"

English Language Daily.

Appearing more pleased with what the prize would do for the Star—the only English language daily in Puerto Rico—than the prestige it would bring him, Dorvillier said: "This will really put us on the map."

The first Pulitzer Prize given to a newspaper outside the continental United States cited Dorvillier for a series of editorials on clerical interference in the island's 1960 gubernatorial election.

In the campaign the Christian Action party was backed by three Roman Catholic bishops, who through pastoral letters told the faithful in this predominantly Catholic island of 2,300,000 people that it would be a sin to vote for Gov. Luis Munoz Marin and his Popular Democratic party.

Paper Led Campaign.

The bishops said the party's platform was anti-Christian because it favored, among other things, a birth control program.

The Star led a campaign against the pastoral letters and was credited by civic and government leaders with offsetting the church-backed party's influence.

might happen," he said, "but we are still standing around pinching ourselves just to think that this would happen to a newspaper right here in Amarillo."

Thompson took a personal lead in exposing conditions which caused Roy Joe Stevens, an Amarillo lawyer, to resign as Randall County Judge and led to Stevens's eventual disbarment in Texas.

In 1958 as county judge Stevens prepared to defend a laborer charged with murder, a prospective juror told district judge Gene Jordan that a man had tried to obtain his promise to vote for acquittal. A mistrial was ordered.

Subsequently Arnold James Chandonnet, a self-styled private detective who had been working privately for Stevens, told Thompson he was responsible for trying to influence the juror. Chandonnet said Stevens had threatened his life if he talked. Stevens was tried and acquitted bribery conspiracy.

AT THE PAPER'S URGING, the Texas House general investigating committee held a three-day public hearing in Amarillo.

The legislative investigators heard witnesses accuse Stevens of threats to have an associate murdered, ties with gamblers, prostitutes and a pornographic picture racket, and drinking parties with teen-age girls in his private law office.

Stevens resigned as county judge March 26, 1960, a day after the Amarillo hearing ended.

Perjury charges are still pending against him. The grand jury indicted several persons on charges of perjury or accepting bribes. Some of the cases have been dismissed and some have not been tried.

for about 22 years, received the award for his international reporting for the Associated Press. His merits were brought into sharp focus last year when Congo rioting quickly followed the independence and division of that region.

His early reports helped bring the precarious situation to the attention of the world, it was said. Note was made by Pulitzer judges of his earlier stories from European news centers, including Nazi invasions of Denmark and Holland, and other coverage of World War II.

Dorvillier, editor and publisher of the San Juan Star in Puerto Rico, a Massachusetts-born, New York educated newspaper man, was awarded the prize for editorials criticizing three Catholic bishops of the island for issuing the pastoral letter forbidding Catholics to vote for Gov. Luis Munoz Marin.

In the course of 20 editorials on the subject, Dorvillier made extensive efforts to emphasize the necessary separation of church and state, and to try and eliminate politics from the controversy. Munoz Marin and his Popular Democratic party won the election despite the clerical intervention.

ORR, 71-year-old editorial cartoonist for the Chicago Tribune, was awarded the Pulitzer Prize in cartooning for his long and distinguished career as a cartoonist, as exemplified by a cartoon captioned "The Kindly Tiger," which shows a tiger representing Communism licking its lips over the figure of Africa.

A veteran of 47 years in his field, Orr has long been one of the nation's most widely known political cartoonists.

Nagao, photographer for the Japanese newspaper, Mainichi, in Tokyo, won the prize in photography for his dramatic picture of the assassination of Japanese Socialist chairman Inejiro Asanuma on Oct. 12. Nagao attributes his photograph to calmness and self-confidence, and says he knew at the time his action shot was the best picture he had taken since he began his career as a newspaper photographer. He took time, during the excitement, to focus carefully before snapping the picture.

IN THE REALM of letters, beside the award for the outstanding work of fiction and play, both preferably dealing with American life as provided by terms of the Pulitzer bequest, judges selected "Between War and Peace: the Potsdam Conference" by Herbert Feis, as the most distinguished book published last year on the history of the United States.

The most impressive biography or autobiography "teaching patriotic and unselfish services to the people, illustrated by eminent examples" was found to be "Charles Sumner and the Coming of the Civil War," by David Donald. The prize for the best volume of verse by an American went to Phillis McGinley for her anthology: "Times Three: Selected Verse From Three Decades."

In connection with a special citation for a distinguished example of American book publishing to "The American Heritage Picture History of the Civil War," it was announced that another prize will be established next year for a distinguished book by an American which is not eligible for consideration in any other existing category. That award, also, will be accompanied by $500.

Feis is a recognized historian, author of many widely read books and magazine articles on a variety of world events. He has served in State Department posts and ha staught at major universities.

DONALD'S BOOK is a critical study of Senator Sumner of Massachusetts, one of the foremost anti-slavery voices in the North, and his share in responsibility for the break between the North and the South.

The Pulitzer Prize in poetry to Miss McGinley climaxes many years of distinguished accomplishment.

Bruce Catton wrote the narrative for the Civil War volume, which covers the war in pictures, maps and sketches as well as text. Catton is the senior editor of the American Heritage Magazine, an arm of the publisher, American Heritage Publishing Co., Inc. Catton won the Pulitzer Prize in History in 1954 with his "A Stillness at Appomatox."

MISS LEE'S novel was described as a "warm and sympathetic picture of a small southern town, trying to solve its social problems." It is a first novel and was a Literary Guild and Reader's Digest condensed book selection.

Mosel's prize-winning drama was adapted from a novel: "A Death in the Family," which won a posthumous Pulitzer Prize award for its author, James Agee, in 1956. In both scripts, the effect of a sudden death on other members of a small town family is the theme.

The award marked two firsts. One was that it was television dramatist Mosel's first stage play and the other, that it was the only time a play predicated on the theme of a Pulitzer Prize novel had won.

Walter Piston, professor of music at Harvard University, received his second Pulitzer Prize in music for his Symphony No. 7 which was first given by the Philadelphia Symphony in February.

Like the play, it is an award that need not have been earned in 1960. His previous prize was received in 1948 for his Symphony No. 3.

To winnow out many hundreds of nominees, a jury of established authorities passes on exhibits submitted to the Pulitzer Graduate School of Journalism at Columbia. Their recommendations go to boards which relay their verdicts to the Columbia University board of trustees, which group has the final determination.

MEMBERS OF ADVISORY BOARD IN SELECTION OF PULITZER AWARDS

THE PULITZER PRIZES are awarded by the trustees of Columbia University (New York City) on recommendation of the advisory board of Pulitzer School of Journalism.

Members of the advisory board are:

President Grayson Kirk of the university; Barry Bingham, president of the Louisville Courier-Journal; Erwin D. Canham, editor of the Christian Science Monitor; Hodding Carter, publisher of the Delta Democrat-Times, Greenville, Miss.; Turner Catledge, managing editor of the New York Times; Norman Chandler of Los Angeles, board president of the Times-Mirror Co.; Kenneth MacDonald, editor of the Des Moines Register and Tribune; J. D. Ferguson, editor of the Milwaukee Journal; W. D. Maxwell, editor of the Chicago Tribune; Benjamin M. McKelway, editor of the (Washington) Evening Star; Paul Miller, editor of the Rochester (N.Y.) Times-Union; Louis B. Seltzer, editor of the Cleveland Press; John Hohenberg, secretary of the graduate School of Journalism, Columbia University; and Joseph Pulitzer Jr., editor of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch and grandson of the founder of the prizes.

Pulitzer is chairman and Hohenberg serves as executive secretary of the board.

PHILLIPS HOSPITAL INTERNS ALUMNI HOLD MEETING

More than 400 doctors are attending the sixteenth annual Homer G. Phillips Hospital Interns Alumni convention which opened yesterday at the hospital and will run through Thursday.

The convention will take up such topics as tuberculosis, the value of cell examinations in internal medicine, the fight against cancer, problems of childhood and newer remedies of diabetes mellitus.

The program is dedicated to the memory of the late Dr. William H. Sinkler, former medical director of the hospital. A memorial service for Dr. Sinkler will be held at 7 p.m. tomorrow at the Turner Branch School, 2615 Pendleton avenue.

SHOWGIRLS AND POLITICS

PASSAU, Germany, May 2 (AP)—Bavarian Socialists have adopted what they believe to be American-style campaign tactics. They are combining showgirls and politics to promote West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt's candidacq against Chancellor Adenauer in the fall elections.

Singers, a rock 'n' roll band, and other performers make a soft-sell appeal to the voters at a show the Socialists put on.

TELLS JURY STUDENT DIDN'T HIT OFFICER

SAN FRANCISCO, May 2 (AP) —The last witness for the defense of Robert J. Meisenbach said yesterday Patrolman Ralph E. Schaumleffel fell—was not beaten—in last year's city hall riots.

Meisenbach, 23-year-old University of California senior, is charged with hitting Schaumleffel on the head with the officer's own club, at a student demonstration against House Committee on un-American Activities last May 13.

Richard Toombs of Richmond testified he saw Schaumleffel slip and fall heavily on his left side on the stone floor, wet and slippery from hose streams turned on demonstrators.

Toombs, one of 63 students arrested and charged with riot, said Schaumleffel's club flew out of the officer's hand and slid by him on the floor.

Meisenbach, standing back of Toombs, picked up the club and tossed it back up the gallery steps into the rotunda lobby area, Toombs said. He declared Schaumleffel struggled to his feet and then made a lunging tackle at Meisenbach.

The accused student did not have the nightstick in his hand and did not strike any blow at Schaumleffel before the officer tackled him, Toombs said.

Schaumleffel, recalled as the prosecution's last of nine police officer rebuttal witnesses, had insisted he did not injure himself in a fall and that he was struck on the head by Meisenbach.

Walter Giubbini, assistant district attorney, directed the officers' testimony at rebutting the claim of Douglas Kinney, city hall law librarian, that he had seen officers clubbing Meisenbach.

Attorneys were to make their closing arguments today. Superior Judge Harry J. Neubarth said the case will go to the jury of 10 women and two men after he instructs them tomorrow morning.

WHAT YOU GET IN DODGE DART PICKUP [THAT THE PEE-WEES HAVEN'T GOT]

You get muscle—in a sturdy half-ton that will carry more than you expect, not less. You get hustle—with the power and pep to do a day-and-a-half's work by quitting time. And with all this you get a money-saving bonus, compact-economy.

What's compact-economy? It's the Dodge engineering feat of building the fuel-stretching economy of a compact into a real full-duty truck. Responsible 1 are: The unique new six-cylinder truck engine, slanted 30° to the right for more efficient manifolding. This new overhead-valve engine has no equal for combining work and savings. If you want more power for extra-heavy work, you can specify your Dodge Dart Pickup with a 200 hp. V8 engine. 2 Dart Pickup has an alternator instead of an outmoded DC generator. The alternator makes the battery last longer, because it charges even at idle. It's smaller and lighter, too. 3 The ride you get in Dart Pickup will remind you of your passenger car. Extra-long front springs (48"), oversize Oriflow shock absorbers and an engineered balance between components result in a ride that's smooth and stable on all types of road, under all load conditions. 4 The new Dart is seven inches lower and four inches wider than last year's pickup, with 10% more cargo space. All metal is carefully protected, too, against rust and corrosion by bonderizing, rubber seals and spray-on coatings. Price . . . a pleasant 5 surprise. Dodge Dart Pickup, with all it has to offer, is priced competitively with any other truck in its class. We'd like to prove it to you.

Come in soon. Put the new Dart Pickup through any test you like. Learn for yourself what Dodge has done for pickups with Dart Pickup's muscle, hustle, and money-saving ways.

KATANGA READY FOR U.N. TALKS ON FIRING BELGIANS

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga, May 2 (AP)—President Moise Tshombe's Katanga government announced today it is willing to start discussions with the United Nations on disarming the Katanga army and getting rid of its foreign advisers.

With Tshombe held under guard in Coquilhatville by soldiers of President Joseph Kasavubu's central government, officials of this secessionist province made the move toward cooperation with the U.N.

Tshombe has defied U.N. authority because it has tended to cut down the power of his self-proclaimed independent Katanga republic. Katanga has opposed all U.N. attempts to oust foreigners.

A Katanga government communique was sent to U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold and foreign governments. Members of the consular corps in Elisabethville were summoned by the government after an afternoon cabinet meeting to hear the announcement.

The Katanga government asked for U. N. assistance in organizing a new conference of Congo leaders in a place offering guarantees of immunity for the negotiators. The government said it was necessary for Tshombe and his Minister of Foreign Affairs Evariste Kimba to be released immediately and returned to Katanga.

Kasavubu recently signed an agreement to co-operated with the United Nations, including a clause demanding the ouster of all foreign advisers not under Kasavubu's control. This was directed at Tshombe's foreign aids, most of whom are Belgians.

Forty U.N. soldiers from Ghana, captured by Congolese troops at Port Francqui on Saturday, were freed today and flown back to the Ghanaian base at Luluabourg.

The rest of the 61-man U.N. garrison at Port Francqui, in Kasai province, still is missing but many Ghanaians are believed to have escaped into the surrounding bush.

Two Ghanaians are known to have been killed in Port Francqui. A third was killed when a relief column trying to reach the town from Luluabourg was ambushed. Two British officers with the Ghanaians and two officers of a Swedish government unit are missing and presumed dead.

Negotiations between U.N. officials and Congolese army officers gained release of the 40 Ghanians.

A spokesman said trouble began when a north Kasai provincial minister arrived in Port Francqui in a U.N. plane to try to calm tribal unrest. He said the minister began to abuse Congolese soldiers. They surged toward him angrily and the Ghana soldiers formed a protective guard that was overwhelmed by superior numbers.

THOUSANDS HIT BEACHES IN SEATO BORNEO EXERCISE

MANILA, May 2 (AP)—Thousands of SEATO fighting men hit the shores of British North Borneo by sea and air today in an amphibious exercise.

A British navy helicopter was in an accident when landing commandos but no one was hurt.

V. Adm. Charles D. Griffin, United States seventh fleet commander, said the exercise—called Pony Express—has proved successful from the training viewpoint.

The assault began at dawn with launching of helicopters from the British carrier Bulward, followed an hour later by helicopters from the American carrier Thetis Bay. Two waves of United States Marines and British and Australian commandos hit the beaches.

The landing groups were supported by 60 ships and 100 planes.

B-47 CARRYING 4 CRASHES; AT LEAST TWO SURVIVORS

HURLEY, Wis., May 2 (AP)—A six-engine Air Force B-47 jet bomber crashed in a swampy, wooded area near here today but at least two members of the four-man crew survived.

The plane was on a simulated bombing run when it went down in an area where another Air Force plane crashed Feb. 24, killing four men.

One of the survivors was identified as a Capt. Frank Meade, who was unhurt. The other survivor, so far unidentified, suffered a broken leg. An ambulance was sent to the isolated crash scene to take him out. Ground parties continued to search for the other two men aboard.

CURTIS ATTACKS KENNEDY PLAN FOR AGED CARE

By RICHARD DUDMAN
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 2—Representative Thomas B. Curtis (Rep.), Webster Groves, assailed today the Administration's proposal for health care for the aged as unnecessary, dangerous and too expensive.

In a speech prepared for delivery at the annual meeting of the United States Chamber of Commerce, Curtis contended that the United States already has a health care system that is the greatest in the history of the world.

"The supporters of the Social Security approach have made every effort to cleverly undermine the people's confidence in our present system of health care," he said.

"They have attacked the integrity of the medical profession, of the drug profession, of our hospitals, of the insurance companies, all the people who are responsible for our present advancements and upon whom we must rely for future progress."

Fears Socialized Medicine.

Curtis said paying for health benefits through Social Security would achieve the same results as socialized medicine. He reasoned that the Government would have to see that health services were provided at reasonable costs, and thus would set fees and price schedules of health institutions.

"The fact that the Federal Government would not own the hospitals, nursing homes, and so forth, as some claim is necessary for socialized medicine, is a superficial detail," he said. "The fact is we would end up with federal control of our health care institutions and professions."

Curtis said he believed any health care program under Social Security for persons 65 years old and over could not be stopped short of a comprehensive health and medical care program for everyone regardless of age.

"Social Security health care benefits can jeopardize the financial soundness of our present cash benefit program," he said. "The present program will require 9 per cent taxes on payroll by 1969. This is provided in the existing law. If we start health care services in Social Security, with its inevitable expansion to all kinds of services and to people of all ages, the tax cost could well be another 9 or 10 per cent."

Higher Fees Urged.

William A. McDonnell, chairman of the board of First National Bank in St. Louis, appealed today to local Chambers of Commerce to charge higher membership fees and spend more money.

In a speech prepared for delivery at the United States chamber's meeting, McDonnell said many of the local Chambers of Commerce still allow an individual or firm to join for $25 a year.

"Why even a janitor costs a minimum of $2080 a year—$1 an hour for 40 hours a week for 52 weeks," he said. "And if the New Frontiersmen have their way this price is probably going up."

McDonnell, a former president of the United States Chamber, asserted that most business men spend more than $25 a year on paper clips and rubber bands and pointed out that it costs $60 a year to belong to the United Auto Workers' Union.

"Let's not undersell our product," he said.

Noting that the purchasing power of the dollar has been cut in half in the last 20 years, he said:

"If your Chamber of Commerce budget is not at least twice what it was 20 years ago, and if it's not going up every year, you are losing ground. Instead of growing, you are shrinking in size and importance."

BOY, 14, HURT SERIOUSLY IN ACCIDENTAL SHOOTING

John Todd, 14 years old, was seriously injured yesterday when a revolver was accidentally discharged in his home, 2209 Division street. The youth is in Homer G. Phillips Hospital with a bullet wound in the abdomen.

Todd told police the accident occurred after he had taken the weapon from its hiding place under a mattress. His mother, who is employed, was not at home.

After being wounded, the youth walked downstairs from the second floor apartment and used a neighbor's telephone to summon police. The police said Todd's statement that a 14-year-old playmate had been present when the revolver was fired was disputed by the second boy.

WASHINGTON U. MAN GETS ADULT EDUCATION AWARD

Eugene I. Johnson, director of the Civic Education Center at Washington University, has been awarded the achievement prize for developing the outstanding adult education program in Missouri, it was announced today.

The award was made at the annual conference of the Missouri Valley Adult Education Association in Minneapolis.

Johnson originated and developed the St. Louis Metroplex Assembly, now in its fourth year, a program of informal adult education that utilizes television to link small discussion groups meeting in private homes. He also pioneered in the development of residential adults education in the St. Louis area for alumni of Washington University.

PROSECUTOR URGES PAROLE, PROBATION LAW CHANGES

Some changes in the state's parole and probation law should be considered by the Legislature, St. Louis County Prosecuting Attorney Norman H. Anderson said last night in a speech before the United Young Democrats of St. Louis county.

Anderson noted that under the present law it is possible for a prisoner to obtain a parole as soon as he is received at the penitentiary. He said that this has never happened.

He said he believed the prosecuting attorney should be notified when a prisoner is being considered for parole so the official can make known to the parole board any information that may bear on the applicant's fitness for release. He said he favored retention of the death penalty.

PEOPLES HOSPITAL ELECTION

St. Louis Magistrate John W. Harvey has been elected chairman of the board of directors and president of the Hospital Association at the Peoples Hospital, 2221 Locust street, it was announced today.

He succeeds Morris Henderson, who resigned as board chairman last January to become hospital administrator. Other officers elected were T. H. Mayberry, first vice president; Theodore Holt, second vice president; Mrs. Elece C. McLean, secretary, and Robert E. Eagen, treasurer.

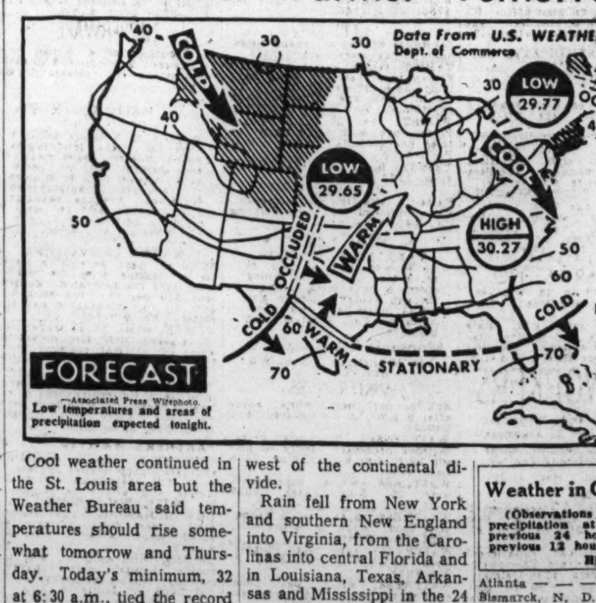
A Little Warmer Tomorrow



—Associated Press Wirephoto.
Low temperatures and areas of precipitation expected tonight.

Cool weather continued in the St. Louis area but the Weather Bureau said temperatures should rise somewhat tomorrow and Thursday. Today's minimum, 32 at 6:30 a.m., tied the record low for this date set in 1929.

Cold air from the northern border states moved into Oklahoma and parts of Texas in the night, sending temperatures down this morning 10 to 20 degrees lower than in the preceding 24 hours. Cooler weather was also reported from the Carolinas into northern Florida, through southern parts of the Gulf states and in most areas west of the continental divide.

Rain fell from New York and southern New England into Virginia, from the Carolinas into central Florida and in Louisiana, Texas, Arkansas and Mississippi in the 24 hours ended early today. Light showers and snow flurries fell in Michigan with rain again in the far Northwest.

Scattered showers were forecast by tomorrow in New England, the northern and central Plains states and the Rockies with some snow in the higher mountain elevations, as indicated by the above map.

Heating degree days in the St. Louis area yesterday, 18; the month, 18; the season, 4831.

DRY DOCK TO SCOTLAND

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., May 2 (AP)—A Navy dry dock is on the way across the Atlantic in four sections. Tugs are towing the dry dock to Holy Loch, Scotland, where part of the United States nuclear submarine fleet is based.

The trip, which started yesterday, is expected to take 32 days. When reassembled, the dry dock will be 425 feet long, 240 feet wide and 72 feet high.

P.O.A.U. PROPOSAL ON SCHOOL AID PLAN

Catholic bishops should seek an amendment to the United States Constitution to "legalize their claims for tax support for their denominational schools," a Protestant leader said here yesterday.

The proposal was made by the Rev. C. Stanley Lowell of Washington, associate director of Protestants and Other Americans United for Separation of Church and State. He addressed the organization's St. Louis chapter at a public meeting in St. John's Methodist Church, 5000 Washington boulevard.

"Since the constitutionality of any federal aid to church schools is admittedly dubious, why should not its proponents resolve doubt by seeking an amendment to the Constitution," the Rev. Mr. Lowell said.

If such an amendment were ratified, he said, there no longer would be any question about programs of aid to church schools which Congress might approve.

"The Catholic bishops have now apparently abandoned their efforts for construction loans and are now seeking direct grants for buildings and salaries," he stated. "The loan bill may even be withdrawn and a grant bill substituted. This is helpful and clarifying because it demonstrates to the public the real nature of the bishops' demands. It also shows them directly the need for repeal of the First Amendment under which such grants have been barred."

In addition to the constitutional question, federal aid to church schools is socially undesirable, the Rev. Mr. Lowell said. He cited the experience of Holland and asserted that government subsidies to church schools in that country have had the effect of pitting one religious group against another. The result would be even more divisive in the United States, he said.

COMMUNITY PLAN GROUP PRESENTS PRESS AWARDS

DENVER, May 2 (AP)—The American Society of Planning Officials announced yesterday National Planning Conference awards to two newspaper men and six newspapers for outstanding public service through advancement of community planning efforts.

The 1961 journalism award went to the Sacramento Bee "for public service rendered in the advancement of city and regional planning through outstanding journalism."

Citations were given to: The Elmyra (N.Y.) Star-Gazette "for excellence of analysis and interpretation of the comprehensive plan"; The Hagerstown (Md.) Morning Herald and assistant editor and columnist A. Vernon Davis "for leadership in the advancement of city and county planning"; The Honolulu Advertiser "for excellence in presenting the long range plan to the community"; the Minneapolis Star and Tribune "for excellence in reporting on all aspects of city planning"; the Wichita Eagle and Beacon and editorial writer Martin N. Perry "for excellence of articles and editorials on problems of annexation."

PASSAMAQUODDY POWER PLAN REJECTED IN REPORT

WASHINGTON, May 2 (AP)—An international joint commission has rejected, at least temporarily, the idea of harnessing for electric power generation the tides of Passamaquoddy bay in Maine and New Brunswick.

A report made public yesterday by the State Department said the $687,000,000 project is economically unfeasible when compared with the cost of power produced by the steam-driven electric power plants now used in the area.

The Canadian-American commission left open the door for development of the tidal power project if and when less costly energy resources now available are exhausted. The conclusions were reached at a commission meeting here April 4-7 but were not officially made public until yesterday.

CATHOLICS GET LOW COST HOSPITAL PLAN

For only $1.80 a month Catholic men under 61 can now receive $50 each week while hospitalized for any accident or sickness covered by the insurance of our non-profit Society. Payments can continue for as long as two years—totaling up to $5,200. Catholic women and men 61 through 75 get an identical policy at a slightly higher cost.

You are paid in addition to any other insurance, including Workmen's Compensation. You spend the money as you wish—for hospital bills, doctor bills, or expenses at home. Use your own Doctor and choose any lawfully operated hospital. Your insurance begins the first day you're in the hospital.

You need this policy now. Inflation has increased hospital rates 375% since 1940. As a result, most people do not have enough insurance. Last year, for example, people who used their insurance found it paid an average of only 31c of every dollar spent for accident and sickness bills. Protect yourself with our low cost insurance. It gives you extra cash for medical expenses.

The Western Catholic Union has paid out $9,000,000 in benefits to its members. A variety of policies can protect every member of the family.

Get all the facts on this low cost protection. Phone PArkview 6-0087 or mail the coupon today for free information. No obligation, of course. Don't delay. One person in every three families will be in the hospital this year.

STOCKS MOVE HIGHER OVER A BROAD FRONT

NEW YORK, May 2 (AP)—The stock market closed higher today in heavy trading.

Amerace was up nearly 9 points but settled a bit below that. United States Steel gained a couple of points. American Telephone rebounded more than a point.

Steels, nonferrous metals, oils, drugs, electronics and rails were among the gainers.

The market was mixed at the start, then began to move ahead.

Volume for the day was estimated at 4.1 million shares compared with 3.71 million yesterday.

American Stock Exchange prices were mixed in late afternoon in active trading. Cubic Corp. was up about 5 while Anken Chemical and Fairchild Camera advanced around 3 apiece. Fractional losses were taken by Technicolor, Stelma and Universal Controls. Great Western Producers fell more than a point.

KENNECOTT JOINS RISE IN COPPER TO 30C LEVEL

NEW YORK, May 2 (AP)—Kennecott Copper Corp., the nation's largest producer of copper, has increased its price for copper one cent a pound to 30 cents, effective Wednesday.

This left Phelps Dodge Corp. as the only large producer still charging the 29-cent price in effect from January until yesterday.

American Smelting & Refining Co. started the upward movement yesterday and was quickly joined by the Anaconda Co. and some smaller producers. Custom smelters of copper went along with the firmer price, saying they would not be copper at less than 30 cents a pound.

TWO NEW U.S. ISSUES SELL AT PREMIUMS

NEW YORK, May 2 (AP) — Corporate bond prices held mixed while the U. S. Government list improved late today.

One over the counter dealer in treasury securities quoted long bonds up 2-32 to 4-32 and intermediates ahead by 2-32. There was little activity.

The two issues sold yesterday by the treasury as part of the May refunding jumped to premiums in when issued trading. The 3 per cent, one-year certificate was quoted at 100 4-32 bid and the 3¼ two-year note was 100 8-32. Orders for both were taken at 100 yesterday.

In the foreign list Belgian Congo 5¼s fell 2 at 40 and Cuba 4½s lost 1⅝ at 51⅞.

The 91-day issue sold at an average yield of 2.3 per cent compared with 2.186 the previous week. The companion 182-day issue sold at an average of 2.417 per cent compared with 2.3 the previous week, also an all time low for the 2½ yers teh issue had been sold.

The sale yesterday included $100,000,000 more of the longer bills than fell due as the treasury raised additional new money. This tended to depress prices, thus improve yields.

Government dealers were predicting the heavy oversubscription of yesterday's treasury sale of $7,750,000,000 of 3 per cent one-year certificates and 3¼ per cent two-year notes. Proceeds will be used to repay a like amount of notes and certificates maturing May 15.

Home Ownership Gain Reflects Rise in Income, Easier Credit

61.9 Per Cent of All Houses Were Occupied by Owners Last Year Compared With 55 Per Cent in 1950.

By William H. Kester
Post-Dispatch Business Correspondent.

The proportion of families owning their own homes has risen substantially in the last 10 years, reflecting the increase in incomes and easier mortgage credit terms.

Of the 53,000,000 housing units occupied last year, 32,800,000 or 61.9 per cent of them were owned by the occupants, the United States Bureau of Census has reported. In 1950, 55 per cent were owner-occupied.

W. H. Kester

Home ownership now is at the highest level since 1890, the first year for which census data are available. At the turn of the century only 47 per cent of American families owned their homes and the rate remained relatively stable until 1930. As a result of the severe depression in the 1930s, home ownership declined to 43.6 per cent in 1940.

The proportion of home ownership is higher among white than non-white families. Last year, the rate was 64 per cent for white households and 38 per cent for non-white families. In the last 10 years, the proportion of non-white households owning their homes rose 9.7 per cent, compared with an increase of 13.2 per cent for white households.

Home ownership rates are highest in the north central region of the country and lowest in the northeast, the Census Bureau reported.

The increase in home ownership since World War II reflects the increase in real incomes of most income groups. Between 1947 and 1959, average family money income rose from $3000 to $5400, or about 80 per cent. After allowance for the rise in prices, real purchasing power increased 35 per cent in the 12-year period, rising from $4000 in 1947 in terms of 1959 prices.

The average market value of non-farm homes rose from $9100 in 1949 to $13,400 last year, a gain of nearly 50 per cent, the University of Michigan Survey Research Center reports. The increase resulted primarily from inflation, but some of it reflects the bigger houses built in recent years.

Mortgage credit terms have eased in the post-war period, facilitating the increase in home ownership. The average size of loans has risen, but the rate of mortgage debt repayment has declined. Down payments make up a smaller proportion of the total loan and maturities have lengthened, partly offsetting the rise in amount borrowed and in interest rates.

The total market value of the non-farm homes is about 400 billion dollars, the Michigan researchers say. The average market value of mortgaged homes is $14,600, but non-mortgaged homes were valued at an average of $11,270. Among those who have mortgages, the average amount outstanding is $6800.

Annual mortgage payments have risen sharply, in part reflecting the rise in home values. The proportion of non-farm families paying more than $1000 a year rose from 3 per cent in 1949 to 20 per cent last year. Thirty per cent of the families pay between $550 and $999 a year on their mortgages. Eight per cent pay less than $500 and 40 per cent have no mortgage payment.

Mississippi River Transmission Corp., a subsidiary of Mississippi River Fuel Corp., has filed a statement with the Securities and Exchange Commission seeking registration of $5,600,000 of 20-year sinking fund debentures to be offered to the public.

The offering will be made through Eastman Dillon, Union Securities & Co. and Dempsey-Tegeler & Co. of St. Louis. The interest rate, public offering price and underwriting terms are to be supplied later.

The funds will be used to repay bank borrowings for the financing of the 94-mile natural gas pipeline just completed from near Johnsonville, Ill., to St. Louis. Total cost of the project was about $7,500,000. About $1,880,000 was raised by issuing common stock, 60 per cent of it to the parent corporation.

Gardner Advertising Co. of St. Louis and Basil Butler Co. Ltd. of London have formed a business association with each agency acquiring a financial interest in the other. Gardner will acquire a substantial, but not controlling, interest in the British firm. The British firm will be renamed Basil Butler Gardner Advertising Ltd.

Personnel and creative and marketing ideas will be exchanged by the two firms. John H. Leach, vice president of Gardner, has been nominated to the board of directors of the Basil Butler, which will also be represented on the Gardner board.

Billings last year by Gardner were $42,700,000 and those by Basil Butler were approximately $5,000,000, of which $1,500,000 were in capitalized fees.

NARROW MOVEMENTS MARK GRAIN TRADE

CHICAGO, May 2 (AP)—The grain futures market held generally within a narrow range either way of previous closes in quiet dealings on the Board of Trade.

Activity virtually ceased for long periods as most dealers apparently stood pat awaiting some new trade influences. Brokers said international developments seemed to be somewhat less a factor in the trade than yesterday although one report of a cease-fire agreement in Laos may have had a quieting effect.

Commercial demand was very slow. However, brokers said export interests were among soybean buyers.

KENNECOTT COPPER QTR. NET IS BELOW 1960 BASIS

NEW YORK, May 2 (AP) — Lower copper prices cut Kennecott Copper Corp.'s first quarter earnings below the comparable 1960 period, President Frank R. Milliken reported.

He told the annual meeting of stockholders that profit dropped to $16,160,679, equal to $1.46 a share, from $18,201,372, or $1.65 a share.

Sales inched up to $117,653,471 from $117,376,455.

Kennecott shipped 147,000 tons of copper in the first three months of this year, compared with 120,300 tons in the 1960 first quarter. However, the average selling price was 28.2 cents a pound against 32.1 last year.

Milliken told the meeting the firm's "business has been improving since early in the year," and added:

"Sales have recently exceeded production, sufficiently so that in order to meet customer requirements it was necessary late in April to resume domestic operations on a seven-day a week basis, compared with the six-day schedule in effect since early in the year."

U.S. TREASURY STATEMENT

WASHINGTON, May 2 (AP)— The cash position of the Treasury April 27: Balance $3,205,591,447; deposits fiscal year July 1 $73,848,646,615; withdrawals fiscal year $79,686,095,529; total debt (x)$288,891,131,631; gold assets $17,389,657,122.

ODD LOT TRANSACTIONS

NEW YORK, May 2 (AP) — The New York Stock Exchange reported today these odd lot transactions by principal dealers for May 1: Purchases of 413,395 shares; sales of 463,066 shares including 1838 shares sold short.

Don't you believe it. Wall Street isn't a one way street. It never was. It never will be.

Stock prices may move up.

But stock prices can move down too.

And that's worth remembering any time stock prices are making headlines—or new highs.

True, we've always believed in the long range future of American business and the long range future of American investment.

As a matter of fact, since the turn of the century, leading averages of common stock prices have shown an average increase of 3% a year.

But that still doesn't mean you can buy stocks blind—or speculate indiscriminately in hopes of overnight profits.

Which stocks you buy will always make a big difference; which stocks you should buy in your particular circumstances will always vary widely.

If you would like to know what we would suggest in your situation, may we invite you to stop in and discuss that problem with one of our Account Executives. And if that's not convenient, please feel free to phone or write us.

Red Letter Day for Reds

Prize Picture

Assassin and his victim provide the drama in picture that earned the 1960 Pulitzer Prize for photography. It was taken by Yasushi Nagao of the Tokyo Mainichi, who caught the stark moment as a rightist terrorist killed Japanese Socialist leader Inejiro Asanuma last Oct. 12. The picture was distributed in this country by United Press International and was printed in this newspaper a few hours after it was made.

Marking 75th Year At Day Care Center

"CAN YOU BELIEVE IT?" the teacher said softly to the wide-eyed little boys and girls. "While you were sleeping, all these people came to a party."

"Is it a birthday party?" one little boy asked, peering through the glass door at the group in the next room.

CLARISSA START

"No, it's called an anniversary party," the teacher, Dorothy Welhoelter, explained. "Now, do you think each of you could carry one of these in when I tell you it's time?"

Inside the big room, Mrs. C. Sidney Neuhoff, president of the Board of South Side Day Nursery, was presenting citations to the friends of the nursery. The oldest day care center west of the Mississippi (and a United Fund agency), South Side was celebrating its seventy-fifth anniversary. It was a big day.

One by one the children went in, shyly and solemnly, and presented his gift—a plaster of paris paperweight, dotted with confetti-like colored gravel to resemble a cupcake—to the guests of honor.

There was Bruce Hayward, chief barker for the Variety Club, which guaranteed a loan of $40,000 for the nursery when it lost its old home and had to build the present one at 2930 Iowa avenue, and still supports day care in many ways. There were representatives of the Needlework Guild, South Side Kiwanis, Stix, Baer and Fuller, Christmas Carol Association, the Girl Scouts, Betsy Ross Conclave 14 of the Order of True Kindred, the Volunteer Bureau, the Christmas Bureau and the Old Newsboys. All of these grown-ups had done something to help the children, as had the many, many volunteers on hand.

Ideas on day care have changed considerably since South Side first opened up.

"The emphasis used to be on keeping the children quiet," one old timer among the volunteers recalled. "They were supposed to sit on little chairs with their hands folded until it was time for a nap. I remember how horrified some of the people were when we introduced a sandbox to the nursery."

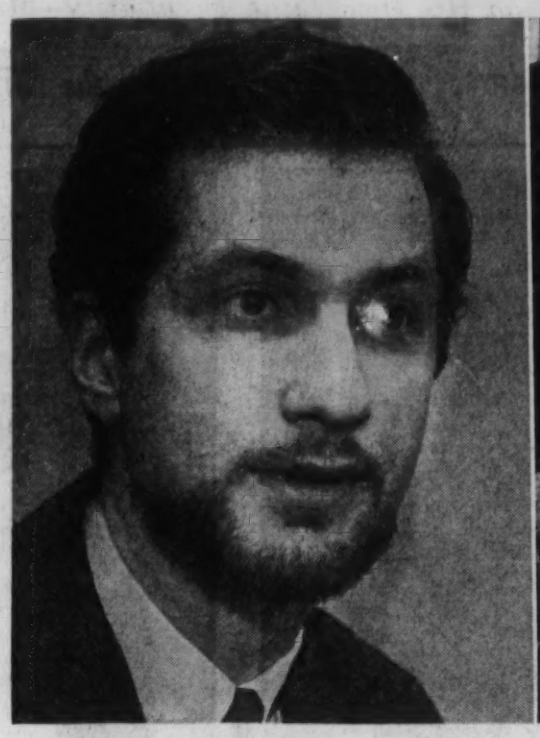
Today the sandbox has been expanded to a fascinating array of outdoor play equipment that looks like a miniature Disneyland. Outside the window the traffic was terrific, as tricycles, wagons, small cars and pounding little feet circled the playground.

Even when they're indoors, today's pre-schoolers are active. As Mrs. Max Putzel pointed out in a talk on the history of day care, many families owe much to this idea of caring for children while parents are at work. But in addition to the actual recipients, the average mother owes a great deal to this inventive institution of day care.

Stuck with the kids indoors on a rainy day? Do as they do at South Side and try some of these projects: Necklace made of macaroni, colored with food coloring and strung together; mobiles made of colored eggshells, or popsickle sticks and macaroni; balloon "sculptures," achieved by dipping string in flour-water paste, wrapping it around a balloon and popping the balloon when dry; paste-ups with scraps of fabric and paper; food coloring tinted soap flakes beat up with an eggbeater (do this at your own risk); dress-up with boxes of old clothes.

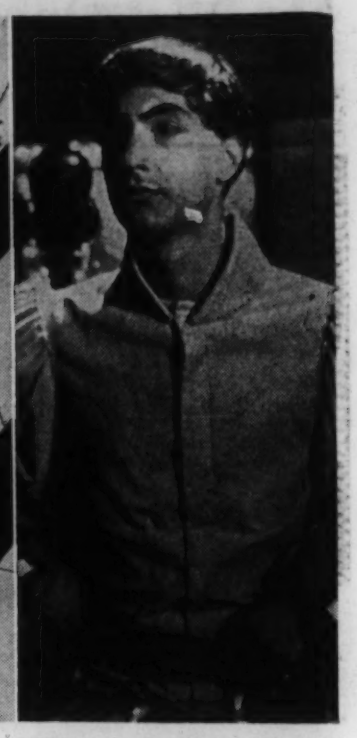
If the going gets a bit hectic, reflect that South Side is caring for 35 of these bundles of indefatigable energy—and wish it a happy seventy-fifth anniversary.

He's Shakespearean Actor From The Hill



GEORGE GITTO

GITTO rehearsing for his role as Petruchio in "The Taming of the Shrew" at Webster College Thursday night.



GITTO as the Dauphine in "Henry V" at Akron, Ohio, last summer.

By Dickson Terry
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff.

George Gitto Chose Acting Instead of Baseball, Comes Home for Role in Webster College Festival

THE FAME and popularity of a couple of guys from The Hill named Joe and Yogi have left their mark, we have been told, on the youth of that neighborhood. There was a time when boys from The Hill grew up with all sorts of ambitions, just like boys everywhere. But not any more. Now all they want to be is big league baseball players.

We were somewhat relieved to learn there has been one notable exception in recent years. Not that there is anything wrong with being a big league ball player, we hasten to point out. It's just a question of how many Joe Garagiolas and Yogi Berras this country could absorb.

The exception, whose name is George Gitto, with a soft G, stretches from baseball to Shakespeare. He is back from New York to portray Petruchio in "The Taming of the Shrew" which opens the Webster College Fine Arts Festival on Thursday night.

The play, incidentally, will be presented out-of-doors in the style of the Elizabethan theater, and will be fairly top-heavy with atmosphere. The school recently acquired an estate in Webster Groves, which is now the Fine Arts campus. The place has a 30-room house on it, and by coincidence the back of the building is nearly identical to the house where Shakespeare was born. The atmosphere will be further enhanced by the fact that there will be gallery seats for the gentry, but the common people will sit on the ground.

Shakespearean productions have been a tradition at Webster college since 1919 and "Taming of the Shrew" was one of their first. It so happens it was the first full length play in which Gitto appeared when he was a drama student at St. Louis University, away back in 1956.

We had a long talk with Gitto the other afternoon. He is 25 years old, six feet tall, slender, dark, and in the process of growing a beard. He looks, as we told him, like a young Vincent Price. This he took in his stride. For several years now, he confessed, people have been telling him he looks like a young Vincent Price. He finds the idea pleasing and hopes someday to meet Price, whom he considers a very accomplished actor.

George's father, whose name is also George, works for a dress manufacturer; one of his older brothers, Paul, is a draftsman and another older brother, Charles, has a pizza restaurant called Gitto's, on The Hill.

George played his share of baseball when he was a youngster and his older brothers and uncles, he recalls, used to play sandlot baseball with Joe and Yogi. But when George was in the seventh grade his feet were pointed in another direction by his teacher, Sister Ignatius.

"She was convinced I had talent," George recalls, "and she coached me. She taught me things like speech control. My first public appearance was in the Catholic Interscholastic Speech League, held every year at St. Louis University High School. I did a humorous monologue. I won fifth place."

George did better during his four years at McBride High School. There are three of the interscholastic contests each year. George entered each of them every year. "You're graded on a point system and the guy who racks up the most points each year gets a gold medal. I have four gold medals."

Another who influenced George was the Rev. Robert Johnston S.J., head of the speech department at St. Louis University, where George spent the next four years. Father Johnston, along with Dr. C. B. Gilford and Allen Henson, who at that time were instructors in speech and drama, aroused his interest in Shakespeare and the classical drama.

After graduation from St. Louis University, George went to work for his brother, serving pizzas and wondering what to do. George, incidentally, is well equipped vocally for classical drama. He has splendid chest tones and excellent diction. At his brother's pizzeria, his diction had a tendency to surprise the customers. When he asked them what kind of pizza they wanted, sounding a little like Sir Laurence Olivier, it threw them into confusion. "Are you from England?" they kept asking.

Early in the summer of 1958, he auditioned for Municipal Opera. He was told that he should be auditioning for the American Shakespeare Festival Theater and Academy of Stratford, Conn. The theater and academy, modeled after the festival theater at Stratford-on-Avon, was started in 1954 to provide a permanent home for Shakespeare in this country and to maintain an academy where American actors could receive training in classical acting.

The theater employs a basic acting company and brings in stars for leading roles. The academy provides courses each summer and winter for actors of all stature who want to acquire training for classical roles.

Gitto had heard of the festival, but he didn't know much about it. Nevertheless, he wrote, asking for an audition. It was granted. He flew to New York, did some lines from Henry IV and was told not to call them, they would call him. He hung around New York a couple of days, bought a ticket to fly home and was at Idlewild Airport waiting for his plane when he heard himself being paged. He had been accepted as a member of the academy.

As a result of his work he was given a scholarship to the academy, and he studied there for a year, appearing in roles in "Romeo and Juliet," "Midsummer Night's Dream," "All's Well That Ends Well" and "Merry Wives of Windsor."

During the summer of 1960 he was invited to appear at the Shakespeare Festival at Akron, O., where he appeared in three plays.

Last fall he was accepted as a member of the Institute of Advanced Studies in Theater Arts in New York. This group brings in directors from other countries, and the basic idea is to instruct American actors in the techniques and styles of theater in other countries. It is a privately endowed organization, sponsored by New York University. It has 225 active members, all actors, and it is significant that in his first year with the group Gitto played leading roles in two plays.

This summer he is going again to Akron, where he will appear in five Shakespearean plays, including "The Taming of the Shrew." Gitto's interests are centered on Shakespeare and the classical drama.

"Of course I want to do some modern and contemporary things," he says, "but I have a great feeling for Shakespeare and the music of his words. I know it's the least remunerative branch of the theater, but it can also be the most rewarding in other ways."

Theatrically speaking, Gitto is, as they would say on The Hill, still something of a rookie. But he shows a lot of promise.

Ann Landers

'Puppy Love' Issue

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This is the first time I've ever disagreed with you—violently, that is. I refer to your advice to the father who held his 17-year-old daughter in his arms while she sobbed out her heartbreak after being dropped by her boy friend.

ANN LANDERS

Psychologists agree that this thing called puppy love can be one of the strongest emotions a human being can experience. True, as you pointed out, high school romances involve much casual swapping of rings, pictures, sweaters and bracelets—a broken heart one day and a new steady the next. But mixed in with this sort of thing can be a real case of puppy love. You berated the father for sitting down and crying with his daughter. You said he was derelict in his duty for not explaining to her that life can be plenty rough, and that she should learn to roll with the punches.

Well, Ann, I think you were much too hard on her, and on him, too. This, to her young mind was a major tragedy and your lack of sympathy was a shock to me. —A.B.

Dear A.B.: Your point is well taken, and many others wrote to say essentially the same thing—but my advice stands. I think the father of a teen-age girl who has been jilted should not sit down and cry with her. The collapse of a very special romance can be painful, but life dishes out a good many disappointments. The teen-ager who learns to develop a sense of balance, and a sense of humor will do well. The others will be constantly wedded to the crying towel.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: We recently purchased a home in a lovely suburb. As soon as the moving men started to unload the furniture my new next door neighbor came over with a hot pot of coffee and a basket of home-made biscuits. I thought this was a very friendly gesture.

Within the hour she gave me the life history of every family on both sides of the street. She said she knew I would want to "get off on the right foot" and it might help to know whom to avoid and whom to get friendly with. I have never heard such vicious gossip in all my life.

I don't want her as a friend. Yet I'm at her mercy because she is my first neighborhood acquaintance. I can see she's a "dropper-inner." How can I keep her off my neck and shut her up when she starts to gossip? —NEWCOMER

Dear New: First, before she gets into the habit ask her not to drop in without first phoning. Tell her you aren't always free to visit. When she starts to hack away at people simply say: "What do you know about them that's good?"

Are your parents too strict? You can benefit from the experiences of thousands of teen-agers if you write for Ann Landers's booklet, "How To Live with Your Parents," inclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Opening lead—six of spades.

THE OUTCOME of many hands played by declarer depends upon how the defenders' cards are divided. When declarer can make his contract only if the adverse cards are divided in a certain way, he should play on the basis that distribution exists.

Here is a case where it would be easy for declarer to go wrong. South is in three no-trump and West leads a spade. To make the contract South must take the unusual step of going up with dummy's king.

Normally, this would be a bad play to make. By playing a low spade from dummy South can assure himself of an eventual spade trick regardless of where the ace and queen are located. His jack, in combination with dummy's king, guarantees a stopper, come what may. The king play, however, could result in South's making no spade tricks if East had the ace and West the queen.

But Smith should concern himself not so much with making a spade trick as he should with making the contract. The play of the king provides the only legitimate chance of entering dummy to take the vital diamond finesse. If he plays the four, then, regardless of how the spade honors are divided, proper defense will prevent him from ever entering dummy for the diamond finesse.

Once the king holds, as it does in this hand, South can be sure of taking nine tricks provided East has the king of diamonds. But here also South must be careful to make the right play or he will be defeated.

He should lead the nine of diamonds at trick two and take a finesse. When it succeeds he can then lead the queen and in this way make four diamond tricks and the contract.

But if declarer makes the mistake of leading the queen at trick two, East can defeat him by ducking the queen. Regardless of what South does next, he cannot make four diamond tricks and must eventually go down one.

They'll Do It Every Time

Jack Rice

A Sidewalk Club For Men Only

JACK RICE

THE EXCLUSIVE MEN'S CLUB in St. Louis is a hole in the ground on the south side of Olive street between Sixth and Seventh. A parking-garage is to be built on the site and then there will be no excitement present, just the folk music of screaming brakes and the shrieks of dying fenders.

Women will clutter the site then, standing at the cashier's cage to search their purses for claim checks while men stand behind them, missing airplanes and business deals. For a little while, though, the site is flawless, a perfect entertainment of a site, a stag show a bishop could love.

The cast working in the pit with huge trucks and caterpillar earth movers is male and the audience is male. The wrecking company producing the show did not legislate against women in the audience. Several hundred men are at the railings during the noon hour, studying the work going on in the hole, and I never have seen a man turn from the railings to snarl at a woman and tell her to go away, it is a man's show.

Nobody has told the women they are not welcome. This club became stag the best way, the only foolproof way, possible. Women stayed away because they wanted to and for once men played it smart. Nobody put up a "Men Only" sign and made a challenge case of it.

There are three galleries, the sidewalks on Olive and on Seventh, and an alley on the east. A pretty girl walked down the alley when the caterpillars were attacking a remnant of wall. Everywhere else in the city it was spring and men were turning to look at pretty girls, and at their grandmothers, too.

The pretty girl walking down the alley was a waste of nature. No man turned to follow her graceful passage. She knew it and she was resentful. Her hat was built high, to pick up a wiggle as she walked, and the hat's built-in dynamics acquired an extra wiggle from her indignation. If she had shaken her hat right off her head and into the hole and leaped in after it not a man in the three galleries, not a one among the gallant 200, would have leaped in to help. That is what the big machines are there for, to scrape up the refuse and dump it in the 18-tired trucks.

The hole in the ground will hold a handsome building. Parking-garages are getting better looking than houses and that makes sense. The interiors of automobiles are better furnished than living rooms. Until the handsomeness of the parking accommodations is realized there is an interim beauty, rugged and useful, as the cats-claw at the rubble and prepare the hole in the ground for new construction.

I do not know why a new hole in the ground downtown is more interesting than the making of a hole in the ground, meaning the demolition of old buildings. When that was going on men worked dangerously and gracefully, swinging sledges as they stood on narrow walls, beating down the walls a swing at a time. Few stopped to watch.

The few who did were men. Now that the parking garage project is below street level and can keep no secrets from the spectators on the sidewalks, it still is exclusively a man's attraction.

A woman stopped once. She had an excuse. Two small boys witth her dragged her to the railing on Olive and looked below. She said something but the boys ignored her; they were talking man-to-man. She said it again, louder, and they continued to ignore her. They had an all-day stock of that treatment for her. Finally she shouted what she had been saying all along, "The brick dust is ruining my hair," and pulled the poor boys away.

That is the secret of keeping a man's club exclusive, I suppose. Lots of brick dust on the loose.

HOLLYWOOD, May 2.

"THE JUDY GARLAND STORY" will soon be completed as a book, and how about Connie Francis to play Judy? I understand producer Joe Pasternak is very interested. . . . From a clan member I hear that Frank Sinatra has bought "The New Yorkers" for his next musical. Wasn't this the show that brought fame to Jimmy Durante on Broadway in the early '30s? . . . And, a snag in the "Fon de Portago Story": Producer Leonard Burton requires releases from Linda Christian and the wife of the late Marquis who was killed in a car-racing contest. That could be difficult—the only thing the two women agree on is their intense dislike for each other.

REX HARRISON asked his good friend, playwright Terence Rattigan, to write a part for Rachel Roberts in the play Rex will do in August. They should be married by then—Rachel and Rex, I mean. . . . Rod Steiger hopes to have finished his picture at Columbia in time to rejoin his wife Claire Bloom in London in June. Claire is starring there in the Jean Paul Sartre play, "Loser Wins." . . . Inger Stevens has flown to her native Sweden for a visit with her family—her first trip home in four years.

ROBERT RYAN will take his entire family with him to London next month when he co-stars with Peter Ustinov in "Billy Budd." . . . Brigitte Bardot paid $100,000 for her new apartment in Paris, and report has it that Brig paid the entire amount in cash from her shoebox-under-the-bed bank. A woman I knew died not too long ago, and under her bed her husband found $187,000 in an old shoebox.

JACK OAKIE was arguing with Frank Capra, director of his "Pocketful of Miracles," about who had been in motion pictures the longest. It was a dead heat. "That makes me the winner," said the rotund Oakie, "because there is more of me than you." . . . John Huston was in and out of Manhattan without too many people knowing it. John did little else during three days there than huddle with Montgomery Clift at the star's home over the revised script of "Freud," to be filmed at U-I. Monty hasn't yet signed for the role, but I think he will.

ARLENE DAHL and manager Chris Holmes are in New York. Arlene, expecting a baby in August, has not allowed this to interfere with conferences with Broadway producer Bernie Wayne who wants the glamorous redhead to star for him in the musical version of "Cyrano de Bergerac." And if Wayne gets Arlene, Jose Ferrer will probably play Cyrano—which won him an Oscar when he played the part on the screen.

ELIZABETH TAYLOR insists she will do "Cleopatra," no matter what. But the studio may have to find her another Caesar, because Peter Finch, after waiting almost a year to make the movie, cannot afford to wait any longer. After a two-month rest in the sun of Jamaica, Peter is ready to work—in London.

BACKSTAIRS at the WHITE HOUSE

Uneasy Road of the First Lady

Each President Had His Own Little Peculiarity—Mrs. Coolidge Involved in Gossip

This is a condensation of Lillian Rogers Parks's new book, "My Thirty Years Backstairs at the White House." Mrs. Parks, a longtime maid at that famous mansion and the last to write before the White House "ban" on employes' memoirs, gives the reader a look at little-known characteristics and actions of Presidents and their First Ladies.

By Lillian Rogers Parks

With Francis Spatz Leighton.

CHAPTER THREE

HOW WOULD YOU LIKE to be married to a man who eats twice as fast as his guests and leaves the table before they've finished? That was Herbert Hoover. Or to a man who tells you whom you may and may not see, who pulls guests so fast along the reception line they almost feel unwelcome, who simply won't talk to people, leaving you to hold the conversation bag? That was Calvin Coolidge.

Would you like to be First Lady to a man idolized by millions but with so bad a temper you're afraid he'll burst out at the wrong time? That was Eisenhower. Or to F.D.R., who had great wealth but gave the impression of being a penny-pincher?

Don't envy a First Lady.

Backstairs, we staff members had a million laughs at the stories about new guests, and the problems of taking care of them. Russia's Khrushchev brought his own food-tasters; King Ibn Saud of Arabia had two bodyguards sleeping on the floor outside his room.

Or take this classic example of domestic diplomacy: A Congressman sent Hoover a tremendous fish and then hurried to the White House to be photographed with it. Mrs. Hoover, however, assumed the fish was for eating, and, in the kitchen, already its head was missing.

One of the men sewed the head back on, the picture was taken, and the people of Maine, the Congressmans' constituents, never knew the difference.

Backstairs, shivers are caused not only by security but such items as these: I had not noticed when a woman left my powder room with her voluminous skirts caught in her girdle, and had walked into the Reception Room with her undergarments plainly visible in the back.

The most embarrassing moment happened at a Roosevelt party, when the wife of a foreign diplomat actually lost her panties right in the middle of a diplomatic reception — even worse, right when she was walking forward to be received by the President and Mrs. Roosevelt.

All she could do was step out of them, move aside, and pretend they weren't hers, while everyone else did likewise—stepping around the fancy satin panties as they marched by trying not to look.

GRACE COOLIDGE, shown here with the President in 1923, later became the subject of much gossip after she was lost for several hours in the Black Hills of South Dakota with a Secret Service man.

A doorman finally saved the day. Bowing slightly to the people who were walking around the shiny silk object, he leaned down, put it over his arm so it looked more like a fancy towel, and with his usual dignity carried it away.

We felt sorry for Mrs. Truman, so timid about people and crowds that her hands perspired when she had to stand in the receiving line. She tried wearing gloves but was criticized for what seemed "an unfriendly way of shaking hands." According to one critic, "When I see Mrs. Truman, all I see is big white gloves."

Mrs. Hoover had a terrible fear that everything would not go smoothly, and drove us all crazy with the hand signals she would practice to keep lines moving and solve other problems of "smoothness." She did not trust anyone else's judgment, and had to give all directions herself by dropping handkerchiefs, raising three fingers, touching the nose and using other signals.

No First Lady has escaped the returning couple. Though they had simply gotten lost, a big rumor was started that this had been some kind of romantic tryst.

LOU HOOVER used hand signals in directing the White House staff during parties and receptions to insure "smoothness."

The Secret Service man was transferred, and it took years for the gossip to die down. What made it even more ridiculous was that he was engaged to be married and thought of no one but his fiancee.

The cardinal rule among the White House staff is never tell a new First Lady how her predecessor did things, unless she asks. Each First Lady has her own ideas, her own idiosyncrasies.

Mrs. Truman couldn't stand the sight of an electric sweeper sitting in a hall. Under the Hoovers, we had to whisper and not make a sound in the pantry while they were eating. But the Roosevelts, who talked excitedly, wouldn't have heard us anyway.

Mrs. Coolidge couldn't stand female voices on the radio, and Mama had to switch stations instantly until she found a masculine voice or music. The Eisenhowers loved TV and all its voices.

Under the Eisenhowers, the electrician wound all the clocks, but President Truman was a clockwinder himself and made a daily ritual of winding his favorite clock on the mantelpiece.

And Mrs. Eisenhower couldn't stand hearing us call one-another by nicknames, nor did she like slang. Although "Ike" was a cross she had to bear, she didn't think it proper and said so.

President Roosevelt would patiently explain over and over how he wanted something done, but President Truman said something once, and that was it. President Eisenhower was more military in issuing directives, and you got your orders through a chain of command.

While we never told outsiders the little disagreements between Presidents and First Ladies, we knew Mrs. Truman was displeased about the Truman letter to the music critic, knew that FDR lost patience if his wife went over his head to a Government agency after he refused to help her on some project.

ELEANOR ROOSEVELT would cause a family dispute whenever she would seek an official's help after her husband refused to aid her in a project.

And the children: President Hoover's grandchild who made White House history by appearing one day in nothing but a hat; Diana Hopkins, who packed her clothes for visiting, not in a suitcase but a laundry basket.

I am always asked about the honesty of the White House domestics. They are so honest it hurts—especially if their work goes unnoticed.

Mrs. Hoover had a large diamond ring that she would take off and leave wherever she happened to be. Housemen would come running back and ask us maids, "Have you seen the ring?" Sometimes we'd find it behind sofa pillows. She drove us almost crazy with her "find the ring" game.

If people knew how much economy is practiced in the White House they would be amazed. I have cut down dozens of curtains and draperies to make new ones, and all the old draperies are stored in the attic.

Old pillowcases were not thrown out; I'd take them apart and restitch them to cover the bed-pillow ticking. Because of the lining the stripes underneath would not show through, and the pillows would look whiter.

Not a feather is wasted. When President Eisenhower wanted small pillows to fit under his neck when he was sleeping, I made two of old feathers, one for the White House and one for his Gettysburg farm.

There were also the White House dogs. Meg, who bit a newspaperwoman on the nose, had to be exiled to FDR's Hyde Park home. And it wasn't amusing, except in retrospect, when all the maids had to carry feather dusters to ward off a horsey-looking Great Dane and a German Shepherd belonging to Franklin Jr.

Nowhere do household help have to work with such timing. We are so regulated that we even adjust our expressions for various occasions. Even when a butler serves the family alone, he must pretend he hears nothing. The best joke, which he may be recording mentally, is received with a poker face.

When I left the White House after 30 years, my "take-home" pay every two weeks was $103.60, and one kitchen worker is supporting her two children on about $48 a week. So when the Eisenhowers made the rule that tipping was not permitted, things became hard for her and others like her.

No, working at the White House is not easy. I hope Mrs. Kennedy will realize that and provide, as did Mrs. Roosevelt, a place where female help can lie down to rest if they feel bad.

Tomorrow: Mama and the Tafts.

The Show Biz People

By Walter Winchell

THE FOREIGN IMPORT titled "Breathless" received yes-and-no comments from United States critics. . . . Some called it exceptional entertainment. Others shuddered. . . . John Mills of London is our idea of an actor. Especially fine in "Tunes of Glory." This is the big-timer that stars Alec Guinness, but it is the performance of Mills you take home with you. . . . Jerry Lewis's films invariably are clobbered by the critics, but all of his shows make big money. All but one, Variety noted, made a $3,000,000 profit. . . . The sponsor who deserted "The Untouchables" was the one who put the series on the air. After seeing the original 2-parter (about Capone) the ciggie ad exec phoned ABC and simply said: "Make a series of it!"

"TASTE OF HONEY" playwright Shelagh Delaney (here recently) splurged her royalty money and wound up broke. Producer D. Merrick paid the Algonquin tab . . . Joan Crawford's rough break: Getting nothing out of the $600,000 estate of her late husband. Taxes, debts, counsel fees, etc. . . . Mystery-writer Georges Simenon apparently is teddibly rich. Paid $22,000 for a new Rolls at the Geneva Auto Show. Who has $22,000 after taxes? . . . The UN gal guides are a show in themselves. Many are beautiful—all are pretty . . . Nobody renders "Sweet Georgia Brown" the way Ray Charles does . . . The Stork Club's renown lures tourists with cameras. Shoot each other under the canopy . . . Robert Stack's decision to do only one more season of "The Untouchables" was made a year ago. He will star in feature films made by his own firm.

Life Begins at 40

By Robert Peterson

ROBERT PETERSON

EVERY NOW AND THEN someone raps me for my persistence in urging elders to be active. Here's a note from a reader who quotes Dr. R. J. Van Zonneveld of The Hague as saying, "Old age should be a time for rest and contemplation in which the individual can reflect on the things he has seen and accomplished in his lifetime."

I'm doubtful if many elders find solid satisfaction in musing on past glories. I've had the pleasure of conversing with several hundred elders in the past five years and feel most of them agree with W. B. Cannon who has been quoted as saying to a young friend, "Some day when you are older you will know what you have done in life interests you little, and gives you little comfort. It is what you still hope to accomplish that sparks your imagination and keeps you happy."

THE REASON a creative life hasn't a chance to bloom for some folks past 40 is that they're still too involved looking after others. I have just received a letter on this score from a woman who says that ever since leaving high school at 17 she has toiled for others—working to support a sister seeking a singing career, helping her husband as a bookkeeper in his plumbing firm, caring for her invalid mother, and raising four children and getting them through college.

Now at 48—relieved of family responsibilities, her husband's firm prosperous, and all four chicks safely married—she says she can at last think about herself and what she wants out of life. She says she has joined a writing group and taken up oil painting, and will satisfy a gnawing curiosity about college by tackling a year at her state university next fall.

This woman is far more than the mother of the President of the United States. Her name,

Rose Kennedy

She is the Kennedy family nerve center, linguist, politician, scholar, and mother of nine. She can wear a dress twenty years old—and look sensational. And, at seventy, she'd draw a second glance anywhere . . . even if her son weren't President! This is her story . . . told for the first time . . . the warm, intimate story of the whole Kennedy family . . . by one of America's most distinguished writers, Marguerite Higgins. Parties to Honor Miss Jody Jackes

By Peggy Johnson

DATES HAVE BEEN SET for several pre-wedding parties for Miss Jody Ann Jackes and John Spreck Ross. Other parties for which definite dates have not been arranged are being planned. The wedding will be June 24 at 11 o'clock at Christ the King Church.

—Jules Pierlow Photograph
MISS ABEL . . . To Be Hostess.

Mrs. Robert T. Convey will honor the prospective bride at a luncheon and shower at Bellerive Country Club the afternoon of May 27. Mrs. Oliver Abel Jr. and her daughter, Miss Alice Abel, who will be one of the bridesmaids, will be hostesses at a similar party June 10 at the University Club. Miss Jackes and Miss Abel were debutantes of the 1957-58 season.

Mr. and Mrs. James L. Burst (Nora Ross) will honor the couple at a barbecue supper at their home, 2536 North Geyer road, Frontenac, June 18. Mrs. Burst, the prospective bridegroom's sister, is also to be a bridesmaid at the wedding.

Mrs. Thomas O. Mulvihill (Nancy Jackes), who will be her sister's honor attendant, plans a June party at her home, 7629 Carrswold drive, Clayton, and Mrs. George Herbst and her daughter, Miss Susan Herbst, who also is to be a bridesmaid, will give a pre-wedding party early in June. The Herbsts' party, a luncheon and shower, will take place at Old Warson Country Club. Other parties planned for June include one to be given by Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hardcastle at their home on Topping road, Town and Country, for members of the immediate families of the engaged couple. Dr. and Mrs. Leo M. Shanley are planning an evening party at the University Club. Mr. and Mrs. John Brooke Prentis III (Nancy Bland) will be host and hostess at an evening party for members of the bridal party. Mrs. Prentis will be a bridesmaid.

The prospective bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Jules Ross, 10 Roclare lane, Town and Country, and the late Mr. Ross. Thomas Schneider will serve as his best man. A list of the ushers will be announced later. Mrs. Ross will be hostess at a dinner at the Missouri Athletic Club after the rehearsal the evening of June 22.

Miss Jackes's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Franklin Jackes, 7300 Princeton avenue, University City, will give the wedding reception at Bellerive Country Club.

Out-of-Town Guests Entertained Here.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN M. BLACK, 18 Godwin lane, Ladue, have as their house guests Mr. and Mrs. Paul R. Roller of Las Altos, Calif. The Rollers, who arrived Friday, are spending a week here. In St. Louis for a reunion with the Blacks and Rollers are Mr. and Mrs. Edward Morch of New York who are staying at the Park Plaza Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bock, former St. Louisans, departed Sunday for their home in Spring Lake, N.J., after a three-week stay. They were guests at the Forest Park Hotel. Numerous small parties were given for the Bocks, among them dinners by Mr. and Mrs. Chester W. Kotsrean, Mr. and Mrs. Ralf Toensfeldt and Mr. and Mrs. William R. Gentry Jr. In addition there were several luncheons.

St. Louisans See Chicago Art Collections.

A WEEKEND of visiting art galleries and viewing private art collections in Chicago was enjoyed by a large group of St. Louisans who flew to Chicago Saturday morning and returned here Sunday night. The weekend was arranged in conjunction with the Chicago Art Institute.

On arrival at Midway Field the St. Louisans went to the Art Institute where they had coffee with the members of the women's board. They toured the institute and heard a lecture by John Maxon, fine arts director, and saw the Art Rental and Sales Gallery there. Mrs. Louis Hardin, co-owner of the Fairweather-Hardin Gallery, was hostess at cocktails and luncheon at her home, after which the collections of Samuel Marx and Leigh Block were seen and the Feigen and Fairweather-Hardin Galleries visited.

Sunday morning a chartered bus took the visitors to see the Maremont collection in the Mies van der Rohe Building of the School of Architecture at Illinois Institute of Technology. After luncheon in Chicago's new convention hall, the Ludgin, Nathan Cummings and the Newman collections were open to the visitors. The final event of the weekend was a cocktail party given by Mrs. Corson Ellis at her home. While in Chicago the St. Louisans were guests at the Sheraton Towers Hotel.

Those making the trip were: Mr. and Mrs. Donald J. Meyer, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Werner II, Mrs. Henry M. Cook, Miss Martha Love, Mr. and Mrs. Warren McKinney Shapleigh, Kurt Landburg, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Baer, Mr. and Mrs. James W. Singer Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Hoskins, Dr. and Mrs. Edward Massie, Mrs. Herbert S. Alcorn, Mr. and Mrs. Milton H. Tucker, Mr. and Mrs. George H. Schlapp, William Julius Polk Jr., Homer E. Sayad, Mrs. George Herbert Walker III, Mrs. William T. Chafee of Denver, former St. Louisan who is visiting here; John M. Harney, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Tucker, Mr. and Mrs. Gerard P. Brownlee Jr., Dr. and Mrs. Harold A. Franklin, Miss Ingrid Isenburg, Miss Rose Henke, Mrs. Earl Maynard Johnston and Merrill Rueppel, assistant director of the City Art Museum.

Miss Rudman Wins Honors at University.

MISS LINDA SUE RUDMAN, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Leonard Rudman, 1 Hacienda drive, Ladue, has won first prize in a creative writing contest at the University of Wisconsin. An accomplished pianist, she has written original music for a skit called "Humorology," to be given soon on the campus by her sorority, Alpha Epsilon Phi.

MISS LINDA RUDMAN . . . Wins Contest.

Mrs. Rudman went to Madison for Mother's Day weekend last Friday. She will return to St. Louis today.

Miss Rudman, who will be graduated in June, has been accepted at the University of Missouri School of Medicine for the fall semester.

Miss Rudman's sister, Miss Barbara Lee Rudman, is also an accomplished musician. A pianist, she has been a soloist with the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra and has played concerts at the City Art Museum and at several Junior League functions. She holds a degree from Juilliard School of Music, New York, and is working toward her master's degree in music at Washington University.

Honored in the East

THE MAY MEETING for the Auxiliary of the Convent of the Good Shepherd will be held at the convent, 3801 Gravois avenue, May 10 at 10 a.m. Bishop Glennon P. Flavin will offer Mass at 11 o'clock. Luncheon will be served by the Sisters at 12:30 o'clock. Mrs. Edmund S. Beckett, president, will preside at the business session.

Installation, Luncheon for Music Club

By Fay Profilet

"PETTICOAT FAIR," was the theme for the annual luncheon today given by the Musical Research Club at Le Chateau. Mrs. William H. O'Donley, in charge of the program, wrote the script in collaboration with Mrs. Fred L. Schaller.

The dining room was decorated to resemble a fairground with a maypole in the center. Booths were scattered about and a "race track" outlined the room. A large group of member participated. Mrs. Floyd L. Houghland was guest violinist and Mrs. Jules A. Gwinner was accompanist.

The following officers were installed: Mrs. Ralph H. Baumgartner, president; Miss Virginia Sodemann, second vice president; Mrs. Joseph E. Garden, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Norman R. Brice, auditor; Mrs. Leroy Hartt, Mrs. Clifford J. Siegrist and Mrs. Theodore C. Wetterau, directors.

MRS. HENRY O. STEINMETZ, 4019 Carnation drive, Maple Hills, will be hostess to the Daughters of the Utah Pioneers at a luncheon and meeting Thursday at 11:30 a.m. She will be assisted by Mrs. Harry B. Offield. Women descendants of pioneers who went to Utah before 1869 may become members. A national organization, the St. Louis group has been active for several years. At the present time the Daughters of Utah Pioneers in St. Louis are gathering funds to erect a monument in Jefferson National Expansion Memorial in honor of the pioneers.

The Mothers' Club of St. Louis University School of Commerce and Finance will meet next Tuesday in the alumni room of David Shaunessy Hall, 3674 Lindell boulevard. Mrs. Samuel Forder will give a book review. Mrs. Joseph Lipic is president and the Rev. Joseph E. Boland, S.J., is moderator.

D.A.R. Chapter Plans Meeting

THE ANNUAL luncheon and business meeting of the Webster Groves Chapter, D.A.R. will be held Thursday at noon at Webster Hills Methodist Church, 698 West Lockwood avenue. Mrs. Raymond L. Williams, regent, will preside at the business meeting.

Mrs. A. Victor Reese, program chairman, will present Mrs. Newbold L. Pierson, national defense chairman, who will give an account of the national D.A.R. seventieth Continental Congress held in Washing April 17 through April 21.

Annual reports will be made by chapter officers and committee chairmen.

Mrs. Ralph L. Claypool, chaplain, will conduct the memorial service for Mrs. Lon Harper and Mrs. John B. Brunner.

Central College Mothers' Club will meet Friday at Grace Methodist Church at 11 a.m. After luncheon a program, "Legends of Trees and Flowers," will be presented by Mrs. William F. Schoening. Clothing for the Navajo Indians will be collected by the club this month.

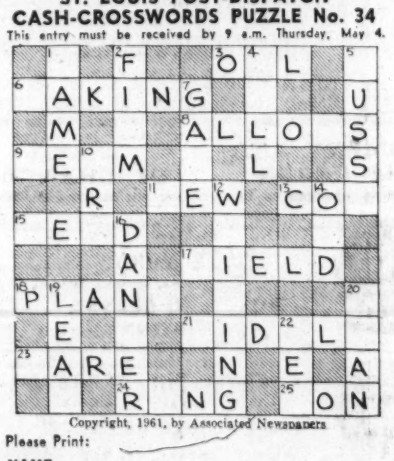
ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH
CASH-CROSSWORDS PUZZLE No. 34
This entry must be received by 9 a.m. Thursday, May 4.



Copyright, 1961, by Associated Newspapers

Please Print:
NAME _____
ADDRESS _____
CITY _____ STATE _____
PASTE THIS ON A 3c POSTCARD and mail to CASH-CROSSWORDS, Box 648, Central Station, St. Louis 88, Mo. Or bring it to the puzzle box in the Post-Dispatch lobby, 12th and OLIVE Streets. Contestants who DRIVE to 12th & Olive will PLEASE OBSERVE PARKING REGULATIONS.

NOTE: The Associated Newspapers, originator of this puzzle, have mailed the correct answers directly to the Mercantile Trust Company, St. Louis, where they will be kept sealed in the vault until after 9 a.m. Thursday. The St. Louis Post-Dispatch did not prepare this puzzle and does not have the answers in advance. The Official Rules of the contest are as follows:

1. Solve this puzzle as you would work any crossword puzzle, printing in the blank spaces the missing letters to form the word which you believe BEST fits the definition.
2. Fill in your name and complete address on the entry form, and print the first letter of your last name in the square indicated. Then cut along the dotted lines and paste the complete entry on a 3-cent postcard. Address the postcard to CASH-CROSSWORDS, Box 648, Central Station, St. Louis 88, Missouri.
3. All entries for Puzzle No. 34 must be received not later than 9 A.M., Thursday, May 4th. Entries may be mailed or may be delivered in person to the Cash-Crosswords box in the Post-Dispatch lobby, 12th and OLIVE Streets.
4. $37,000 in cash will be paid for the correct solution to Puzzle No. 34. If more than one contestant submits the correct solution, the prize will be divided equally among the winners. If no correct solution is received, the cash award for Puzzle No. 35 will be $38,000.
5. Only correctness of solution will count, not decorations. There is only ONE answer that in the judges' opinion is the BEST word to fit the definition of each clue. Decisions of the judges are final, and all contestants agree to accept those decisions as a condition of entry.
6. There is no limit to the number of entries a contestant may submit, except that no more than five facsimile copies of each puzzle will be accepted from any contestant. All facsimiles must be accurately hand-drawn directly on the backs of 3-cent postcards. No carbon copies or reproductions made by mechanical processes will be accepted. It is not necessary to buy the Post-Dispatch to compete in this contest.
7. Any resident of Missouri, Arkansas or Illinois (excluding Cook County) may enter the contest except (1) employes of The Pulitzer Publishing Company, its advertising agency and members of their households; (2) any person who has won $1,000 or more in any previous newspaper contest. No more than one prize will be awarded to the residents of any one household.
8. Names of winners if any, and the correct solution to Puzzle No. 34 will be published in the Post-Dispatch Sunday, May 7. A new puzzle will appear on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, May 7, 8 and 9.
9. Each contestant who submits the correct solution to a Cash-Crosswords Puzzle agrees to certify (1) that the answers were not obtained from any source outside of the contestant's household and (2) that the contestant has not acted for or in collaboration with any person who is not eligible to compete in this contest.
10. The Post-Dispatch is not responsible for entries that are lost, that arrive too late, that are incorrectly filled out or illegible. It also reserves the right to correct typographical errors and to discontinue the contest at its discretion.
11. A $100.00 BONUS WILL BE PAID FOR THE CORRECT SOLUTION IF IT IS SUBMITTED ON A POSTCARD AND NOT ENCLOSED IN AN ENVELOPE. If there is more than one winner the $100.00 bonus will be equally divided.

Martha Carr's OPINION

Is He Too 'Kind Hearted'?

Dear Martha:

IN ONE OF YOUR REPLIES to letters, you said that no woman likes a man she can boss around. Well, I'm 23 and the girl I have been going with for five months is 18. We plan on being married after this girl graduates from college. All my friends know how kind hearted I am. I go out of my way to do things for people. I've done a lot for my girl and her friends but I wonder if I should keep on being kind hearted and help when I can or give excuses sometimes. Another thing I am wondering is if the man should make the plans for evening dates or should he go where the girl wants to go? I always do what the girl wants to but when I think about it I get scared over that phrase about women not liking men they can boss around.

KIND HEARTED.

There's a difference between being kind hearted and being mousey. If there comes a time when you think this girl is expecting more of you than she should, then's the time to call a halt in the proceedings. As for making plans for dates, it might be wise to occasionally do the planning yourself for something like a ball game, a soccer match or an art exhibit. Anything in which you are interested. If she balks on a date of this kind with the explanation that she isn't interested in ball games or art exhibits, you can be fairly sure that she's the type who has to have her own way and if she isn't bossing you around now, it's 10 to one she'll try after you're married.

Dear Martha Carr:

I HAVE JUST RETURNED to St. Louis after spending 10 years in California. I have been trying to locate some old friends here. I think they could be located through the Harvard Club but cannot find this in the yellow pages of the directory under "clubs."

HARVARD DAUGHTER.

The Harvard Club is listed in the regular phone directory. The address is 915 Olive street, the phone MAin 1-2000.

IN ANSWER TO "J.C.A.": Martha will not print poison-pen letters. However, if you will send me your name to show you are writing in good faith, I will contact the owner of this company where you claim an employe was disabled for life, without receiving compensation or reimbursement for doctor bills.

Dear Martha Carr:

I AM 29 and have never been married. I had two wonderful men wanting to marry me. One gave up recently and said I had to decide between the two of them. The other one I now see five nights a week but I would also like to see the one who gave up. Should I marry the one I'm seeing five nights a week?

UNDECIDED.

Clean the slate and start over. You're not being fair with these two men. You obviously aren't in love with either one enough to marry. When the right man comes along you'll know it and you won't have to write to Martha for advice.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "Disillusioned Attendant": I am very much interested in your letter. Will you call Martha Carr at the Post-Dispatch, MAin 1-1111? I feel you can help me. Your information will be kept in strictest confidence.

Send a self-addressed, stamped envelope for Martha's leaflet "Names for the New Baby" and "Bedtime Prayers and Graces to be Said at Table."

Bronchiectasis

BRONCHIECTASIS IS A DISEASE which doesn't get nearly the publicity it deserves.

The combination of symptoms gives the doctor a very good clue to the presence of the disease. Added to the ones I mentioned yesterday, the doctor may detect gurgly moisture in the lungs, and this is highly suggestive of bronchiectasis although, of course, like so many symptoms, it may be found in other diseases, too. The pattern of symptoms is usually what a physician looks for. A group of symptoms gives the answer, whereas a single symptom can be extremely misleading.

DR. MOLNER

WITH BRONCHIECTASIS, which is a dilation of the bronchial tubes or the smalled branches of them, the confirmation is often made by X-ray.

An ordinary chest X-ray may show signs that are suggestive of this disease, but a special type, called a bronchogram, is required for a positive answer.

A bronchogram, also called "lung mapping," involves the introduction of fluid into the affected areas, the fluid showing in the X-ray the "puddling" which is characteristic in the dilated passages.

Treatment varies, depending on the severity of the case.

Sometimes postoral drainage helps a great deal—that is, having the patient rest with head lower than the chest, so the accumulated mucus can drain out of the expanded pockets, rather than having to be coughed up. After a little period of trying to do it by coughing, the patient gets understandably tired of the effort!

Antibiotics are a logical and useful adjunct. There is infection present, and until it is cleared up, there is no reason to expect the trouble to repair itself.

If the case is extensive, or if bleeding has occurred, then surgical removal of the affected area may be advisable. Heavy hemorrhage, after all, can be serious and even fatal.

Some years ago surgery involving the lung was a difficult undertaking. However, in the last decade or two, the situation has changed. Antibiotics, newer surgical techniques, blood transfusions, better anesthesia, and some lesser factors, have made enormous improvement in the success of such operations.

I do not favor surgery unless other treatments don't help, or cannot be expected to help. If surgery is needed, then go ahead confidently. In bronchiectasis, the patient's outlook is five times as good with surgery as without it.

For the final questions: I don't know about liquor, but I certainly will say that smoking certainly will aggravate bronchiectasis, and the "continued cold" is quite characteristic. So without any ifs, ands or buts, I decidedly say: Stop smoking.

NOTE TO L. M.: There is no cure for vitiligo. Modern drugs sometimes help very much; sometimes they don't. And sometimes vitiligo goes away spontaneously. In any event, it is not dangerous or harmful. It just has an odd appearance.

Buster Crabbe, Bitter Tarzan

By Margaret McManus

A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, May. 2.

BUSTER CRABBE, an Olympic star in the early 1930s, who established 16 world swimming records and 35 national records, looks back on his career as a movie actor with some bitterness and regrets. He has none of this about his career as an athlete.

A tall, husky, sun-tanned man with the broad, powerful shoulders of a swimmer, carefully watching his diet, he told briefly and succinctly how he happened to go into the movies.

"I was a first-year law student at the University of Southern California and I got a place on the United States Olympic swimming team," he said. "I was getting a lot of publicity in 1932 and one day, while I was living out at the Olympic Village, a truck from Paramount came out and they picked 40 of us to take a screen test for a Tarzan picture.

"I did it as a big lark. Acting had never entered my head. I always thought there was something a little odd about the kids in school who went out for plays. A couple of weeks later, the guy from Paramount came back and asked 10 of us to come back for another test.

"You know how they finally picked me? They got 25 secretaries on the Paramount lot to watch the screen tests and vote for their choice for Tarzan. I won. They offered me $100 a week. I didn't think twice. My folks didn't have any money. I'd been making $12 a week, putting myself though school, working as a clerk in a stock room. I took it. There went my career as a lawyer. That may have been my first big mistake."

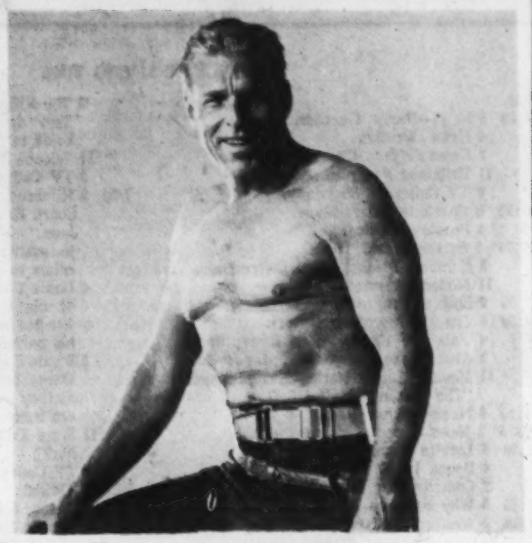
Crabbe, who grew up in Honolulu, where his father was overseer at a pineapple plantation, said it was clearly a mistake that he started his Hollywood career at the top. He was the seventh in a line of Tarzans that now numbers 13. "King of the Jungle" was a super-collossal production that made him a star and then dropped him right to the bottom of the well of anonymity.

"It was a bad start," he said. "I should have learned how to act with experience in small parts and had some place to climb. Paramount kept me around, but they pushed me into bit parts in punk pictures. I never got any help from a good director. Just because I was a swimmer doesn't mean I was a dummy. I could have learned to be a good actor.

"I've been in B pictures all my life. Just go down to Forty-second street here in New York and see some of those B movies. I'm in all of them. I still have an ambition to be in one good movie, working with a top director."

He said, however, that his championship swimming has served him well.

"Swimming has always been an asset to me," he said. "It's given me a livelihood, and opportunities I'd never have had without it. I swim every day. I still enjoy the exercise."



BUSTER CRABBE

Crabbe and his wife, Virginia, now live in an apartment in Pelham, in Westchester county here, but they also have a house in Brentwood, in Los Angeles. They bought this home when their daughter, Susan, decided she wanted to leave Wellesley after her freshman year to go to college at UCLA.

"We thought it would be nice to have a house out there so Susan could bring her friends home for the weekend, all that stuff," he said. "Naturally, we'd hardly moved in when she met this boy and announced to us that she wanted to get married."

Susan is now Mrs. Nicholas Holt and has a year-old daughter, Linden, named for her father, Clarence Linden Crabbe.

"That makes it clear, doesn't it? Why my father called me Buster," said Crabbe. "I know it's a juvenile name, but I got used to it and I never had any desire to change it."

Crabbe also has a son, Cuppy, 16, who appeared with him on his Captain Gallant television series. This series, which was seen on network television for four years, continues to be shown around the country in syndication.

"Speaking of mistakes," said Crabbe. "I was offered a western series six years ago. I turned it down because I thought, at that time, television was certainly surfeited with westerns and the fad must be about to run out. I have made some beauts, but this must be one of my best."

Still, Crabbe does not lack for enterprises. He is director of water sports at the Concord Hotel in Kiamesha Lake in New York. He is associated with a company which manufactures Buster Crabbe Swim Pools. He owns and runs a summer camp for boys, Camp Meenahga, near Saranac Lake.

"I think I get the biggest satisfaction out of the camp," he said. "If you get a bratty kid in June and turn him into a reasonably nice boy by Labor Day, it's pretty rewarding. When you look back, you know, you like to feel you've done something worthwhile."

TV Notes and Gossip

DAVID BRINKLEY will have a weekly half-hour "news column" on NBC-TV beginning in the fall. It will be on every Wednesday night. Brinkley says the program will be more comment on the news than news itself—an "information program."

SNOOKY LANSON . . . Among stars of "Five Star Jubilee" on NBC-TV. The show will be in color beginning May 12.

ALL EIGHT of the Warner Brothers television programs now on ABC-TV have been renewed for next season. They are "Maverick," "Lawman," "Cheyenne," "Surfside 6," "Hawaiian Eye," "77 Sunset Strip," "The Roaring 20s" and "Bugs Bunny." ABC-TV will add another Warner Brothers show, "Room for One More."

DAVE GARROWAY, whose wife, Pamela, died last week of an overdose of barbiturates, is taking a two-week leave from his NBC-TV morning program, "Today." John Daly is substituting for him.

NEXT SATURDAY'S "St. Louis Hop" and next Monday's "Charlotte Peters Show," both on KSD-TV, will originate in the downtown store of Stix, Baer and Fuller.

"THE CORRUPTERS," starring Steve McNally and Robert Harland, will be an ABC-TV entry in September. The hour-long series centers around a newsman's campaign to expose organized crime.

ABC-TV is planning to merge its "The Rebel" series with another titled "The Yank" into a full-hour Civil War series for its Wednesday night schedule next season. The show will replace "Hong Kong."

Uncle Ray's Column

Hot Spots in Universe

The fourth grade, Schneider School, Columbia, S. C., is awarded a set of the World Book Encyclopedia by Uncle Ray for their fine questions. Pupils in fourth through twelfth grade classes in public, parochial or private schools may win a complete set of the World Book Encyclopedia for their classrooms by submitting questions to Uncle Ray. Ask your teacher to choose the best five questions submitted by your class on history, science, biography or geography and send them to Uncle Ray, in care of the Post-Dispatch.

By Ramon Coffman

A SCHOOL CLASS would like to know:

"What is the hottest spot in the universe?"

The hottest spot must be the central part of a star. Our sun is extremely hot inside, but many stars are believed to be far hotter.

Q. Are any stars less hot than the sun?"

A. Stars in large number have a surface temperature less than one-third of the sun's surface temperature.

Our sun is classed as a "yellow star." It is less hot than a white star, and far less hot than a blue-white star. Some blue-white stars have surface temperatures of 90,000 degrees Fahrenheit, or nine times the sun's surface temperature.

The inside of the sun is estimated to have a temperature of about 45,000,000 degrees. Do I need to add that the figure is "above zero"?

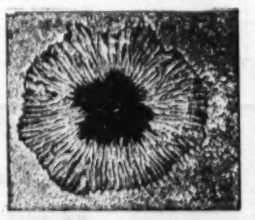
We might expect the larger stars to be hotter than those of middle size, but astronomers assure us that the facts are different. The giants and supergiants among the stars (commonly red or reddish) often have a surface temperature far below yellow stars.

To pick out a certain star (known to be very hot) and to mark it as the hottest in the universe would be a mistake. Much of the universe is yet to be studied.

It is likely, however, that the hottest star is blue or blue-white. The inside heat surely is to be measured in hundreds of millions of degrees, and may be more than 500,000,000 degrees.

For SCIENCE section of your scrapbook.

Prehistoric Animals is the name of a new leaflet by Uncle Ray which tells fascinating facts about Dinosaurs and contains 12 illustrations of these great animals. To get a copy send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Uncle Ray in care of the Post-Dispatch.



Many stars may have spots like this sunspot, but we are without proof.
